

Osborne to Get Honorary LLD At Convocation

Milton S. Osborne, professor and head of the Department of Architecture, will be conferred the honorary degree of doctor of laws today by the University of Manitoba.

He will be one of three persons to be honored at the convocation at which Justice Samuel Freedman will be installed as the chancellor of the University of Manitoba.

While in Winnipeg, Osborne will participate in the dedication of the new School of Architecture Building at the University.

Osborne was director of the School of Architecture there for 17 years prior to his appointment to the University faculty. He assisted in the preliminary planning for the new building to be dedicated.

While there, he was one of the original members of the Metropolitan Planning Commission of Winnipeg, and in 1955 was made an honorary life member of the Manitoba Association of Architects. He is also the first American to be admitted to Fellowship in the Royal Architectural Institute of Canada.

Sewage Treatment Ordered Expanded

The state Sanitary Water Board yesterday directed the University to submit plans for expanding its sewage treatment plant. The modifications asked for are to provide for an expanding population and additional protection for Thompson Run, Slab Cabin Run and Spring Creek area. The directive stems from the long fight between the State Health Board and the University over the cause of repeated killings of fish in Spring Creek and its tributaries.
