

House Mother Training To Be Started by IFC

Ronald Resh, Interfraternity Council vice president, announced Monday that a new training program is being developed for house mothers.

According to Resh, the program is being drawn up by the Dean of Men's office in conjunction with the fraternities.

A guide book for house mothers is being written to aid them in the proposed program.

At 9 p.m. tonight WDFM and WMAJ will present an IFC discussion program which will deal with this problem and others which face the fraternity system.

Gary Gentzler, IFC president, announced that fraternities must submit to the borough by Nov. 1 chest x-ray pictures of all kitchen help handling food. The chest x-ray program is designed as a protection for the fraternities to prevent the possible spread of tuberculosis and other diseases of the lungs.

Robert Parsky, IFC Board of Control chairman, explained some of the IFC rules concerning rushing and fraternity parties. According to Parsky, pledges who attended a full 12 weeks of summer school this year must count summer school grades as their last semester averages. Transfer pledges from schools outside the Commonwealth Campuses are given an automatic 2.0 average.

Parsky reported that sororities which hold dances at fraternity houses must make arrangements for two men to be on door duty the entire evening.

To aid in positive identification of IFC checkers, an orange identification card has been issued which will be sufficient to gain entrance to any fraternity house. Parsky said that the new cards should eliminate the problem of unauthorized men posing as IFC checkers.

Dance Planned By West Halls

West Halls Council reviewed plans for its combined dance with Nittany Council at the regular council meeting Monday.

An allotment of $125 was made to cover expenses. The council also approved a motion to charge 25 cents admission. It must now be approved by Nittany Council. It was also decided that the dance would be an informal "stag or drag" affair.

Terry Schure, freshman in engineering from Lewisburg, was appointed food and housing chairman by the council.

Suggestions for the improvement of housing facilities were also discussed. The council will request that automatic hand dryers be installed in the West Halls rest rooms, as well as drinking fountain attachments.

Breakfast--

Academic excellence—Prexy's theme for many speeches this year—is not a thing of the future, but a present reality. Academic standards have stiffened and many of the "snap" courses have gone by the wind. The fail-out of freshman is alarmingly high.

The area of innovation, exploration and good old-fashioned "trying" is perhaps Penn State's weakest point. But it isn't as weak as many believe.

The University ranks among the leaders in finding new and better methods of instruction and use of resources. The key to Penn State's future lies in exploration and innovation.

Ag Dinner To Be Held Saturday

Crops and livestock will be momentarily forgotten on Saturday when the Agriculture students concentrate on spaghetti at their 10th annual Ag Hill Party to be held Saturday in Recreation Hall.

Each year the College of Agriculture sponsors the party which includes a complete dinner, the awarding of scholarships to students in the college, bingo and square dancing.

"Science Supports Agriculture" is this year's theme and decorations will feature a cornucopia suspended from an atom.

Portions of the full-course dinner are prepared by fraternities, town restaurants, dormitories and food service. Saturday's main dish will include spaghetti and meatball sauce and all the trimmings.

Following dinner, scholarships totaling $18,515 will be awarded to 90 students.

Bingo winners will receive unique prizes ranging from cartons of eggs to frozen meats, all of which are contributed by the various departments.

According to Dr. J. Frank Cone, professor of bacteriology, the party will emphasize "faculty and students working together." Cone, Dr. Joseph Harrington, assistant professor of agronomy, and Paul Anderson, assistant professor of agricultural engineering, are faculty advisors for the party.

General chairman is Kenneth Gregg, senior in dairy science from Grove City.

DOC Extends Deadline for Applications

The deadline for submitting applications to the Division of Counseling Student Council has been extended through today. Students may file an application if they are not on academic probation; an average of 2.2 is not required.

A newsletter containing personality sketches and pictures of all the candidates and other articles pertinent to students in DOC is tentatively planned to be published by the council.

The council also decided to contact the Campus Promotion Agency about posters to further publicize their elections which will be held Nov. 3 and 4.

The first 10 candidates receiving the highest votes in the elections will fill their position on council for the entire year, the next five candidates will serve only for one semester, and alternates will be chosen after the top fifteen.

LA to Hold Career Day

The Liberal Arts Career Day has been set for Dec. 12 by the Liberal Arts Student Council last night.

The Career Day will include workshops on different occupations in the afternoon and panel discussions in the evening.

Speakers from different phases of liberal arts will be invited. The fields of sociology, speech, government, journalism, labor management, art and music are being considered, Margaret McPherson, chairman of Career Day, said.

In other business it was announced that a voting booth would be erected outside of 121 Sparks during the freshman elections next Tuesday and Wednesday. Liberal arts students will also be able to vote in the Hetzel Union Building.

At last! A breakfast drink you can keep in your room

More vitamin C than orange juice. New instant TANG is the breakfast drink you can keep right on your bookshelf—because TANG keeps anywhere without refrigeration.

Make as much as you want, whenever you want. Just mix with plain cold water—nothing to squeeze, nothing to unfreeze.

Drink TANG every morning and get more vitamin C than orange or grapefruit juice gives you. Plus vitamin A. Tastes real good, too.

Today's assignment: get TANG!

WANTED: Situations and gag lines for our two campus characters (above). Must relate to TANG. Will pay $25 for every entry used.

Address: TANG College Contest, Dept. GRM, Post Division, Battle Creek, Michigan. (Entries must be postmarked before Dec. 15, 1959.)
