Simes Places Responsibility For Indie Parties With TIM

By NICKI WOLFORD

A rooming house has no status as a unit for holding coed parties and the Town Independent Men Council would have to take the responsibility for enforcing University regulations at any such parties, Frank J. Simes, dean of men, said.

After hearing the TIM proposal to petition the Senate Committee on Student Affairs to allow coeds to attend parties held in independent rooming houses, Simes said that at present a rooming house has no status as far as the University is concerned.

He explained that since they do not have charters and are not organized, the University could not penalize the group for a violation but could only punish individuals.

TIM would have to take the responsibility for enforcing the regulations at these social events; then if the rules weren't followed, TIM would take the blame and the privileges of having the parties would be denied, Simes said.

Under a proposal presented to TIM Council last week, coeds would be allowed to attend parties in off-campus housing units which would be under a board of control similar to that of the Interfraternity Council.

Only those houses which are large enough to hold parties come under this proposal—thus apartment parties for coeds are ruled out.

Philip Haines, TIM president, said he had been asked by men living in four houses downtown to bring the proposal before council.

Haines said a board of control would have to be set up and then each house wishing to have a party would have to petition the board. In devising a plan, Haines said a survey would have to be taken to determine how many houses have the facilities to have organized parties.

These social privileges for independent men will be more necessary if the IFC Encampment recommendation that fraternity parties be closed to independents is passed, he said.

Haines appointed Kelly Mather, council member, head of a committee to investigate the proposal and come up with a feasible plan acceptable to both the council and the dean of men's office.

The plan would then go to the Senate Committee on Student Affairs.

500 Pint Goal Set for Annual Blood Drive

The American Red Cross bloodmobile, which will visit the campus Nov. 4 and 5, has set the goal for this year's blood drive at 500 pints.

Students are donating blood should sign up at the Hetzel Union Building from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. during the week of Oct. 26 to 30. A sign-up desk will be located across from the assembly room.

Lester Phillips, chairman of the campus drive, said that any student 18 years of age or older may donate blood. However, he added, any unmarried students between the ages of 18 and 21 must have a consent and release slip, signed by their parents, with them at the time of their donation.

Consent and release slips may be obtained now at the HUB desk.

Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity, and Gamma Sigma Sigma, national service sorority, are helping with the drive and members of both organizations will be at the sign-up desk to answer questions.

Phillips said that members of the Army and Air Force ROTC units who donate a pint of blood will receive merits from their respective service branches.

Bus Service--

Toney said no buses would on Sunday.

Although no definite fares have been set yet, Toney said the expected fare for a southbound trip would be 25 cents from North of Clemson Motors and 20 cents from south. The fares would be reversed on a northbound trip.

The company's schedule now calls for the buses to leave the most northern road in Park Forest Village and go south on Rt. 322, to Jack Beasley Ford, to Overlook Heights, back to Rt. 322, to Cherry Lane, to N. Allen St., to Hillcrest Ave., to Fairway Rd., to Ridge Ave., back to Rt. 322 and to College Ave. and S. Allen St.

Yale Fans Agog Over Eli Success

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Astonishing Yale's football record of four straight victories without yielding a point has old and young Blues agog.

They were delighted with the newspaper headlines which were saying the boola boolers were the nation's only major footballers with an uncrossed goal line.

The tables down at Mory's, Yale's famed eating place, were jumping during luncheon yesterday. There were cheers and songs. Coach Jordan Olivar and his Ivy League doormats of 1958 were the toasts of the Elms.

The Bulldog has teeth and they've been sharp on the attack and defense so far against Connecticut, Brown, Columbia and Cornell. He still has to face Colgate, Dartmouth, powerful Pennsylvania and traditional rivals Princeton and Harvard.

The Blue should get by hapless Colgate here Saturday without too much trouble—even without permitting a tally. The tougher days are up ahead.

Banquet Opens IFC Workshop

A banquet will begin this year's Interfraternity Council workshop at 6 tonight in the Penn State Room of the Nittany Lion Inn.

According to Richard Haber, IFC workshop chairman, Robert Kelly, a member of the National Interfraternity Council Executive Committee will give the keynote address.

"The banquet was placed first on the agenda this year to encourage better participation in the workshop," Haber said.

Tomorrow the workshops will move to the fraternity houses with a program of faculty after-dinner talks.

Each participating fraternity has chosen a member of the faculty to speak on some aspect of fraternity-faculty or fraternity-town relations.

Thursday the individual workshops will begin at the fraternity houses of the committee chairmen.

The workshops and the chairmen are presidents, Hart Langer, Sigma Chi; treasurers, Steven Brown, Tau Kappa Epsilon; house managers, Lawrence Abrams, Phi Sigma Delta pledge presidents, Jack Crosby, Delta Tau Delta; caterers, Robert O'Connell, Sigma Nu; scholarship and activities, Andrew Schultz, Chi Phi; alumni and public relations, Donald Clagett, Acacia; social, Edward Kormos, Sigma Pi; rushing, John Young, Sigma Alpha Epsilon; pledgemasters, Steven Ott, Phi Gamma Delta.

The workshop program is held annually to give fraternity men a chance to meet and solve common problems and to find ways of continuing improvements in the fraternity system at the University.

Campus to Hold UN Celebration Oct. 23 to 25

Edward B Marks, executive director of the United Nations Weekend Committee, said yesterday that the University will be among the first of the nation's universities to participate on a large scale in World Refugee Year.

President Eisenhower recently proclaimed June 30, 1959, to July 1, 1960, as World Refugee Year.

The University will celebrate United Nations Weekend from Oct. 23 to 25 with a United Nations Festival, dedication of a plaque, a community peace conference, United Nations dinners in fraternities and residence halls and a musical program. "Getting to Know You"

Carmella LaSpada, general chairman of the UN Weekend Committee, said the program was arranged with a 3-fold purpose: To create student concern with international affairs, with World Refugee Year and with the student's role within the world today.

West Halls Elect Council Treasurer

Bruce Baker, senior in business administration from Johnsville, was elected treasurer of West Halls Council last night.

The council also announced that mothers and women who are not students at the University will be permitted in West Halls men's rooms from 2 to 5 p.m. on Sunday afternoons with the approval of the individual dormitory units. However, chaperones must be present when younger women are in the rooms.

A special committee to determine the merit of establishing a listening room in Waring Lounge will be selected by council president, Duane Johnson.
