

Ribbons—

second In this race, the riders had to hold eggs (hard boiled) on spoons without dropping them. Both of these races were judged by the process of elimination.

Emy Katz, riding on Chip, won first place in the hunter class which was judged on the horses' ability to jump fences. Jane Clark, of the 4-H Club, won first place in the trail horse class which was judged on the horses' ability to overcome the obstacles which he would encounter on the trail.

The English and Western Pleasure horse classes were judged on the ability of the horse to respond to the instructions of the rider. Mary Lynn Isaac took first place in the English class; Jane Clark came in second. Ginny Schon won first place in the Western, riding Fleetwing.

The Cloverleaf race which was judged on how fast the horse completes the barrel course, was won by Betsy Fine.

Mary Lynn Isaac again won a first place ribbon riding in the break-and-out class which was judged on the obedience of the horse.

The Western working horse class, judged on the ability of the horse to overcome obstacles which he would encounter on the range, was won by Elwood Williams Jr., riding Ebony.
