

Talent Show Set for Tonight

Indie talent will go on display at 8 tonight in the Hetzel Union ballroom. The talent show is the second feature of Indie Week.

Seven acts were selected for the show at tryouts held Friday night.

The Fred Bender Quartet will begin the show with a selection written by Bender. The song is called "The Snow Fell on the Night We Met."

President's Anniversary Is Marked

Yesterday marked the 100th anniversary of the arrival of Dr. Evan Pugh, first and youngest president at the University.

Pugh, a native of Oxford, Chester county, was 31 at the time he accepted the presidency of the so-called Farmers' High School of Pennsylvania. Even at that young age he had made his mark in Europe as a brilliant investigator in the field of chemistry.

As administrator he did much to spearhead efforts to secure passage of the Morrill Land-Grant Act, and later to have the University designated as its sole beneficiary in Pennsylvania.

Dr. Eric A. Walker looks back on the Pugh era with pride and discernment.

"His (Pugh's) breadth of vision was such," Dr. Walker says, "that he foresaw with great clarity, even in those days, the full scope of the responsibilities that would one day be entrusted to our land-grant colleges and state universities."

Dr. Pugh died in 1864, victim of typhoid fever.

La Vie Receives 'Excellent' Rating

The 1959 La Vie, senior class yearbook, was given an "Excellent" rating in the annual judging of the National School Yearbook Association, held at Columbia, Mo.

The staff of La Vie, which was edited by Joseph Patton, was commended by the NSYA for their use of design and material.

Also mentioned was the excellent use of photography, which was under the direction of Kenneth Florence, senior in psychology from Cleveland, Ohio. Florence is the editor of the 1960 La Vie.

Sorority Women Eligible for Grants

Applications will be available in the dean of women's office until Friday for the 1959-60 Panhellenic scholarships.

Four $75 scholarships will be awarded to sorority women, active members or pledges, on the basis of scholastic ability, activities, and financial need.

A separate application, not the regular university scholarship form, must be filled out for this award. No recommendations are required.

A committee composed of Carol Dominick, Panhellenic president; Wendelyn Pass, vice president; and Mrs. Norma Mountain, advisor, will select the recipients.

Delta Gamma Wins Derby Day Contest

Delta Gamma sorority won first place in Sigma Chi's Derby Day Sunday at Holmes Field.

Second place winner was Kappa Kappa Gamma, third place was Delta Zeta and fourth place was Kappa Alpha Theta.

Delta Gamma received a trophy at the Awards Presentation at Sigma Chi Sunday night. The winners of individual events also received trophies.

The individual winners were Alpha Xi Delta, Kappa Kappa Gamma, Alpha Gamma Delta, Kappa Alpha Theta, Alpha Delta Pi and Delta Gamma.

Starting last Thursday a Derby Snatch was held Sigma Chi wore derbies around campus for sorority women to steal. The most hats were captured by members of Delta Gamma.

The surprise event held at Sigma Chi's Derby Day turned out to be more of a surprise than expected.

The unannounced contest was a pig chase and two members from each of the 18 sororities participating in Derby Day were entered.

The 36 girls descended upon the pig when he was set free on Holmes Field. "Porky" seemed to be the shy type and didn't enjoy all the attention showered upon him. As Sue Rich, a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority, caught the squealing pig, he bit her on the leg.

The lucky (or not so lucky) Miss Rich gained first place in the event for her sorority.

She was treated at the infirmary for the bite. Hospital officials said that the bite was not serious.

The Derby Day was originally scheduled for Saturday but was postponed until Sunday.

Judges for the events were: Mrs. Grace Holmes, Sigma Chi housemother, John Rath, president of the Sigma Chi Alumni Association; Larrain Hubler, junior in medical technology from Morrisdale and Sweetheart of Sigma Chi; and Dr. Fred Coombs, professor of physical education.

Other features of the talent show include Ed Rols singing "You'll Never Walk Alone" and a piano solo "Valse Chromatique" played by Sally Llewellyn.

The Bill Monie Trio will sing "High Barberry" and "House of the Rising Sun."

Dave Garland and Barbara Bradley will perform two "Arthur Murray type" dances to a "cha cha" and swing.

The winner of the talent contest will be determined by an audience applause meter. The first place winner will receive a $10 award. All others participating in the show will receive a free ticket to the Autumn Ball.

Wednesday, the queen pageant will be held. Forty candidates are being interviewed tonight and last night. These interviews will determine the ten finalists who will compete in Wednesday's pageant.

In the pageant, each of the 10 finalists will be given three minutes to talk and answer questions and three minutes to do some kind of act.

The judges of the pageant will be five non-student, town residents. The winner will be crowned at the Autumn Ball to be held Saturday night.
