

Union Makes New Offer In Steel Strike Talks

'World at a Glance', Page 4

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Steelworkers Union yesterday made a compromise peace offer scaling down its money demands, and Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell said he is optimistic that the 94-day steel strike may be settled quickly.

"The parties are closer together than they have been since the negotiations started," Mitchell told newsmen.

Mitchell declined to comment on the merits of the union's latest proposal in which the steelworkers reportedly cut their money demands by about one-third.

Earlier, Union President David J. McDonald declined to spell out details.

The administration is expected to seek a strike-halting court injunction early next week in the event industry-union negotiations collapsed or became deadlocked again over the weekend.

Top industry executives promised to study the proposal. Their answer is to be made known to the union here late today.

An industry counteroffer would surprise nobody, since the union proposal for ending the 94-day strike reportedly left unsatisfied the management demand for more freedom in changing work practices to achieve manpower economies.

Highly placed sources said the union proposal contemplated a 21-cent-an-hour increase for the workers over a two-year period.

This would include no wage boost but substantial insurance, pension and supplement unemployment benefits during the first year, plus a sizable pay hike of about 10 cents an hour in the second year.

This amounted to roughly 10 cents an hour extra a year in contrast to the earlier union demand for approximately 15 cents an hour additional each year. Before the strike began, steelworkers averaged $3.11 an hour.

Lewis 'Divorce' Satire To Be Staged Monday

The United Student Fellowship will present C. S. Lewis' "The Great Divorce," at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the Faith United Church of Christ.

"The Great Divorce," written by the celebrated author of "Screwtape Letters," is one of six carefully selected works staged by the Bishop's Company of Santa Barbara. The play is both witty and satirical, making personal some of life's most soul-searching questions.

10th Ranked Lions To Face Terriers

By SANDY PADWE, Collegian Sports Editor

Penn State risks its national ranking and four game winning streak this afternoon when it meets Boston University in the annual homecoming game at 1:30 p.m. on Beaver Field. The Lions, ranked 10th in the nation, have rolled over their first four opponents this year. They've beaten Missouri, 19-8; V.M.I., 21-0; Colgate 58-20; and Army 17-11.

Boston University comes into this afternoon's tilt with a 1-2 record. The Terriers have lost to George Washington, 18-14, and Kansas, 28-7. Their only win came last weekend over West Virginia, 7-0.

Terrier coach Steve Sinko looks for a real good ball game this afternoon.

"This is the best State team I've ever seen, but our boys will play a good game and I'm sure they'll give a good account of themselves," Sinko said yesterday afternoon after watching his team go through a practice session on Beaver Field.

Last year Sinko's BU club lost to the Nittanies, 34-0. "I've only seen game movies of Penn State

Penn State's 30,000 capacity Beaver Field has been completely sold out for the Penn State-Syracuse game on Nov. 7, business manager Edward M. Czekaj said today.

Penn State's last sellout was for the Army game on Oct. 5, 1957. This will be the first sellout for a Penn State-Syracuse game in the history of the series that started in 1922.

this year," Sinko said, "but I can tell they're much more dangerous than last year.

"Last season they were more of a ball control team but this year they've got a powerful passing attack and a terrific running game.

"But I think my squad has definitely improved and their win over West Virginia last weekend shows it," said the amiable Terrier coach.

Sinko plans to start a team composed of ten lettermen and a top sophomore prospect against the Nittanies today.

Heading the list of Terrier lettermen are end Gene Prebola, halfback Paul Cancro and quarterback Emo DiNitto.

Prebola is BU's top candidate for All-American honors this year. In the Terriers' three games he has caught five passes for 116 yards and two touchdowns.

DiNitto, one of Boston University's two mighty mites—Cancro's the other one—has

(Continued on page nine)

—Collegian Photo by Margie Frear

KAPPA DELTA RHO's winning Interfraternity Council lawn display is shown above. It was KDR's second successive winning display. Alpha Chi Rho placed second and Pi Kappa Tau won third place. The winner's trophy will be presented at the Alumni Homecoming luncheon today.

KDR Places First In Display Contest

Kappa Delta Rho won the annual Interfraternity Council Homecoming Lawn Display contest for the second straight year last night.

KDR's display, a gigantic Nittany Lion, was built on scale from a small plastic model. The display was 50' long and 14' high and constructed of 20,000 white napkins costing $48.74.

Alpha Chi Rho came in second in the contest with a cardboard display of "Clouds of the Future." Their entry was composed of a number of signs depicting various aspects of life at the University in the year 2000.

Phi Kappa Tau won third place with an "electronic" display demonstrating how students may get their degrees in the machine age of the future.

A Nittany Lion stood beside a pledged powered "IBM machine" which would automatically issue his college degree. A small slot for depositing the $50,000 enrollment fee was conveniently placed at a corner of the machine.

Kappa Delta Rho will receive the Alumni Association Trophy at the Alumni Luncheon today.

Queen to Appear At Chordette Show

Homecoming Queen, Mary Ann Kill, the football, soccer and cross country teams and coaches will be introduced at the Chordettes Concert at 2 p.m. tomorrow in Recreation Hall.

The concert, sponsored by the World University Service, is the kick-off of the celebration which will end with United Nations Weekend on Oct. 23-25. Funds raised through the concert and other functions during the weekend will be used for students overseas.

All fund-raising services have been planned in cooperation with the UN to commemorate World Refugee Year.

Robert McCracken, senior in arts and letters from Allentown, will serve as master of ceremonies for the concert.

Other groups appearing in the concerts include the Altoona Chorus, the quartets from Pi Beta Phi and Tau Kappa Epsilon which won in last spring's Interfraternity Council Sing, the Penn Statesmen, the Allegheny Aires, and the Chord Blenders.

The Chordettes, stars of radio, television, nightclubs and recordings, rose to fame with their recording of "Mr. Sandman," which sold two million copies. Their more recent hits include "Lollipop" and "Zorro."

The Penn Statesmen are all graduates of the University who live in State College. The Chord Blenders are a barbershop harmony group. They vary their harmony with comedy routines using a piano. All these groups will use close harmony, melody below tenor, to prove the barbershop harmony is not out-dated.

Tickets, which cost $1.25, are available at the Music Room, the Harmony Shop and the Hetzel Union desk.

Busy Schedule For Today Greets Alumni

Morning

College of Home Economics coffee hours, 9:30-11:30, Home Economics living center.

School of Journalism alumni coffee hours, 10-noon, 9 Carnegie.

Department of Theatre Arts alumni coffee hours, 10-noon, Green Room of Schwab Auditorium.

Varsity "S" Club coffee hour, 10:30-11:30, Nittany Lion Inn.

Alumni Luncheon, 11:30, HUB ballroom.

Freshman Football, Penn State vs. Pitt, 10, Beaver Practice fields.

Afternoon

Football, Penn State vs. Boston U., 1:30, Beaver Field.

Sorority and Fraternity open houses, for alumni, immediately following game, (see ads for exact times), suites and houses.

AIM-Leonides alumni tea, 4:30-6, HUB main lounge.

Hort Show, all afternoon, Stock Judging Pavilion.

Evening

Players' Show, "On Borrowed Time," 8, Center Stage.

Thespians' Show, "It's in the Book," 8, Schwab Auditorium.

AIM-Leonides cider party, 8, HUB, Homecoming dance, 9:30, HUB.

Rush of Arctic Air To Clear Skies

Partly cloudy skies will give way to sunny weather, gusty northwesterly winds, and cool temperatures this afternoon as Arctic air invades the commonwealth.

Temperatures will climb slowly to 60 degrees early this afternoon and then should fall off rapidly during the late afternoon and evening.

Tonight should be mostly clear and cold with a freezing 32 degrees likely.

Tomorrow should be partly cloudy and continued cold.

Review

'Time' Considered Delightful Comedy; Servello, Clemons Highlight Show

By JEFF POLLACK

What happens when an old man chases Death up an apple tree, determined to keep him there in order to protect his grandson?

Well, it happened at Center Stage last night and provided the opening night Players' audience at "On Borrowed Time" a delightful two hours of comedy.

Two fine performances, by Joseph Servello as Gramps, and Clairenell Clemons as Aunt Demeria Riffle, were mostly responsible for the highly pleasant evening.

Written by Paul Osborn, the play provides the lines needed to keep the audience laughing and Servello's delivery brought them across. The grandson-loving old man cussed, fumed and shouted his way to an excellent performance.

Miss Clemons as the prudish, scheming aunt who wants to take little Pud—and his $15,000 inheritance — kept the audience in laughter. But at the same time she was mean enough to keep the audience on the side of Gramps and the little boy.

It is only the quick thinking of Gramps and the fact that only he and his grandson can see Mr. Brink (Death) that finally thwarts her attempts and brings the play to its unusual conclusion.

Little Pud (Erik Zimmerman), a State College lad, didn't miss a line and for a public school student that alone is a major accomplishment. Zimmerman wasn't satisfied with that.

He went on to be cute, precocious and good in a role that might well have taxed a bigger and more experienced performer.

Good support for the fine trio of performances was provided by Sandra Siffling as Marcia Giles, David Raheer as Dr. Evans, Thomas Loman as Mr. Pilbeam and Robert Kaiser as Mr. Grimes.

Granny remains an unconvincing character. Played by Sally, she has some good lines which fail to come across. She seemed much too happy to see her grandson cuss to be believed.

A simple and colorful set aids the production, which is well directed by Kelly Yeaton.

As in life, Death comes last. Jon Kowalek as Mr. Brink is morbidly convincing in his role. He used excellent finesse in guiding his selected guests off the stage.