'Candida' to Be Presented

'Candida', by George Bernard Shaw will be presented by the State College Community Theatre tomorrow and Saturday, and August 28 and 29 at the Boal Barn Playhouse

Twenty-three students in advanced positions in these fields from other lands are currently receiving first-hand experience on farms throughout the various counties of Pennsylvania, after having studied the merits and preparation of visual aids in extension.

The students have all ready covered such areas of agriculture as bee and honey research, the workings of the 4-H Clubs, the philosophy and organization of extension, and the use of publicity, and have spent 18 days observing the Extension Service Summer School at Cornell University.

Still on the program for the students is a seminar on county observations, to discuss their county experiences and observation periods, a tour of southeastern Pennsylvania.

Among the countries represented at the workshop are Brazil, China, Ghana, British Guiana, Korea, Libya, Pakistan, Somalia, Sudan, Yugoslavia, and Jamaica.

Biologists To Attend Institute

Over 3300 members of 18 associations in the biological field will attend the American Institute of Biological Sciences Aug. 29 through Sept. 3 at the University.

The primary groups which will attend the institute are college professors and members of experimental stations conducted by the government. Some of the leading figures in the field of biology from the United States, Mexico and Canada will attend.

One general meeting of the group will be held and the rest of the institute will be devoted to separate meetings. At these meetings members of the associations will present papers on the latest developments in biology and the progress in biological sciences.

Each year the institute is held at a different college or university in the country. This is the first time the meetings will be held at the University.
