

Students Construct Scale Model of Mall

By JEFF POLLACK

A miniature S. Allen St. is taking shape on the fourth floor of Sackett — complete to the last detail.

The scale model buildings are part of the fifth year architecture class project to design a shoppers' mall for Allen St. Two eight-foot-long working models are being constructed for the presentation in early January.

Caucus Cuts University Project Aid

A General Assembly Senate Republican caucus cut $60 million from the State capital improvement program but left the $10 million recommendation for the University intact.

A Republican committee made the cuts at a meeting with Anthony J. Caruso, director of the General State Authority, last week.

Included in the new projects to be begun under the $10 million asked for this biennium are a $3 million wing for Recreation Hall, and a huge revamping and extension of campus utilities costing $909,000.

Other proposed projects include expanded nuclear study and research facilities at $1,272,000; a $1,070,000 addition to the electrical engineering building; and a $1,740,000 arts and humanities building.

Gov. David L. Lawrence's budget asked expenditures of nearly $106 million for all types of improvement. In his request for $10 for the University, he pushed aside for future bienniums about $22 million in new buildings asked by the University.

The Republican caucus recommended cuts in the total budget. These cuts sliced another $10 million from building projects at the University of Pennsylvania, and Pittsburgh and Temple Universities.

TIM Will Ask Borough to Lift Parking Ban

By JANET DURSTINE

A delegation from the Town Independent Men council will recommend to State College borough council Monday night that town independent men be allowed to park on borough streets from 2 to 6 a.m. on Saturday and Sunday mornings.

Parking is prohibited on borough streets at these hours every day.

A letter sent to council members said the present policy was inconvenient to persons visiting town independents and to the men themselves on dating nights.

TIM passed, on the first reading last night, a new constitution which gives to the council president an item veto power and the power to vote on all issues but elections to make or break a tie.

The council will also investigate the possibility of holding a Christmas party for children of town independent men. Town independents who have children eligible to attend the party may sign up in the TIM office, 203-G Hetzel Union Building.

The Workshop Series: Part Four

- The JAZZ CLUB is valiantly trying to disprove all the mathematicians who maintain that four quarters make a whole. We hope that you will make our little attempts successful by throwing a little support our way this FRIDAY evening at LA GALLERIA and thereby allowing us to continue our little jazz sessions — we really aren't bothering anyone.
- The military are invited to come and get their tickets at the same time as the civilians by marching to LA GALLERIA between 8:30 and 1 Friday and by placing $.75 (no stamps) down on the little table with a hole in the middle — if the money falls through you get it back. Members get a break at $.50 and friends of the family will not be admitted free — this is a Jazz Club function.
- On hand providing the sounds will be the new and exciting DITTY POTTER JAZZ QUARTET, a group featuring the HARD BOP styling of the leader on tenor sax. This is the most moving group to be presented thus far, one that can be enjoyed by all.
- Unlike some places we are open all night; be independent or stereotyped, in military dress or civvy attire, but just be at...
