

Profs to Show Art in HUB

Students will be given a chance to judge the works of their professors when the faculty art exhibit opens Friday in the Hetzel Union Building.

Thus far 16 professors have submitted works to the exhibition committee.

Many of the professors have participated in regional and national exhibitions and put on one-man shows.

Students will have a chance to talk informally to the professors about their exhibits at the reception from 3 to 5 p.m. Nov. 1 in the HUB lounge.

Oil paintings will be exhibited by Andrew Case, professor of art; Leon Frankston, instructor in art education; Elizabeth Yeager, assistant professor of art education; and Eleanor Zygler, assistant professor of applied art.

Paintings will also be shown by William Hanson, instructor in art, Samuel Sabean, associate professor of art, and Bruce Shaboken, instructor of art. Shaboken will also give a one-man show as one of the later HUB exhibits.

Examples of commercial art will be exhibited by Edward Adams, assistant professor of art.

Stuart Frost, instructor of art, will show his pen-and-ink drawings and Milton Osborne, head of the Department of Architecture, will exhibit his pencil sketches.

A silver jewelry case and a hooked hanging rug have been designed by Edward Mattil, associate professor of art education, while David B. Van Dommelen, instructor of housing and home art, will show a wall hanging and three ceramic pots.

John Y. Roy, assistant professor of applied art, will exhibit a water color.

Two stage settings and a pair of costume plates will be shown by Russell Whaley, assistant professor of theatre arts.

James A. Schinneller, assistant professor of art education, will show a preview of his material for his high school text, "For Students of Art."

Candidate Slips Men to Have Coffee Hours For Ed Frosh Available Now

The Education Student Council last night said that freshmen wishing to run for the council can pick up an application at the Hetzel Union desk starting today.

The applications must be returned to the HUB desk by Tuesday. They will be screened by officers of the council and the co-chairmen of the council's election committee.

It was also announced that the council will hold their first coffee hour from 4:15 to 5 p.m. next Thursday in Dining Room C of the HUB. The speaker will be Dr. Gordon H. Pritham, professor of physiological chemistry. He will speak on the mentally retarded child.

An evaluation was given of the council's handbook, which is given to freshmen during Orientation Week, and it was decided to make some changes. The cover will be revised; a photograph of Burrowes building will be on the cover instead of a drawing; a message from the present president of the student council will be included, and a special scholarship chart will appear in the booklet.

The council also discussed the possibility of having a coffee hour for the alumni next year during Homecoming Weekend.

Once or twice a month, on Thursday afternoons, the aroma of coffee will drift through Old Main, signifying the that the Dean of Men's Coffee Hour is taking place.

Sponsored by the Student Government Association, the coffee hour gives students and administration officials a chance to join in informal discussion about topics of wide and varied interests.

Present at the event will be a cross-section of students, drawn from a list compiled by Janet Callaway, coffee-hour chairman. Invitations will be sent to student leaders as well as to students whose names have been taken from the Student Directory. Miss Callaway listed freshmen as a particular target of invitations, since it is valuable for them to meet other student and administration leaders.

Miss Callaway described the coffee hour as similar to the teas given by the Womens Student Government Association for freshman coeds.

Penalties Explained By WSGA

Most freshman women and many upperclass women do not know how WSGA judicial works and why and how penalties are imposed, Dorothy Toklish, judicial chairman, said last night.

Most blackmarks are given for signing out incorrectly, failing to address postcards when leaving campus for a weekend, making noise in the dormitory and coming in late, Miss Toklish said.

A girl who comes in from 1 to 4 minutes late receives one blackmark; if the tardiness is from 5 to 10 minutes, the girl gets a 1 o'clock removal. A lenient weekend is given provided the lateness is from 11 to 20 minutes. Anything later than that is left to the discretion of judicial, she said.

A 1 o'clock removal must be taken on a Saturday night and the violator cannot date that night.

A lenient weekend campus means that the girl cannot date from 6:30 Friday night until Monday morning. She must sign in with her hostess and maintain regular weekday hours, Toklish said.

A strict campus means no dating for the same period of time. However, the girl must sign in with her hostess by 6:30 Friday, Saturday, and Sunday nights.

One ruling most girls do not know, Toklish said, is that if they wish to travel more than 35 miles in one week-day, they need the permission of a judicial member.

So What--

(Continued from page four) busy side of the Mall. But now it's a different story. You must either pedal up the hill to Curtin Rd., around to Burrowes, and then wheel your way across to the base of the Mall—or walk the bike.

I wonder if they have any plans for the future, I understand roller skates are on their way in.
