

Violators To Exhibit 'Penalties'

Spectators at the VMI game this afternoon will have a chance to view handiwork created by five customs violators as the penalties for their "crimes."

The five freshman will display at half-time the signs the Freshman Customs Board asked them to make for breaking various customs regulations.

Parading out on the field with Donald Clagett, chairman of the customs board, will be John Badner, William Brown, Jeff Fisher, Barbara Dipple and Roger Schwartz.

All freshman must wear their dinks and namecards to the game. The inscription on each sign was decided upon in relation to the violation.

When asked when customs will end this year, Clagett mysteriously answered, "Customs will be over when the sign is right."

In past years customs has lasted for one, two, three, four, and even five weeks.

Mac Hall Houses Students Since 1904

By ELAINE MIELE

McAllister Hall, built in 1904, has seen its last year as a dormitory.

The building was named in honor of Hugh Nelson McAllister, one of the founders of the University. It was originally constructed as a men's dormitory.

The Collegian of Sept. 19, 1904, describes the rooms as

"light and spacious, being far more pleasant than those in Old Main with which the men are so familiar."

Besides dormitory rooms the building was said to have a bakery, laundry, vegetable cellar, refrigerator, work room and general store room.

The dining room was not managed by the college at that time but "was placed in the hands of a competent caterer with the expectation and requirement that he shall furnish good board at reasonable rates."

According to an advertisement in the Froth at that time the rates seem reasonable enough. A single meal could be bought for 35 cents and board for a full week cost only $3. Private sections for visitors, faculty and ladies were also advertised.

Mac Hall was used for various purposes in its early days. Richard Harlow, famed Penn State football coach, gave lectures to the football team on the first floor of the building. It also housed both instructors and classrooms of the zoology department.

In the spring the Soph-Frosh Dance was held in Mac Hall. According to the Alumni News Letter the proper attire for this dance would be tails, white tie and gloves for men. Ladies wore their best silken finery.

In 1915 Mac Hall was remodeled to serve as a women's dormitory because "the fashion has turned to fraternity or club life and the dorms are no longer popular for men."

The University has not decided the fate of the old building as yet. Otto E. Mueller, head of the department of housing, said it might be used for office space in the future.

Sigma Delta Chi Will Hold Smoker

Sigma Delta Chi, men's professional journalistic fraternity, will host Victor E. Bludorn at 8 p.m. Tuesday at a rushing smoker at Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity.

Bludorn is executive director of the national fraternity, comprised of newspaper editors, reporters, radio-tv newsmen, and journalism students.

The director will also be present at a business meeting of the Penn State undergraduate chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, scheduled for 7 p.m. Tuesday.

The smoker is open to all sophomore, junior and senior journalism students majoring in news and editing.

The University has conferred 72,829 degrees since it first opened its doors to high school graduates in 1859.

BusAd Grad Club Holds Elections

Michael Hottenstein, graduate student in commerce, was elected president of the Business Administration Graduate Club at a recent organizational meeting.

John Mallory, graduate assistant in commerce was elected secretary-treasurer. William Frey, graduate assistant in commerce, and John Harnett, graduate student in economics, were elected as representatives to the Graduate Student Association.

Dr. Robert D. Pashek, Assistant Dean for Research and Graduate Officer of the College of Business Administration, led a panel discussion concerning the graduate requirements for graduate students pursuing work toward the master and doctors degrees in business and economics.

Collegian Candidates To Meet Tuesday Night

All students interested in joining the news staff of the Daily Collegian will meet at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday. A meeting place will be announced in the Collegian.

Candidates interested in news writing, sports, features and photography will attend.

Singers Add 18 Members

The Penn State Singers have added 18 new members. The first rehearsal of the fall semester will be held at noon Thursday in 117 Carnegie.

New members of the group are: Ina Zicherman, Kay Esslinger and Juliet Byrd Howells, soprano I; Patricia Kampmeier, Sandra Sliker and Anna Belle Snyder, soprano II; Barbara Moore, Carol Robinson, Mary Lou Becker and Sonja Brown, alto.

John Brown, Stanley Bialomizy, Sam Gordon and Joseph Sullivan, tenor and Neil Edwards, Harry Gerber, Carl Merkle and William Reeves, baritone and bass.

Copies of the music which will be used can be picked up in 214 Carnegie.

IE Professor Will Attend Foundrymen Conference

Wesley P. Winter, assistant professor of industrial engineering, will represent the Department of Industrial Engineering at a 3-day conference of operating steel foundrymen in November.

The conference, to be held Nov. 9 to 11 in Cleveland, Ohio, is a feature of the technical and operating committee of the Steel Foundrymen's Society of America.

Wanna Write?
Wanna Draw?

FROTH

can use you!

Come
Monday Night 7:00
FROTH OFFICE
HUB ASSEMBLY

Knock twice and ask for Sam!

Is Letter Writing Your Problem?

Can't think of a thing to say? Parents waiting anxiously for Penn State news?

Solve your problem with a subscription of The Daily Collegian mailed directly to your home. All University sports, teas, lectures and elections are completely reported by The Daily Collegian. Keep the folks at home informed with either a semester's subscription (only $3.00) or a full year's subscription (only $5.00). Fill in the blank below and mail, bring in or call UN 5-2531

The Daily Collegian

Box 261

State College, Pa.

Send To: (please print)

Name

Street

City

State

() Payment Enclosed () $3 () $5

Make checks payable to The Daily Collegian

() Bill:

Name (please print)

Street

City

State

Sigma Alpha Mu
presents
The George Sotter
Combo
Sat. - 9:30 - 12:30

YEA TEAM!

YOU CAN JOIN THE TEAM

of students who stock up early on comp books, binders, filler paper, and other writing supplies. You can become a B.S. (Better Student) by selecting from among the largest and finest assortment of school supplies we've ever had... come in and see.

KEELER'S

The University Bookstore Inc.

206 EAST COLLEGE AVE.

Since 1926