

Lions to Meet WV a Today

The Daily Collegian

FOR A BETTER PENN STATE

VOL. 60, No. 34 STATE COLLEGE, PA., SATURDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 31, 1959 FIVE CENTS

—Collegian Photo by Rick Bower

THOUSANDS OF STUDENTS TRY THEIR LUCK at the sorority and independent booths during the Mardi Gras last night. The king and the winning booths will be introduced at the Mardi Brawl Jam session today. An estimated crowd of 8000 to 10,000 attended the annual event sponsored by Scrolls, senior women's hat society.

Beatniks, Beanbags, Balls, Bunnies Attract Thousands to Mardi Gras

By AMY ROSENTHAL

Beatniks, beanbags, balls, and bunnies helped to attract thousands of students to Mardi Gras last night in Recreation Hall. Other booths featured hamster races and hammering nails in a piece of wood.

Balls were used to play miniature golf, and drown a girl in flour. They were thrown through the features of 3-foot high masks and rolled through holes in a cardboard display of the world to win miniature globes.

Rings were tossed at clown noses, garter and rings at shapely legs and frisbees thrown through a swinging record.

Shapley to Discuss 'Earth as Planet'

Dr. Harlow Shapley, noted astronomer, will describe the "Origin and Development of the Earth as a Habitable Planet" at 8 p.m. tomorrow in Recreation Hall.

Shapley will use illustrations and slides with his lecture and will discuss the evolution of stars and galaxies, the various theories of the origin of planets and the natural molecular growth on a planet's surface.

Students will be admitted upon presentation of their matriculation cards.

One booth offered a chance to shoot at black girl bunnies and a white girl bunny presided over a beanbag toss booth. Beanbags were thrown at the girls and through wheels.

Closed booths included a beatnik expresso coffee house complete with music and poetry readings, awarding of dinners and movie tickets to the one who could save Cinderella, a can-can line to induce students into a gambling hall, fortune telling, and a showboat.

The five finalists for Mardi Gras king are Anthony Mortimer, Chi Omega; Stephen Off, Alpha Epsilon Phi; Larry By-

(Continued on page eight)

Ball to Climax Indie Activities

The Indie Week activities will climax with the Autumn Ball and the crowning of the Indie Queen tonight in the Hetzel Union ballroom.

Music for the dance, which will be held from 9 to 12 p.m., will be provided by the newly reorganized AIM band which is sponsored by the Association of Independent Men.

The five finalists in the Queen contest are Judith Frederic, Lynn Marvel, Jacqueline Trone, Ethel Bodine and Mary Dugan.

The queen was picked by non-student, townmen, but her identity will be kept a secret until the crowning.

7-Story Fall Kills Pollock Hall Worker

A construction worker on the Pollock Circle Residence Hall project was killed yesterday morning when he fell seven stories from the top of a building.

The victim, William Baughman, 22, of nearby Fleming, fell when a wooden frame, on which he was working, collapsed atop Buildin Four of the Pollock project. He was working on the frame, hoisting molten pitch from the ground. The frame collapsed, sending Baughman to his death, at 8:15 a.m.

The Alpha Fire Co. ambulance responded to the emergency call. Baughman's body was taken to the Centre County Hospital morgue, after he was pronounced dead at the scene by a physician.

Baughman was employed by the Standard Roofing Co., of Birmingham, Ala., which is a subcontractor on the residence halls under the Virginia Engineering

Co., Inc., holder of the general contract.

Baughman was born in Bellefonte, April 25, 1937, the son of Wilbur and Elizabeth Emel Baughman. In 1958 he married Clara Peters, who survives with a son, William Allen. Funeral announcements have not yet been made.

The fall was the most tragic of several recent construction accidents. A worker was uninjured this summer after he was blown 15 feet into the air by a dynamite blast. A worker on the Hammond Engineering project was slightly injured last month when he was knocked off a part of the building, causing him to fall 25 feet.

Nittanies Rated 2-Touchdown Favorites Over Mountaineers

By SANDY PADWE
Collegian Sports Editor

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Oct. 31—Penn State's unbeaten and seventh ranked Nittany Lions will be out to gain more ground here today when they play West Virginia at 1:30 p.m.

The Lions are a 14-point favorite but Pappy Lewis and his Mountaineers aren't listening because they're out to knock off Penn State and win "Old Ironsides."

"Old Ironsides" is a trophy which goes to the winner of the round-robin between Pitt, Penn State and West Virginia.

The Mounties (3-3) have beaten Pitt, 23-15, so a win today would give them the coveted trophy.

The Mounties also have beaten Richmond and George Washington and have lost to Syracuse, 44-0, Boston U. and Maryland.

Penn State holds wins over Missouri, V.M.I., Colgate, Army, Boston U. and Illinois.

Observers here look for a game between two of the better winged-t quarterbacks in the Overcast skies and occasional rain is expected for this afternoon's football game in Morgantown. The rainfall is expected to be light and shouldn't hamper play.

Temperatures will be on the cool side with readings between 52 and 55 degrees.

East when Penn State's Richie Lucas and West Virginia's Danny Williams bang heads.

Lucas, third in the nation in total offense, and picked as the New York Times' midseason All-American quarterback, is one of the nation's best backs.

This fall he's picked up 866 yards in 136 plays—604 through the air and 262 on the ground. And his talent doesn't stop there. He's a strong defensive player and is considered a pro prospect on these merits alone.

Williams is the key to West Virginia's offensive attack. His record this fall isn't as impressive as Lucas' but he's a real threat as a passer and runner.

Like Lucas, he loves to roll-out and uses the option play quite a bit.

Injuries have forced Penn State coach Rip Engle to make a few changes in his lineup for today's game.

Bill Popp moves into the first unit right guard spot in place of Frank Korbini who's on the sidelines with a badly twisted knee.

The rest of the first unit stays (Continued on page six)

Weekend Promises Cloudy Skies, Rain

Cloudy skies will continue through the weekend with periods of light rain possible at almost any time.

Today will be cloudy with occasional rain. The expected high is 52 degrees. The occasional rain will continue tonight, with a tendency for steadier rain tomorrow.

The low temperature tonight will be 43 degrees. A little warmer weather is anticipated tomorrow with a high of 57 degrees expected.

Frost Will Read Works At Schwab

Robert Frost, one of America's most distinguished poets, will read selections from his works at 8:30 tonight in Schwab Auditorium.

Students who are unable to see the performance may hear it over radio stations WDFM and WMAJ in a direct broadcast from Schwab.

Robert Frost

The speech will also be piped through the speaker system in the main lounge of the Hetzel Union Building.

Frost has been called the poet laureate of America.

The heartbeat of America and its way of life is said to be expressed in his poetry.

A great deal of Frost's writings center around New England where he spent most of his life. He knows the area and its people intimately and he describes them vividly in his poems. He often writes using the speech habits of the rural New Englander.

Frost himself says of poetry: "A poem begins in delight and ends in wisdom. . . . It assumes direction with the first line laid down; it runs a course of lucky events, and ends in a clarification of life. . . ."

Frost presently resides in Vermont and Massachusetts. At the age of 85, he continues to lecture and presents readings to students all over the country. After his performance at the University he will travel to Michigan University to speak to students there.

Court Dashes Hopes for Strike's End

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court dashed government hopes yesterday for an early end to the 108-day-old steel strike by agreeing to review a lower court's order that would send 500,000 steelworkers back to the mills for 80 days.

The action was a victory for the Steelworkers Union which challenged the back-to-work order on constitutional and other grounds. It was a defeat for the Justice Department which had pressed the court to uphold the injunction issued by a Pittsburgh district judge on Oct. 21 under national emergency machinery of the Taft-Hartley law. The injunction was upheld last Tuesday by an appeals court in Philadelphia, and the union carried its fight to the Supreme Court.

Acting in a brief order, the high court called for oral arguments next Tuesday. It kept in suspension the back-to-work order until it finally disposes of the case. It directed further that all legal briefs be filed by noon Monday.

The upshot of the high court's ruling is that the steel strike—which has idled more than 800,000 workers—will keep going into next week, at least until the Supreme Court renders its decision.

In its appeal papers, the union fired a broadside at the legal underpinning of the Taft-Hartley law's strike-ending machinery, in use for the past 12 years.

Blasting back, the Justice Department said the union's argument's are "clearly without merit" and that "there is no need for further review by this court."

In a 28-page petition, union counsel Arthur J. Goldberg said the case raises "questions of the utmost gravity" concerning "the scope of the district court's powers and discretion under the act, the nature of the proof required to support the findings as to peril to the national health and safety which the district court is required to make, the kinds of disputes which the act may properly be said to cover, and the constitutional validity of the entire scheme."

As for the 80-day "cooling off" period that would be enforced under the injunction, the union said this would avail nothing. This was an apparent reference to the lack of any further government weapons to prevent resumption of the strike if it is not settled during the enforced truce.