New Cabinet Will Discuss Bills, Plans

The Student Government Association Cabinet, at its first official meeting at 9 tonight, will discuss two legislative bills and Cabinet organizations plans.

Both bills were presented to Assembly last Thursday night by Walter Darran (C.Jr.). One bill would establish a student town housing safety committee and the other would provide for parking meters on campus.

Cabinet consists of SGA president Leonard Julius, SGA vice president Larry Byers, SGA secretary-treasurer Nancy Clark, WSGA president Jessie Janjigian, AIM president Harold Sandstrom, IFC president Gary Gentzler, Leonides president Carol Frank, Panhellenic Council president Carol Dominick and ICCB president David Epstein.

The purpose of SGA Cabinet is to serve the SGA president in an advisory and administrative capacity. All executive powers are invested in Julius as SGA president and the official representative of the student body.

Included in his powers is prerogative to veto any legislation within a week of its passage, although this veto can be overridden by a two-thirds vote of the constitutional membership of Assembly.

Julius may also call special sessions of Assembly and recommend legislation. He has the power to appoint all chairmen and members of the executive branch of SGA, pending the approval of Assembly.

Disorderly Conduct Results in Fines For Two Students

Two University students were fined for disorderly conduct over the weekend by Justice of the Peace Guy G. Mills.

David J. Steines, freshman in science from Sharon, was fined $36 for creating a disturbance around East Beaver Avenue late Friday night. He was directing traffic under the influence of alcohol, according to Justice Mills.

Lawrence W. Lock, graduate student in physics, was fined $10 for creating a disturbance early Sunday morning in the Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity house. Lock claimed he was a federal investigator seeking information, according to Justice Mills.

Both students paid the fines and were released.

In 1685, the first printing press outside of New England was assembled by William Bradford in Philadelphia. Last year newspapers all over the United States and Canada invested more money to improve their plants and equipment than in any previous year.

 • Photographs must be submitted within two weeks and must have the name and address of sender on the back.
 • All photographs will be returned except the winning picture.

Antique autos reminiscent of the flapper era of the twenties will drive the stars of the show to Schwab Auditorium. Premier arrangements have been made by Ivan Ladizinsky, stage manager for the production, and Stanley Epstein, vocal director.

Carlene Rarick, sophomore in arts and letters from Seaford, Del., will play the lead role that won fame for Julie Andrews on Broadway. The musical, written by Sandy Wilson, is a light parody on the music popular in England (and the United States) in the twenties. The show first opened in an off-beat theatre in London and later hit the 'big time' on London's West-end before coming to New York.

The orchestra for "The Boy Friend" will be conducted by James Shugert, junior in music education from Huntingdon.

Members of the orchestra are Judith Kaman, Evelyn Schultz, Robert Noel, Todd Coward, David Boltz, Wayne Radcliffe, Ira Dorman, Jesse Koontz, Henry Deemer, Patricia Frank and George Bentrem.

Tickets for the production, to run this weekend only, are on sale at the Hetzel Union desk. A limited number of seats still are available for Saturday night and center seats are available for both Friday and Saturday nights.

3 Students Win Prizes For Poetry

Three students have won $25 prizes for poems submitted to Pivot, the Poetry Workshop magazine, which goes on sale today.

Robert Hostetter, senior in psychology from Johnstown, won the new Anthony James Grucci Award. Carole Rosenbloom, junior in education from Pittsburgh, and James Miller, sophomore in arts and letters from Pottstown, will share the Samuel Barsky award.

The Poetry Workshop, English composition 13, uses the poems of students taking the course in its magazine.

Joseph L. Grucci, associate professor of English composition and director of the workshop, pointed out that the chief value of the publication is to serve as an outlet for the creative talents of all students at the University.

The magazine is self-sustaining and its circulation has passed the 1000 mark.

In addition to circulation among students and faculty here, the magazine is known to teachers of creative writing in more than 200 colleges and universities.

Copies of the magazine will be sold for 25 cents at the Hetzel Union desk and on the mall.

Senate--

 All freshmen in the college are classified as engineering students rather than a specific major.

The committee says the common freshman year program would "postpone the present professional or vocational orientation of the incoming students and substitute an educational orientation for the freshman year."

The committee report says that admission to a specific college or curriculum would not begin until the sophomore year and under certain conditions, "specifically at the Commonwealth Campuses," a student could be left in the basic program through his sophomore year.

The committee believes that the new program will aid colleges and departments to plan better, give better counseling to upperclassmen and honor students and would make instruction on all campuses "more uniform, meaningful and logical."

The Senate will also hear reports from committees on student affairs, academic standards, courses of study, extension policy and scholarships and awards.

'Miss Panhel' Award Will Honor Dean

An annual Phi Sigma Sigma "Miss Panhel" award will be given to an outstanding sorority woman in honor of Retiring Dean of Women Pearl O. Weston.

An engraved plaque was presented to the retiring dean at a meeting of Panhellenic Council last night by Mrs. Sy Barash, advisor to Phi Sigma Sigma sorority.

Mrs. Barash said that the award was given in recognition of Miss Weston's service to the University and her support of panhellenic activities.

The plaque will be presented next year at the Greek Week banquet. It will be displayed in the dean of women's office until then.

Carol Dominick, panhellenic president, announced that the council would hold a reception for Dr. Dorothy Lipp, new dean of women, next fall. The reception will take place on Sept. 20.

The council voted to have I.B.M. preferential bidding during informal rushing next fall.

The proposal to have bidding through the individual chapters after a rushee has made three visits to a sorority was defeated.

Nancy Gilliland, assistant rush chairman, announced the program for informal rush.

Registration will be held on Sept. 24 but open registration will be held in the dean of women's office until rushing begins. This is to accommodate girls who decide to rush after official registration begins.

Open houses will be held on
