

—Collegian Photo by Charles Jacques

DINKS, HUNDREDS OF THEM, emerge from Schwab Auditorium. But, to greet them as they came out were hundreds of upperclassmen waiting to enter—the result, a large enforcement of customs in the way of a mass "buttoning" and cheering. Today it's Reverse Customs Day.

Nikita Hits Cold War

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev, ready to start his momentous talks with President Eisenhower, blamed the United States yesterday for the cold war, but said he thinks differences between the Soviet Union and the United States can be ironed out.

Khrushchev's last formal speech before the talks begin at Camp David, Md., late today wound up a whirlwind day in Pittsburgh.

Turnabout Customs In Effect Today

Upperclassmen will get another chance to collect names and phone numbers from freshman women today since customs will be reversed.

On "Reverse Customs" Day, freshman women must curtsy, answer questions, sing or cheer when requested by an upperclassman. Freshman men must answer only to upperclass women.

Freshman men are reminded to bow and doff their dinks when passing the Old Willow on the east side of the Mall. Freshman women are expected to curtsy when passing the Old Willow.

Donald Clagett, chairman of the Freshman Customs Board, again expressed his feeling that customs this year is "better than ever."

He said the spirit of both the freshmen and the upperclassmen has been extremely good this year.

Yesterday besides the usual groups of singing and cheering, the steps of Schwab were the location for a mass dink-doffing when freshman men poured out of ROTC meeting.

Welcoming them with shouts of "Button, all you Frosh!" was a large group of sophomore men waiting to go in to their meeting. The result was over a thousand blue dinks being lifted high in the air.

WRA Continues Open House Plan

The Women's Recreation Association will hold an open house from 7 to 9 p.m. tomorrow and Saturday in White Hall.

All the building's facilities will be available for use by campus women. The programs include swimming, bowling, badminton, volleyball, ping pong and bridge.

In the future, White Hall will be open for use on Friday evening and special programs are being planned for Saturday. These include a coed recreation night, a progressive games night and tournaments.

Right after his speech, Khrushchev drove to the airport and took off for Washington.

The strict security measures that marked his one-day visit here were kept in force to the end.

Besides police and military guards, only about 200 persons were on hand to see him off into partly overcast skies.

It was a day in which the Soviet Premier was in a gay mood as he met factory workers in the morning—he swapped his wrist watch for a cigar—and in a conciliatory mood in his after-luncheon speech.

Once again he boasted of Communist achievements, past, present and anticipated.

But he said that although the Soviet Union and the United States had their differences, yet these differences did not bar them from working toward a common goal.

On the cold war, Khrushchev had a firm conviction:

"The political cold is coming from you, and not from us. We are not afraid of the cold but we would like more favorable winds to blow."

Khrushchev was closing out a swing that took him to the West Coast and back again in eight days. He spoke to a warmly applauding audience at the University of Pittsburgh.

Though he blamed this country for the cold war, there was no sting in his words, which were read in English by an interpreter after he had made some preliminary remarks in Russian.

After the interpreter finished the set speech, Khrushchev bounced back to the microphone with some ad lib sallies that had the audience laughing.

The luncheon speech capped a typically fast-moving day for the Soviet leader.

Starting in midmorning, Khrushchev sped out to the plant of the Mesta Machinery Co., a firm which makes equipment for steel mills.

There, he needed plant officials about a lack of U.S.-Soviet trade. At one point, Khrushchev challenged them to sign a sales agreement on the spot.

Collegian Business Staff

The Daily Collegian Candidate school will begin at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday, Oct 13, for all students interested in joining this year's staff.

Prexy Places More Stress on Studies

President Eric A. Walker yesterday told the University Senate "the faculty is here to serve the better students, not the ones who flunked last semester."

Walker said the trend to more attention to academic excellence had been taken up by students at the Student Encampment, held at the Mont Alto School of Forestry Sept. 9, 10 and 11.

Cheerleaders Will Sponsor Rally Tonight

Frothy and the Nittany Lion, enthusiastic supporters of the football team, will put on a skit at the pep rally at 7 tonight on the steps of Old Main.

Before the rally the Penn State Blue Band and the cheerleaders will parade around campus. The parade will start at Carnegie Building and proceed around the dorm areas.

Dave Williams, head manager of the football team, will speak at the rally. Vincent Marino, senior in business administration from Clearfield, will be master of ceremonies.

Formerly, hat societies were assigned to aid the cheerleaders with each rally. This year the cheerleaders will take complete charge of the rallies, headed by Lawrence Buck with Lanny Dey as assistant head cheerleader.

Other members of the squad are: Patricia Eden, Lucille Capella, John Edge, Charles Hodges, Linda Speer, Jane Flint, John Glassburn, James Abbey, Tom DeRocco, Rebecca Aadden, Joan Cavanaugh and Bonnis Morriss.

Frosh Coeds Can Apply For WSGA Offices

Applications will be available beginning Monday in 101 McElwain and in the dean of women's office for all freshman women interested in becoming Women's Student Government Association Freshman Senators.

Two women will be elected in primary and final elections to fill these offices.

Matric Cards Required

Students must have matriculation cards in order to attend Saturday's football game with Virginia Military Institute.

New cards may be obtained in 104 Willard today and tomorrow morning.

One-Way Flow Of Rush Hour Traffic OK'd

The section of Pollock Rd. between the Hetzel Union Building and Shortlidge Rd. will be open for one-way traffic going east toward Shortlidge Rd. during peak rush hours to help clear congestion from the HUB parking lot.

The move is part of a plan to ease traffic congestion along Shortlidge Road especially on date nights.

Albert E. Diem, vice president for business administration, said that campus patrolmen stationed along Shortlidge Rd. have been given authority to move traffic in any direction to ease congestion during rush hours.

The measures are being taken to make the road safe for pedestrian traffic and to minimize traffic congestion at Shortlidge Rd. and College Ave.

Tentative plans call for traffic moving east on Pollock to either continue east across Shortlidge or to turn north, circling the campus.

Traffic coming out of the HUB parking lot will be directed down to College Ave.

University Establishes Management Institutes

The University has established a series of Business Management institutes throughout the state in order to aid plumbing and heating contractors with their everyday problems.

The program, operative in 17 communities, will begin this month. It is offered through the cooperation of the Pennsylvania Association of Plumbing Contractors.

Senate Approves Chi Lambda Colony

The Senate Committee on Student Affairs yesterday approved a petition by Chi Lambda Colony as a local sorority.

Following a one year period as a local group, the sorority plans to affiliate with a national Jewish sorority.

However, under University regulations, no Greek letter group may be admitted to campus if its constitution contains any discriminatory clause.

The national group the new colony now plans to affiliate with has such a clause and it must be removed from the national constitution before a chapter can be established here.

Carol Dominick, Panhellenic president, told the Daily Collegian last night that the status of the new sorority would be announced at the meeting for all rushees at 12:45 p.m. tomorrow in the Hetzel Union assembly room.

As yet, no official plan for rushing has been decided upon, since the sorority has no housing space, placing it in an irregular position, Miss Dominick said.

There are 23 nationally affiliated sororities on campus and one colony. Chi Lambda would make the second colony. Last spring, Tri Opus Colony was organized and will rush this semester, although they do not have a suite or lounge of their own.

The committee also discussed the matter of the many student groups failing to file reports with the committee. The original deadline for the reports was last February 1.

The report should contain the organization's constitution, a list of officers, advisor and an audited financial statement if it is not a member of the Associated Student Activities.

The Committee said it would take steps to ensure compliance with the regulations by the large number of groups who have not compiled the reports.

Relief Predicted From Heat Wave

The warm spell moved into its fifth day yesterday, but relief is now in sight. Drier air will move into the area today making the heat more bearable.

Even cooler weather is due tomorrow, but unfortunately the threat of rain will also be present.

The forecast calls for partly cloudy and warm weather, but it will be less humid today with a high of 82 degrees. Tonight should be partly cloudy and pleasant with a low of 57 degrees.