

Dorms Seen Too Small For Future

Even with the planned residence hall construction, the University will probably be able to house only one-half of the student body on campus in the future.

Presently only 6700 students of the nearly 15,000 enrolled at the main campus are housed in University facilities.

Only 3400 of those in residence halls are men. Fifty-five fraternity houses and private facilities house about 8000 students.

"It has been only in recent years that the University has been able to accommodate as many students as it does now in campus halls," Otto E. Mueller, director of housing, said.

In 1940 the University could accommodate only 1100 students on campus. Most of these students were women.

A group of eight residence and dining halls which will accommodate 1000 men and 1000 women are under construction on east campus. They will be ready next fall. Ground has been broken for another group which will house 1000 women. They will open in the fall of 1961.

This construction, plus 216 apartments for married graduate students, will enable 9994 students to live on campus in 1961. If planned construction continues this number will rise to nearly 12,000 in 1965 and nearly 17,000 in 1970, Mueller said.

"Even then," Mueller said, "the University will be housing only about 50 per cent of its student population since campus enrollment is expected to reach 20,000 in 1965 and climb to as high as 30,000 in 1970."

Bush to Join Journ Faculty

George S. Bush will join the faculty of the School of Journalism January 1, specializing in magazine and photo-journalism courses.

Bush is now assistant professor of journalism at the University of Minnesota. The Board of Trustees has approved his appointment as associate professor of journalism.

Eugen Goodwin, director of the School of Journalism, said Bush will bring to Penn State a rich and varied background in newspaper reporting, magazine editing and publishing, free lance writing and photography, and university teaching.

Born in Vienna, Austria, he holds Bachelor of Arts and Master of Arts degrees from Wayne University, Detroit.

He worked for the Detroit News from 1941 to 1943. After three years with the U.S. Army's Office of Strategic Services, he returned to the News as a reporter in 1946. He switched to the Detroit Free Press the following November until he left to join the staff of the San Francisco Examiner in 1951.

He resigned from the Examiner in 1953 to become co-publisher and executive editor of three picture-weeklies and a regional magazine featuring art photography. He joined the School of Journalism faculty at the University of Minnesota in September, 1956.

Students Urged to Move Cars Parked in Lot 83

The Campus Patrol office issued a warning last night that students with cars parked on the south edge of parking area 83 should move their cars back towards the Riding Stables.

Construction workers will begin dynamiting along the south edge of the lot Wednesday and the cars might be damaged by flying debris.

FOR GOOD RESULTS USE COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIEDS

SLOW AND EASY—Captain Gregory A. Gagarin gives instructions to the entrants in the egg race during the Horse Show held Sunday at the University Stables. A total of 64 ribbons were awarded in the 12 events.

64 Ribbons Given At Fall Horse Show

By CORDIE LEWIS

Sixty-four ribbons were awarded at the annual fall horse show put on by the Riding Club and the 4-H Horse and Pony Club riders of Centre County held Sunday afternoon at the University stables.

There were six ribbons awarded in each of the 12 events, but there were two events which only had five entries.

Sams Will Speak On Robert Frost

Dr. Henry W. Sams, the new head of the Department of English, will address the Belles Lettres Club at 7 tonight in Simmons main lounge.

Sams will speak on "Robert Frost: Poetry and a Poet." Frost will appear on the campus Saturday as part of the Artists Series program.

Sams holds both a bachelor's and a masters degree from Oberlin College and a doctorate from the University of North Carolina. Before coming to the University, he was a member of the faculty of the University of Chicago.

Thespian Drama Group Taps 12 New Members

Twelve students have been tapped for Thespians national drama organization.

They are Marilyn West, Jayne Crowl, Linda Brinsley, Carmella LaSpada, James Bull, Marilyn O'Brien, Edwina Hill, Herbert Deckert, Susan Brown, Phyllis Newmark, Gary Patterson and Richard Frantz.

Initiation will take place Nov. 8 at the annual fall banquet.

Federal Hall in New York City served as the first Capitol of the United States, after the Constitution was adopted.

Jess Darlington, assistant herdsman, and Captain Gregory A. Gagarin, University riding instructor, judged the events.

In the open jumper class, which was judged on the jumping performance of the horse and the fewest number of faults committed, Emy Kate, a member of the Riding Club, won first place and second place was won by Diane Barnhart, an alumna and also a member of the Riding Club.

The International Horsemanship class was won by Sara Lee Orton of the Riding Club, with Jane Hoffman, a high school student from State College but a member of the Riding Club, coming in second.

The Western Horsemanship class was won by Sharon Wood, a member of the Riding Club; Elwood Williams Jr., from the 4-H Horse and Pony Club, won second place. Lucy Kellor, Riding Club, won first place in the Beginners Horsemanship class, and Lee Beason, also a high school member of the Riding Club, placed second.

Samuel Everhartis, a 4-H member, and Emy Katz won first and second places in the bareback dollar class which was a test of the rider being able to keep a dollar bill under him as he rode bareback.

Everhartis also won first place in the egg race, with Jan Patterson of the Riding Club placing

Hatmen to Sponsor Reception for Team

The Men's Hat Association will organize a reception for the football team when they return at 4 p.m. Sunday from the Penn State - Illinois game.

Hatmen will start the reception with a motorcade through the streets led by Acacia's model-T Ford.

A combo will be formed to play at Recreation Hall where a public address system will be set up. All those at the reception will form an honor arch for the team when it finally arrives.

Plans are also being made for a master of ceremonies and Frank Gullo, professor of music, will be asked to lead the crowd in songs.

Hatmen at their meeting Sunday also decided to usher for Artists Series programs on December 13, March 9, and April 27.

They were asked by the Artists Series Committee to usher on May 10 but they cannot accept because new representatives to the association will be chosen before that time.

Stanley Foster, president of the association, will draw up the group constitution and it will be read at 8:30 p.m. tomorrow at the meeting at Sigma Chi.

The constitution will include

1000 People Attend Chordette Concert

Approximately 1000 people attended the Chordettes Concert Sunday at Recreation Hall.

According to Carmella LaSpada, general chairman of United Nations Weekend, the World University Service which sponsored the concert will break even.

Although all of the ticket money has not yet been collected and all of the donations are not in, it has been estimated that the World University Service did not lose money on the concert.

the three purposes of the association—to co-ordinate tapping dates and the tapping system, to co-ordinate group service projects, and to make functions of the association honorary as well as service.

Pennsylvania State University campus publications unite with newspapers all over the country in agreeing that "the press, as the recognized medium for informing the people, should be given every opportunity to obtain the facts. Only after every door closed by a public official has been opened to the press, shall we have complete freedom of information."
