Touring Singers Prefer Home

By SUSIE LINKROUM

"Touring can be fun for a while, but we prefer a settled homelife," say the members of the Goldovsky Grand Opera Theater.

Following a performance of Verdi's "Rigoletto" in Recreation Hall Sunday the company gathered at the Acacia fraternity for a buffet supper and some relaxation. Several students were there to meet them.

History Prof To Initiate LA Lecture Series

Dr. Louis M. Hacker, visiting professor of history and professor of economic history at Columbia University, will open the 1959 Liberal Arts Lecture Series tomorrow.

His talk, entitled "The Robber Barons Revisited," will be given at 8 p.m. in 121 Sparks. The lecture is co-sponsored by the Department of History.

Dr. Hacker will critically examine the so-called "robber barons," a term used to describe the captains of industry in the United States from 1865 to 1900. He will discuss the "unhappy effect" of the group, which he says "debased our cultural and social life."

The visiting professor, a Phi Beta Kappa, has authored 11 books. His most recent book, "American Capitalism," has been translated into at least a dozen languages. He has lectured widely in European nations for the State Department.

Dr. Hacker received his bachelor and masters degrees from Columbia University and was granted a master of arts degree by Oxford University. An honorary doctor of laws degree was awarded to him by the University of Hawaii in 1953.

It comes on the eve. of Subandrio visits to Japan, which always has opposed any Chinese expansionism, and to the Philippines, to which Red Chinese on Formosa would represent the same sort of threat as the Japanese did in World War II.

If Subandrio's expression in Peiping should prove to be an actual part of Indonesian policy, it would represent a very direct and dangerous conflict with U.S. policy, which is to defend Formosa by force if necessary.

Debate Team To Take On Cambridge Men

A debate team from Cambridge University will meet the University Men's Debate Squad at 8:30 tonight in 214 Boucke.

The subject of debate will be "Resolved: that Communism's strongest ally is the stupidity of the West." The Penn State team will support the affirmative of the proposition, while the Cambridge men will take the negative.

Debating for Cambridge will be Julian Grenfell and Roger Warren Evans. Grenfell has attended both Eton College and Cambridge, where he has been active in many activities, serving as president of the Cambridge Union. Evans, also active, previously attended Trinity College, and was secretary of the Cambridge Union.

Opposing Grenfell and Evans will be Alan Elms and Al Davidson. As squad manager, Elms represented Penn State at such contests as the District 7 Eliminations last year. Davidson represented the University in the Eastern Forensic Association finals.

that students could have heard better if there had been a roof structure over the stage. The Goldovsky Theater sets are made of fiber-glass which cause the sounds to bounce out towards the audience instead of absorbing them like canvas sets do. Without these, the opera would have been lost in the large building.

Other than the complaint of the acoustics, the company had many compliments for Penn State. They were very pleased with the reception given them and enjoyed the opportunity to chat informally with the students. Sunday was the first free day the company had since they started touring. They spent it walking around the campus and going to the movies in State College.

University Party Opposes Encampment Proposal

University Party decided at an open meeting Sunday to oppose a Student Encampment recommendation to have the Student Government Association President chair the SGA Assembly.

Under the present system the SGA vice president chairs the Assembly.

Party Chairman Frank Pearson said the party opposes the suggestion under the "existing conditions and the facts known at present."

Speaking for the Encampment recommendation, William Stout said that since all business goes through the Assembly chairman his knowledge of it is greater, and therefore, the SGA President should occupy this position.

Howard Byers countered, however, saying that the President would be better informed if he were an onlooker rather than a participant bogged down with "parliamentary rigmarole."

Voicing another opinion, Pearson pointed out that an extra link was added in the communication system with the SGA vice president charting the Assembly.

The president, he added, is the liaison between the students and the administration. Byers emphasized that the president has a veto power over Assembly bills. It would be dangerous, he said, for the president to have both his own persuasive powers as a debator and the veto power.

In another action, the party voted to go on record as favoring the re-admission of Frothy to the football games.
