

Grid Team Plays First Blue-White Game Today

Netmen Will Meet Tough Lehigh Foe

Penn State football fans can get an idea of what to expect next fall, when the Lion grid-ers play the first of two Blue-White games this afternoon on Beaver Field.

The game is scheduled to begin right after the track meet which should end about 3 p.m.

The Blue-White game is an annual affair that brings spring football practice to a close. But this year practice had to be extended an extra week because of three early rainouts.

So next Saturday the Nittanians will play another game which will officially end spring drills.

Coach Rip Engle has divided his squad into two teams for this afternoon's scrimmage. One team will wear white jerseys and the other blue.

The teams are divided equally with lettermen and freshmen. And there are other holdovers who round out each squad.

Today's game is also being held for the benefit of some 120 football coaches who are attending the annual Penn State football clinic.

They, as well as the fans, will have the opportunity of seeing two of Penn State's top stars—quarterback Richie Lucas and fullback Pat Botula—perform for the Blue team today.

Lucas split the quarterback job with Al Jacks last fall, while Botula was one of the leading ground gainers on the Nittany eleven even though he missed part of the season due to an elbow injury.

Sam Sobczak, who played fullback most of last season, will start at left half and Jack Urban will be the starting right half for the Blue squad.

According to backfield coach Joe Paterno, Urban has been the "surprise" of spring drills so far. "If he were only a little bit bigger he would really be something," Paterno said.

The White's backfield, on the other hand, will be made up almost entirely of newcomers. Galen Hall will be the quarterback, and his running mate on the freshman team, Roger Kochman, will be the left half. Denny Schaeffer will be at fullback and Dick Pae is slated for action at right half.

Both teams boast plenty of veteran linemen. Norm Neff and Henry Opperman will be the ends for the Blue team while Andy Siyochula and Tom Mulraney will be the tackles.

Frank Korbini and Dick Butterfield will be the starting guards for the Blue and freshman Jay Huffman is the center.

John Bozick, an end, tackles Charley Janerette and Stu Barber, and guards Sam Stellatella and Bill Popp are veteran linemen slated for duty with the White.

Penn State's tennis team, currently sporting a dismal 1-5 record, will face one of its toughest opponents today when the Lions play Lehigh at Bethlehem.

The Engineers, led by Lowell Latshaw, defending Middle Atlantic singles champion, could very well stop the Lions today.

Latshaw, a junior, has captured more than 30 junior men's championships in eastern amateur play, and was ranked first among junior players by the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association for the states of Pennsylvania, Delaware, and New Jersey.

Lion captain Chuck Bibleheimer will have the rugged task of trying to upset the Lehigh star.

Sherm Fogg, Lion tennis coach, pleased with the play of junior Jerry Carp, has named the lone singles victor in the Bucknell match to hold down the second position.

Gary Moore will play in the third slot, and Don McCartney will be fourth man. John Blanck and John Krall, who both forced their Bucknell opponents to three sets before bowing Wednesday, will again play fifth and sixth man respectively.

The doubles combinations will be Bibleheimer and Carp, who have come along very well as a team, according to Fogg, Moore and Dick Ludwig, and McCartney and Blanck. The latter two turned in the lone doubles win against the Bisons.

Last year's match against the Engineers was cancelled because of rain.

Monday, the Lions will engage another tough foe when Navy invades University Park.

Navy, looking at comparative scores, seems to hold the edge over the Blue and White. They downed Bucknell while the Lion netters dropped a 7-2 decision in their last outing.

make a clean sweep. But this is not the thing to watch.

Moran and Englebrink, who have been consistently approaching nearer and nearer to that magical 4-minute mark should find their only competition in the clock.

The 220, 440 and 880 shape up as the closest races.

Coach Werner will count on Bob Brown and Blaine O'Connor to withstand the threat posed by the Buck captain, Storer, in the 220, and Dick Hambright and Bill Schwab will race the same man for 440 honors. OSU's Dick Strayer could cause some trouble for Don Davies and George Jones in the 880-yard run.

The addition of the javelin throw to the program, which is not a regular Big 10 event, increases the Nittanians scoring potential in the field events, but the Buckeyes are still favored in the high jump, pole vault, broad jump, shot put and discus.

conyl, who was injured in the Navy game.

The midfield will have Bob Swanson, Ray Tuleya and Dick Bullock making up the starting unit. Chip Henderson, who has been scoring constantly for the Lions, will be back in his spot in the second midfield.

John Behne, leading scorer for the Lions thus far, will head the attack unit. Jim Wimpenny and Jim Kane will fill out the remaining attack slots.

85th Derby Classic To Be Run Today

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—The starting gate snaps open this afternoon in the most unpredictable Kentucky Derby in the memory of old timers (with 18 thoroughbreds scheduled to perform in the 1 1/4 mile classic.

If all show up for the 85th running, it will be the second richest derby with a purse of $165,000. The winner would net $120,000, second only to the $123,450 earned by Needles in 1956.

The weather man predicted a fast track, mostly sunny skies, and a temperature of 84 degrees by post time, 4:30 p.m., EST.

Odds makers pick First Landing, owned by Christopher T. Cheney of Virginia and New York. He was quoted at 3 to 1 and will be ridden by Eddie Arcaro, the leading derby jockey. Arcaro will be seeking his sixth victory.

But Tomy Lee, the British-bred, Texas owned, and California-raced colt of Fred Turner Jr., could wind up as the favorite when the mobs march on the parimutuel windows. Tomy Lee was listed at 4 to 1. Willie Shoemaker, his rider, won with California's Swaps four years ago.

The biggest unanswered question is Calumet Farm's On-and-On. Trainer Jimmy Jones hasn't decided whether the colt will run.

Jones and Calumet have won the trophy two consecutive years with Iron Liege and Tim Tam. Nobody ever has won three straight.

Jockey Johnny Heckman galloped On-and-On Friday, and presumably will be aboard if Calumet shoots for its eighth derby.

The uncertainty caused the Downs parimutuel department to place On-and-On in the mutual field with five others, at odds of 20 to 1.

There isn't a seat available in the huge stands which run from the head of the stretch where the race starts and down around the first turn. The derby usually attracts an estimated 100,000.

The race will be broadcast and televised nationally (CBS) from 4:15-4:45 p.m. EST.
