Lions Will Face Army In Big Game

By SANDY PADWE

WEST POINT, N.Y., Oct. 10
—A sellout crowd of 27,000 is expected here this afternoon when Penn State and Army clash in Michie Stadium at 2 p.m. in one of the top Eastern grid games this season.

Even with All-American half-back Bob Anderson out of the Army lineup due to a knee injury, the oddsmakers rate the Cadets a one touchdown favorite.

Two of the nation's finest quarterbacks — Richie Lucas of Penn State and Joe Caldwell of Army — will direct their respective teams in today's game which could very well decide who wins the Lambert trophy—symbol of Eastern football supremacy.

Lucas and Caldwell are evenly matched in every department. Lucas is third in the country in total offense, while Caldwell is seventh.

Caldwell holds the edge over Lucas in the pass completion department with 28 completions in 44 attempts for a percentage of .636. Lucas has hit on 24 of 38 for a .632 mark, fourth best in the nation.

Penn State's biggest problem this afternoon, in addition to holding down Caldwell, will be to stop lonesome end Bill Carpenter. He has snagged 14 Caldwell aeriels in two games.

Carpenter is the fabled end who causes all sorts of trouble in the opposing team's secondary. He never comes into the huddle and splits wide on every play.

Because of his speed and deception, the opposition is forced to place two men on him, leaving a hole somewhere in the defense. And Caldwell usually finds it.

But Penn State coach Rip Engle and his fired-up Lions worked hard on pass defense all week and the Ripper says his boys are ready for Carpenter.

Engle plans to go with the same starting lineup which walloped Colgate, 58-20, last week.

Lucas is the signalcaller. And he has Dick Hoak and Jim Kerr at halfbacks and Pat Botula at fullback.

Henry Opperman and Norm Neff are the ends, Charley Janerette and Tom Mulraney will be the tackles and Bud Kohlhaas and Bill Popp are the guards. Jay Huffman will be the center.

There is only one change in Engle's alternate unit. Sophomore end Bob Mitinger moves up to take Dave Alexander's place.

Eisenhower Uses Taft-Hartley Act To End Strike

WASHINGTON (AP)—With union and industry hopelessly deadlocked, President Eisenhower set in motion Taft-Hartley act machinery last night to end the 87-day-old steel strike.

"If permitted to continue, this strike would imperil the national health and safety," Eisenhower declared in a statement announcing his action.

"The national interest demands an immediate resumption of production in this vital industry." The President named a three-man fact-finding panel and instructed it to report to him by Oct. 16.

Since Eisenhower must have this report before he can seek a strike-ending court injunction, the walkout may last at least another week and perhaps several days longer.

Such an injunction would send the steelworkers back to the mills for up to 80 days. If there is no settlement in that time, the workers would be free to walk out again, and the government would have recourse then only to mediation.

It was the second time this week that Eisenhower had invoked the Taft-Hartley act's emergency provisions to halt a strike he said endangered the national health and safety. He acted earlier to stop the dock strike on the East and Gulf coasts.

The three named to the steel inquiry panel are George W. Taylor, Philadelphia; John Perkins, Newark, Del., president of the University of Delaware, and Paul N. Lehoczeky, Columbus, Ohio, chairman of industrial engineering at Ohio State University. Taylor and Lehoczeky are seasoned labor arbitrators; Perkins is an expert in political science.

With a week to work, it was expected the panel may try to achieve a voluntary settlement while at the same time amassing data required for their report to Eisenhower.

The President said he was invoking the Taft-Hartley act in the steel strike with profound regret that the industry and striking United Steelworkers of America hadn't been able to solve the dispute by their own.

"Nevertheless," Eisenhower said, "I want to emphasize that the action I have taken in no way relieves the parties of their grave obligation to the American people to resume negotiations and reach a just and responsible settlement at the earliest possible time."

Tickets for 'Rigoletto' Available

The remaining tickets for Goldovsky Grand Opera Theater's "Rigoletto" will be distributed at 9 a.m. today at the Hetzel Union desk.

The third Artist Series program will be held at 8 p.m. tomorrow in Recreation Hall.

After the performance a reception will be held for the cast and staff at Acacia fraternity at 225 E. Foster Ave. Students are invited to attend.

The Goldovsky company is now on its fifth nationwide tour. It was founded as the New England Opera Company in 1946, by Boris Goldovsky. There are 50 members in the Theater, including actors, actresses, musicians and stage crew. The company is equipped with new costumes and sets designed by Jack Brown.

Major roles will be filled by Jean Deis, Ronald Holgate, Jacqueline Bazinet, Ara Berberian, Jean Kraft, James Berg, and Nancy Williams.

Goldovsky has long been associated with the operatic world. For 13 seasons he has produced such favorites as "Carmen," "The Marriage of Figaro," "Rigoletto," and "La Boheme," as well as less familiar operas. He has also presented Saturday matinees over broadcasting networks from the Metropolitan Opera House for several years.

Goldovsky prefers that his operatic productions be given in English, as "Rigoletto" will be. He feels that not only will the audience be able to understand the opera, but the public will be more critical of the acting.

Foresters Compete In Annual Field Day

Spit will splat, chips will fly and logs will roll today at the annual forestry field day at 1 p.m. at the University sawmill.

Contestants will vie with each other in 10 events from tobacco spitting to log rolling.

The tobacco spitting contest will be divided into two divisions. First there will be a distance contest to test the ability of the contestants with special distance spitting abilities. The other division will give the accuracy perfectionist a chance to build points. He'll be aiming at targets.

Log throwing is another scheduled event. The woodsmen will compete with each other by throwing 5-foot logs as far as they can.

The balance perfectionist will get his chance in the "Bull of the Woods" contest. Here two contestants mount at opposite ends of a log, advance toward each other and try to roll each other from the log.

The Barrel Bronc gives the balance perfectionist another chance. A barrel is strung between two trees, with a rope. A man mounts the barrel while four others, two on each end of the rope, try to throw him from the barrel by yanking at each end of the rope. The flying chips will be seen in the Log Chopping contest. He who chops the fastest and the mostest gets the most points.

The contest is set up on a total point bases. He, who at the end of the afternoon has the most points is overall winner. The next five places will also be awarded prizes. Prizes include Woolrich shirts, axes and saws.

Other contests include log rolling and log estimating. Log rolling puts strength of the lumberjack to test. Rolling the heavy logs as far as possible is the object here. Log estimating consists of guessing the number of board feet in a log.

Transportation for interested students will be provided at the HUB parking lot between 12:30 and 12:45 p.m.

Men's Council Elections Set

Council officers for the Nittany, West and North Halls residence areas will be elected Monday night.

The unit presidents of these areas, who were elected Tuesday and Wednesday, will sit on the councils for their respective areas, but may not run for a council office.

Anyone living in a residence hall area, except the unit officers, may run for council office. Nominations will be from the floor.

Elections in the Nittany area will be held at 7 p.m. in the post office (Nittany 20), in the West Halls at 7 p.m. in Waring lounge and in the North Halls at 7 p.m. in the Warnock conference room.

The presidents of the Nittany and West Halls Councils were elected last spring under a new plan set up by the election committee of the Association of Independent Men. In the future all council officers will be elected in the spring.

Monday night all men living in residence areas will elect two representatives-at-large who, in addition to serving on their councils will represent them on the AIM Board of Governors.

Officers of the Town Independent Men's Council were elected last spring, but the delegates from the student body who will sit on the council will be elected Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Monday, the voting will be done in Sackett lobby and Tuesday and Wednesday, at the Hetzel Union card room. Anyone living downtown is eligible for a position on the council. Candidates will be selected by self-nominations.

The Town Independent Men will elect 16 representatives-at-large to sit on the AIM Board of Governors. The AIM elections rules allow two representatives-at-large for every 500 students living in one area.

Officers from on-campus councils and their representatives will attend the first fall AIM Board of Governors meeting Wednesday night, but the TIM Council will not be able to send a full delegation because of late elections, according to AIM president, Harald Sandstrom.
