

New Faculty Members Announced

A number of new appointments to the faculty have been approved by the Board of Trustees.

Among them are Dr. Elizabeth M. Ray, associate professor of home economics; Dr. Jennetter Veatch, associate professor of elementary education; Dr. Carl J. Schaefer, associate professor of industrial education; and A. Jay Hirsch, lecturer in accounting.

Dr. Ray will act as research specialist in home economics education. She will encourage and extend basic research on a state-wide basis. She will also assist graduate students in their research.

Dr. Veatch has taught during summer sessions here. She has formerly been on the faculty at New York University, University of Illinois, Indiana University, Syracuse University, Goucher College and University of Wisconsin. From 1955 to 1958, she was director of program development at the National Headquarters of the Girl Scouts of America.

Schaefer has been with the Department of Education in Ohio for the past four years. He was assistant superintendent in trade and industrial education.

Schaefer has done research in industrial education and post-secondary education, and has written numerous articles on his findings.

Hirsch is a graduate of the University who has been doing graduate work at the University of Illinois. He is currently working on his thesis for his doctor of philosophy degree.

Ag Students Get Picture Extension

The deadline for students in the College of Agriculture to have their pictures taken for the La Vie has been extended to Friday.

Students in the College of Business Administration should now be having their pictures taken at the Penn State Photo Shop from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Those student teachers who will be off-campus when their college is scheduled must have their pictures taken before they leave campus. The women are requested to wear dark sweaters and pearls and the men dark suits and ties.

WRA Tennis Club

The tennis club, sponsored by the Women's Recreation Association, will hold a meeting at 4 p.m. today at the East courts, near the Nittany Dormitories.

Coed Replies--

8:15, 9:15 or 10 p.m., and in some cases 11.

Many of us have the occasion to go out after dark for some other purpose than a sojourn in Hort Woods.

As an example, Mr. Smith, have you ever taken the short cut in back of Walker Lab and behind the Graduate Residence Hall to get to Burrows or the library? During the day it is quite easy to find one's way. But after dark, 8 p.m. or so, it becomes quite a project to avoid falling over a chain fence or walking into a pole. No, Mr. Smith I don't need glasses, but you must be a bat with built-in radar if you can get around our ill-lit campus after dark without breaking a leg.
