All that can be said for the moment is—don't speed on the Benner Pike.

7 Choirs Provide Religious Programs

During the past year, seven mixed choirs have furnished music for the religious services held on campus and have presented special concerts of sacred music at various times during the year.

Singing on any of the choirs is a one-credit course and is listed in the catalogue as Music 157. Students may register for as many as eight semesters of this music elective during their four years on campus.

The University Chapel Choirs with more than 100 members, sings for the chapel services held in Schwab Auditorium each Sunday at 11 a.m. In addition, the choir presents programs during the Christmas and Easter seasons.

In the spring of each year, they also present a major choral work usually in collaboration with the University Symphony Orchestra and guest soloists. These concerts have been given for the past twelve years.

In the summers of 1955, 1957 and this past summer, members of the University Chapel Choir, its alumni and members of the Meditation Chapel Choirs have made European tours. During these tours concerts were given throughout Europe and an extensive educational program was planned for choir members.

The University Chapel Choir rehearses regularly from 7 to 9 p.m. Thursdays in the Helen Eakin Eisenhower Chapel memorial lounge. They also rehearse Sundays either in the afternoon or evening, according to other scheduled events.

The Meditation Chapel Choirs function in connection with events regularly scheduled in the Helen Eakin Eisenhower Chapel. During this year they will be heard on December 13 and April 10 at the services in Schwab Auditorium. One choir of this group is devoted to the study of Gregorian Chants and other types of Catholic Church music. The other groups use various types of sacred music.

Those students registering for the Meditation Chapel Choirs must have Tuesday evenings free from 7 to 9 p.m. or Thursday afternoons from 3 to 5 p.m. so that the groups may be combined for various concerts during the year. A third hour will be arranged according to individual class schedules.
