

Chapel Choir To Visit Europe

By NANCY KLING

Over 65 members of the University Chapel Choir will leave July 15 for more than a month's stay in Europe.

The group, which includes four alumni and 9 members of the Meditation Chapel Choir, will leave from Idlewild Airport in New York.

BusAd to Offer 2-Year Program

A two-year associate degree program in business administration will be offered beginning with the fall semester.

It is expected that 30 students will be admitted to the new curriculum which will be taught at the Ogontz campus of the University.

Ossian MacKenzie, dean of the College of Business Administration, explains that the new program, as approved by the Board of Trustees, provides for about 45 per cent of the courses in general business subjects and the remaining 55 per cent in the arts and sciences.

He explains that in planning the program, University officials discussed it with numerous leaders in the field of industry and business to determine not only the need for a 2-year terminal program but the type of training they felt students completing such a program should have.

Penn State Bridge Club Sponsors Weekly Game

Cards take the spotlight at 7 p.m. every Monday at the Hertz Union card room where members of the Penn State Bridge Club meet each week for their duplicate bridge game.

Master points will be awarded every week.

2 Artists Added To Program

A Chinese and an American artist will be included on the faculty of the summer art program, which begins Monday.

Chen Chi, a Chinese artist who has steadily gathered honors in this country since 1947, will teach water color. Bruce Shobaken, a "new talent" nominee of the magazine "Art" in America, will teach printmaking. Shobaken, a permanent addition to the University faculty, was named an instructor of art last September.

Hobson Pittman, a Philadelphia artist, will return for his 28th year as the head of an oil painting class. Since 1932 his class has grown to the largest of its kind in the country.

He will be assisted by Warren Rohrer, faculty member of the Philadelphia Museum of Art and one of Pittman's internationally-exhibited students.

Stuart Frost, instructor in art, will teach a class in life drawing.

The graphic arts program is part of a series that also includes music and drama, each headed by a resident professional.

Students who have enrolled for the 6-week program will live in Ewing Hall.

The trip will not only involve sight-seeing but will include concerts given by the choir and attendance at lectures and festivals of cultural interest.

The first stop on the trip will be in Oxford where the group will tour different colleges and attend the music festival at Cheltenham. On Sunday, July 19, the choir will present a concert in the New College Chapel in Oxford.

While in London, an evening concert will be given by the choir at the Canterbury Cathedral. The group will then travel to Germany where a concert will be given July 29 at St. Peter's Church in Hamburg.

One of the highlights of the trip will be a tour and concert given in East Berlin.

An excursion to Potsdam is on the agenda as well as a visit to a refugee camp in Berlin.

The trip will end in Edinburgh, Scotland, where the choir will attend the opening of the Edinburgh Festival. They will also hear the Royal Philharmonic Orchestra and the Royal Stockholm Opera.

Other countries included in the tour are Poland, Denmark and Norway.

The choir will be accompanied by four University staff members: Mrs. Willa C. Taylor, director of the choir; James Beach, assistant choir director; and Dr. Margaret Benson and Dr. Frederick Rognauld, co-directors of the educational program for the trip.

Instructors to Begin AEC Conference

Twenty-two faculty members of technical institutes will receive instruction in atomic energy at an institute beginning Monday and lasting until Aug. 7.

The institute will be sponsored by the Atomic Energy Commission and the American Society for Engineering Education. The AEC has given the University a $14,000 grant for the institute.

In addition to the six weeks at the University, the group will receive two weeks of instruction at the Argonne National Laboratories in Lemont, Ill.

At the University, courses will be offered in nuclear physics, radio chemistry, instrumentation and nuclear-chemical engineering. The program will include laboratory sessions at the research reactor and experiments in health physics.

The program is designed to familiarize the teachers with nuclear principles and operational problems related to nuclear reactors and radioactive materials.

Dr. Edwin T. Williams, associate professor of chemical engineering, is the institute's director.

Twelve faculty members from the University and other institutions will conduct the institute.
