

Senate Sets Up Assembly Honors Plan

By NEAL FRIEDMAN

The University Senate after lengthy debate yesterday set up minimum administrative and academic requirements for an honors program.

Under the program, a student must be invited into it and meet certain requirements. Upon completion of the honors

Senate Takes Swift Action To Halt Noise

The Senate-Go-Round" turned a little faster yesterday when an ad hoc committee took just five minutes to accomplish its mission.

John R. Rackley, dean of the College of Education, was proposing an amendment to the honors program the Senate was in the process of approving.

He had just about begun stating his amendment when he was drowned out by some ROTC cadets passing near 121 Sparks, where the Senate was meeting.

Lawrence Dennis, chairman of the meeting and vice president for academic affairs, appointed Capt. John P. Roach, professor of naval science, chairman of a 3-man committee "to do what you think is necessary" to stop the cadets from counting cadence and preventing Rackley from being heard.

Others on the committee were Hummel Fishburn, professor of music and music education; and Charles Speidel, professor of physical education and wrestling coach.

The trio came back about five minutes later and reported "it was one of those drummers" who was causing the disturbance.

Rackley's amendment was defeated through no fault of the ROTC cadets.

Indies Extend Deadline For Banquet Tickets

The deadline for picking up tickets to the AIM-Leonides banquet has been extended to 5 p.m. Monday.

Tickets for the banquet to be held Wednesday at the Eutaw House cost $3 each and may be picked up at the Hetzel Union desk.

program he will be awarded his degree "with honors."

The Senate took no action on the proposal of its Committee on Educational Policy to abandon the present system of enrolling freshmen in specific curricula in favor of a series of common freshman year programs.

The report was presented for informational purposes only. The committee asked senators to submit their suggestions and comments about the proposal.

To be invited into the honor program, the student must have a 3.0 All-University average or a 4.0 average in his academic major. He must also maintain a 3.0 average to remain in the program and complete at least 12 credits designated by his department as honors course work.

The original plan called for 12 credits of honors work, nine of which must be in the student's major.

In addition, each student must take and pass a final examination. An alternate proposal in the plan—to have the student write an honors paper in addition to or in lieu of the examination—was deleted.

The honors programs will be administered by standing committees in each department. Faculty members will be assigned to teach and advise honors students as a part of their regular schedule, rather than in addition to a full load of other duties.

The original plan called for each department sponsoring an honors program to set up at least 12 credits of courses designed specifically for honors

This was done after it was pointed out that in the smaller departments there might not be enough students enrolled in the honors program to warrant setting up courses for them.

The standard University grading system will be used to record grades, but they will not be placed on the student's transcript until completion of the honors program.

Theodore Haller (C.-Sr.) was elected President Pro Tempore of the Student Government Association Assembly last night and Peter Luckie (C.-Sr.) was chosen to head the 7-member Rules Committee.

Also elected to the Rules Committee were Millie Moyer (C.-Jr.), Maryanne Ellis (C.-Soph.), Ellen Burke (C.-Sr.), Walter Darran (C.-Jr.), Howard Byers (U.-Sr.) and Mary Ann Ganter (U.-Sr.).

In other business Jay Feldstein, former All-University President, presented 18 people with Student Scholarship Awards of $150 each.

Feldstein cited the scholarship presentations as "18 reasons justifying the Student Government Association."

The scholarships are financed by interest gained on revenue collected from Spring Week and from Traffic Court. Feldstein said the scholarship fund will have accumulated approximately $1200 by June.

Thirteen scholarships were awarded last year, but increased tuition and enrollment have led to the presentation of 18 awards this year, Feldstein said.

ICCB Will Hold Reception For New Faculty Next Fall

The Intercollegiate Council Board has decided to hold a reception next fall to acquaint new faculty members with the University.

In a meeting Tuesday night, the members decided that the reception should take the form of an evening planned for the new faculty members, their wives or husbands and members of ICCB.

The evening would begin with an informal buffet dinner at 5:30 p.m. on Sept. 15 in the Hetzel Union Building. This would be followed by an information session, with both students and old faculty members participating to explain student and faculty organizations.

Following this session, the newcomers would be given a tour of the campus with emphasis on the particular building which houses each of the colleges.

David Epstein, president of the Liberal Arts Student Council and ICCB, appointed Walter Lloyd, president of the Business Administration Student Council and John Bonestell, president of the Mineral Industries Student Council to determine what information should be placed in the program. Judith Heckert, president of the Home Economics Student Council was appointed to plan the buffet dinner.

The members of the board decided that the colleges should work together with the board to provide this orientation for an estimated 100 new faculty members. Such a program would not be as effective if carried on within the individual councils because the number of new faculty members varies.

The board also discussed the possibility of revising the present grading system in favor of a tenth point system. This system would mean that the student would receive grades of 3.1, 3.2, etc., instead of a straight 3 or 4.

Another possibility would be to grade in such a way that a student could earn a 2.5 or 3.5 rather than the usual even number grade.

Student Art Displayed in HUB, Temp

By CORDIE LEWIS

The Annual Student Art Exhibition sponsored by the art department and the art education department, is now on display in the Hetzel Union corridor and gallery and in Temporary Building until May 19.

The exhibit is the largest to be displayed because of the increased program of the art departments.

The display includes paintings in oil and water color, sketches and drawings. There is a basic design area of the art education department which shows how basic design can be applied to other fields such as ceramics and crafts. The crafts display includes a large exhibit of jewelry made by art students.

The basic design area of the art department includes displays showing how basic design is used in lettering, architecture, and commercial art. The lettering area is made up of alphabet designs.

In the main Hetzel Union gallery there are exhibits of sculpture in wood, stone, metal and plastic. Some of the metal sculpturing was done in cooperation with the industrial engineering department. Paintings and drawings by students of both departments are on display in the gallery.

The corridors of Temporary Building have been turned into galleries exhibiting paintings and drawings of the students. One room of the building is devoted to a selection of design work. A complete display of sculpturing is located in the courtyard.

All displays were done by students from the two departments. The exhibits have been arranged by Dr. Stuart H. Frost, Prof. George Pappas and Prof. George Soretick all of the art department.

A reception for visiting parents will be held in the HUB from 3 to 5 p.m. Sunday.
