

Assembly Will Hear Reunion Proposal For Encampment

The Student Government Association Assembly will hear a recommendation to reinstitute the Student Encampment reunion in early February at its first meeting of the semester at 7:30 tonight in the Hetzel Union assembly room.

This meeting is open to all students as are all SGA Assembly meetings.

William Jaffe, chairman of the 1959 Student Encampment, will present a report containing eight other recommendations.

Parking Privileges Revised

Students and faculty members with parking permits will be allowed extra parking privileges after 5:30 p.m. on weekdays and from 12:30 p.m. Saturday to 7 a.m. Monday, according to Albert E. Diem, vice president for business administration.

Diem said faculty and staff permit holders would be allowed to park in any area during the designated hours. Before the change they were limited to the specific area called for on the permit.

Students with automobile permits will be allowed to park in any parking area outside the campus boundaries of College Ave., Burowes, Curtin and Shortlidge Roads. Student permit holders had also been restricted to one designated area.

The regulations for student cars without permits remains unchanged: no daylight parking will be allowed on campus and nighttime parking in five lots only.

Diem said the night-time relaxation of rules was to permit students to call for their dates and escort them back to the residence halls.

Up to noon yesterday about 1100 student parking permits had been sold. There are about 200 permits remaining with space in areas 83, 82, 45 and 52, for commuting students, Diem said.

250 Tickets Left For Artist Series

Less than 250 student tickets remain for the Artists Series concert with Adele Addison, soprano, and Albert Fuller, harpsichord player, scheduled for 8:30 p.m. Sunday in Schwab Auditorium.

Non-student tickets go on sale at 9 a.m. today at the HUB desk.

Miss Addison, accompanied by Fuller on the harpsichord, will sing works by Rosseter, Handel, Laserna, Litares, Purcell, and Scarlatti.

Faculty-Trustee Meeting

Sellout Crowd Expected for Seminar

Tickets for the 1959 Faculty-Trustee Symposium which will open at 3:30 this afternoon have been sold out.

Dr. Roy C. Buck, co-chairman of the arrangement committee, said 475 tickets were sold and the sale was closed, although there were orders for more.

Seventeen University trustees are expected to attend but a few more may come, according to Harriett Nesbitt, co-chairman.

The symposium is sponsored by the University chapter of the American Association of University Professors, and will take the place of the annual Faculty-Trustee Dinner.

The attendance at the symposium will be the largest since the

The Encampment reunion would be for students who attended the 1959 Encampment. Its purpose would be to review the progress of workshop reports, discuss new factors and recommendations and to review in general the accomplishments and objectives of Encampment.

Jaffe will also recommend that students applying for non-appointed positions to Encampment should be interviewed by the Encampment committee and workshop chairmen, instead of by the Cabinet Personnel Interviewing Committee.

Other recommendations include:

- Faculty and administration members selected for Encampment should be rotated to give all members the chance to attend.

- Participants should be more fully informed of workshop topics either by their chairmen or through their own research, so they can discuss them more objectively and thoroughly.

- The 1960 Encampment chairmen and business manager should be appointed by April 1 so the workshop chairman can be appointed earlier than in the past. This would allow more time for research and planning.

The SGA Assembly will also hear a report from Peter Luckie, chairman of the Rules Committee. He will ask the Assembly to approve two procedural rules.

First, that speakers from the gallery must be recognized by an Assembly member; second, that the method of filling vacancies be altered to provide for the appointment of a freshman class president.

The SGA Constitution now states that a class president must make appointments to fill vacancies. This, however, does not take into account the possible vacancy in a presidential post, which is now the situation in the freshman class.

The Assembly will also hear reports from Larry Byers on the Executive Cabinet, from Alan Elms on library expansion, from Jay Hawley on the Mall bulletin board, and from Carmella LaSpada on UN weekend, Oct. 23 and 24.

IFC Application Forms

Applications for membership on Interfraternity Council committees will be available at noon today at the HUB desk, Ronald Resh, IFC vice president announced.

Faculty - Trustee Dinners were started 15 years ago.

Russell I. Thackery, executive secretary of the American Association of Land Grant Colleges and State Universities, will deliver the keynote address at the opening session in 119 Osmond.

The theme of the seminar will be "The Mission of a State University - A Design for Quality." Following the keynote address nine round-table discussions to be led by University faculty members will be held.

The topics of the discussions and their leaders will be: "Admissions Policy," Dr. Lois Hyslop; "Public Relations," Harold P. Zelco; "University Financing," Dr. John H. Ferguson; "Faculty Excellence," Dr. W. Conrad Fer-

Panhel Suspends KKG Fall Rushing

Rushing privileges for Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority have been suspended for a semester by Panhellenic Judicial Board for a violation of the Panhellenic rushing code. The penalty was imposed by the Panhel Judicial Board yesterday afternoon.

The violation occurred Friday night when a rushee from another residence hall took an overnight and spent the night in the Kappa suite. Since this occurred after rush registration, it constituted a violation of the semi-strict silence period.

The suspension means that Kappa Kappa Gamma may no longer rush this semester, nor may it pledge any new girls during this time. The penalty will not apply next semester during formal rush. A letter will be sent to the chapter's national headquarters explaining the offense.

Marjorie Miller, president of Kappa Kappa Gamma, said the rushee was definitely not invited to, nor did she attend, a party following the initiation of the spring pledge class.

The violation was reported to Panhel within 48 hours, the rushee's hostess was called Monday and the report was verified by the sorority president. The Panhel judicial committee met yesterday afternoon and in a unanimous decision, with the Panhel president and advisor abstaining, voted to suspend rushing privileges for one semester.

The Panhel president and advisor abstained because they knew that Kappa Kappa Gamma was the sorority involved. The name of the sorority was not revealed to the other members of the committee.

In commenting on the incident Carol Dominick, Panhel president, warned that all sororities are cautioned in the future to adhere to the rushing code.

Miss Miller said yesterday that the offense was not committed intentionally and occurred because of a misunderstanding of the rushing regulations.

The judicial committee consists of Miss Dominick, vice presidents, Carol Bradic and Wendy Parr; treasurer, Gretchen Van Kirk; secretaries, Barbara Curion and Cynthia Talbert; a "stray Greek," Ann Dunkle; rushing chairman, Sue Chapman; and Panhel advisor, Mrs. Norma Mountain.

Gracie's 'Remains' To Pass Near State College Today

The remains of once powerful hurricane Gracie will pass within 50 miles of State College this morning as it moves on a north-eastward course toward New England.

Rain will be occasionally moderate to heavy this morning, but it will taper off during the afternoon. The total rainfall for last night and this morning should be between 2 and 3 inches.

Winds will be gusty to about 25 or 30 miles an hour during the morning, but velocities will subside considerably during the afternoon.

Heavy rains associated with storm Gracie should move north-eastward into New York and New England today. The substantial rains of the past 24 to 36 hours in some sections of Pennsylvania may result in flash flooding especially in the valleys.

Temperatures will rise to 76 degrees under cloudy skies today and will then fall to a low of 62 degrees tonight.

MI to Hold Vote On Honor System

By CAROL du CHACEK

Students in the College of Mineral Industries will be voting in the near future on the adoption of an academic honor system.

The election was disclosed by James Reed, chairman of the Committee for Academic Honesty, at a meeting of the Mineral Industries Student Council Tuesday night.

According to the charter for the program, which has been approved by the college, "the honor system shall be used in all exams in courses offered primarily for Mineral Industries upperclassmen which are designated by the dean as honor courses."

Students in these honor courses will participate in the system by signing an honor roll obligating them to the provisions of the charter.

The honor system can be put into effect curriculum-by-curriculum only after 85 per cent of the upperclassmen enrolled in that particular curriculum approve it in an election.

Dr. B. F. Howell Jr., professor of geo-physics and advisor to the council, stated that voting in the geo-physics and geo-chemistry departments will begin next week, as three of the members of the department have shown a desire for the program. He expressed a belief that "if the system is passed in one curriculum, it will probably pass quickly in others."

In the event of classes with considerably small enrollment, it is possible that the vote must be unanimous before an honor system will be used in the course.

President John Bonestell urged members of the committee to speak to department heads and instructors, and also try to explain the system to students in class.

Harry Chambers was appointed chairman of the Mineral Industries Open House to be held for all prospective freshmen on Oct. 24.

The week of Nov. 4 was designated for freshmen elections for student council of this college.
