Grid Films Slated For Tomorrow

Movies of the '48 Cotton Bowl game and this year's Alabama-Vanderbilt game will be shown at 6:30 p.m. tomorrow in 112 Buckhout.

The movies were originally scheduled for tonight. Admission is free and students, faculty and administrative personnel may attend.

A Liberty Bowl pep rally, sponsored by the Block "S" Club will be held at 7:45 tomorrow in the Hetzel Union ballroom.

The entire football team will be presented by Dave Williams, head football manager.

Frank Gullo and Hummel Fishburn will provide entertainment. Richard Haber, junior in arts and letters from Bethlehem, will be master of ceremonies.

A farewell rally for the team will be held at 3 p.m. Thursday in Recreation Hall. Robert Higgins, 1947 coach, will be the guest speaker. Five other members of the Cotton Bowl team will attend the rally.

The cheering contest that was scheduled last night in front of Old Man was far from a success. Only 20 or 25 students turned out in the chilly weather.

It appeared as though the men from Nittany slightly outnumbered the students from North Halls.

Cloudy Weather To Continue Today

Cloudy and cold weather will continue today, but rain is expected tonight and tomorrow.

A rather intense storm system, which is now located in Texas, will move on a northeastward course towards Pennsylvania during the next two days. This should cause rain to begin in this region sometime tonight and then continue tomorrow.

The high today should be about 44 degrees. Slightly warmer weather is due tonight with a low of 37 expected. The high tomorrow will be about 50 degrees.

Spring Time Tables

Time tables for the spring semester are now available at the Hetzel Union desk.

They will again include the final examination schedule. The price of the time tables is 35 cents.

Greek Crowd Cheers Ike

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — This ancient capital of Greece cut loose with a mammoth, emotional welcome for President Eisenhower. The joy was dimmed by a railing collapse that injured 43 persons, several seriously, at the height of the ovation.

About 750,000 — approximately the same number that cheered Eisenhower earlier in the day in Iran—shouted exuberant greetings as the President rode through the gaily decorated streets of Athens with King Paul I at his side.

For 10 miles, from the airport to the palace where Queen Frederika waited, Eisenhower was hailed as a modern-day hero in this storied land rich with history of heroes of its own.

The accident occurred two blocks from the palace, at a spot the President had just passed. Opposite the U.S. Embassy a railing atop a wall in front of an apartment building crumbled under the weight of hundreds of persons who had been scrambling for vantage point.

Those pressing against the railing fell upon the crowd.

Two hospitals and a first aid station said eight of the injured required hospitalization.

Eisenhower learned of the accident when he arrived at the palace, where he is spending the night as King Paul's guest. The President expressed sympathy and asked that his regret be extended to the victims and their families.

It was the first incident to mar the President's trip to 11 countries, of which Greece is the seventh.

Eisenhower flew in at dusk near the end of a tiring 22-hour day that began with a farewell to India.

He flashed his famous grin and waved in response to the cheers of the thousands who came out in the chill and mist.

In response to a call from Premier Constantine Karamalis, the Greeks turned out to show their gratitude to the United States for the military aid that helped stamp out a Communist rebellion in the '40s and has since built up Greece as an ally in the Western alliance.

Eisenhower said the long devotion to democratic principles of this sturdy little nation next door to the Soviet orbit has won the world's admiration.

Collegian Increases Circulation

The Daily Collegian increased its circulation by 500 copies beginning today, bringing its Tuesday through Friday morning press run to 7500.

Collegian Inc., publishing body of the newspaper, approved the increase at its meeting Saturday. The Saturday press run will remain at 6500 copies since circulation surveys have shown that additional copies are not needed.

The extra copies will be divided among the various circulation points which include the Hetzel Union Building, Waring, Warrnock, Redifer, Simmons, McElwain, Atherton and Nittany Dining areas, and downtown restaurants.

Dennis Malick, Collegian editor, urged yesterday that students share copies of the newspaper as much as possible, since financial limitations prevent any larger increase at this time.

Collegian publishes approximately one paper for every two students on campus, Malick said. The increase to 7500 places the circulation total well above the one-for-two ratio.

Of this total, about 500 papers are sent off-campus through subscriptions. This includes those being sent to University campuses.

Prexy Cancels Nigeria Study

President Eric A. Walker has resigned from a commission studying post-school and higher education problems in the African state of Nigeria.

Walker said yesterday he resigned because the State Legislature's lateness in acting on the budget has set back consideration of major University problems.

Walker would have taken a month's leave of absence near the end of this month to go to Nigeria with the commission. He was asked to be a member of the group about three months ago.

The commission is sponsored by the government of Nigeria and the Carnegie Corp. of New York. It is composed of educators from the United States, England and Nigeria.

Special Permissions

All women will have 11 o'clock permissions on Thursday night, the Women's Student Government Association announced last night.

last night that the special permission is traditionally given the Thursday before Christmas vacation so that coeds may attend the parties.

The annual IFC Ball will be held April 1, in Recreation Hall. The dance committee is now writing to agencies in New York to select a band for the dance.

The public relations and publications committees of the IFC have been combined and John Yamulla of Pi Kappa Phi is chairman. The committee will select a "fraternity man of the month" beginning next semester.

According to Yamulla, questionnaires will be sent to fraternities which will select their candidate for the honor. The man of the month will be selected on a basis of all-University average, honors and elected and appointed activities.

A questionnaire on hazing practices is now being formulated. The form will be sent to all fraternities which will return them unsigned. They are to state all hazing practices used during pledging and initiation.

The Association of Fraternity Counselors is now studying the duties of fraternity advising.

Student Affairs Study

Social Facilities Called Inadequate

By BARB YUNK
Fifth of Series

There are inadequate social and recreational opportunities, facilities and programs for University students and faculty.

This fact was reported by the subcommittee on social and recreational affairs in their 1958 report on student social and recreational activities.

The committee's report attributed much of the inadequacy of the system to the lack of coordination and cooperation planning among student groups, colleges and administrative agencies. It also stated that a rearrangement of social and recreational facilities would enable them to be used more efficiently.

The University's solutions to this problem are centered around the construction of the new football stadium, the proposed construction of a recreational area for women and the recreational facilities in Stone Valley.

Information for the study which revealed the deficiencies was secured by sending a questionnaire to 400 statistically selected students who were representative of the different divisions of the student body.

The students were asked to answer questions on the six recreational areas of: the Hetzel Union Building, women's social life, men's social life, art and music, religious life and clubs.

The results of the questions on the HUB showed that, although it is one of the most up-to-date student union buildings in the United States, the space has not been apportioned properly to student needs.

The Lions Den, used by 96 per cent of the students, and the game room are almost always crowded; while the ballroom and cardroom are rarely used to capacity. To solve this problem, the committee suggested that the HUB be expanded, that room distribution be adjusted and that the possibility of annexes at other locations be investigated.

Christmas Programs Planned for Tonight

By AMY ROSENTHAL

"Deck the Halls with Boughs of Holly!"

Christmas carols will literally fill the air at 7 tonight when students gather in the courtyard of the Helen Eakin Eisenhower Chapel near the Christmas tree, for the traditional campus Carol Sing.

Singers from the Meditation chapel choirs, directed by James W. Beach, will lead the singing and sing two anthems, "Beside Thy Cradle" and "Come Thou Long Expected Jesus."

Those who wish to sing can meet in the courtyards of Simmons Halls and West Halls at 6:30 p.m. or join the caravans of people who will pass the dormitories on the way to the chapel.

Beach has planned for piano accompaniment for the carols. A loudspeaker will be attached to the piano, played by William Mastrocola, sophomore in secondary education from Clifton Heights. Mastrocola will also play an organ prelude inside the chapel with the windows open for 10 minutes before the caroling begins.

The caroling is being sponsored by the University Christian Association. There will also be a reading entitled "Our Pagan Christmas."

After the singing a party will be held in the chapel lounge.

Upholding the Penn State Christmas tradition that he started 30 years ago, George J. Wurfl, professor emeritus of German, will read the account of the Nativity at the German Christmas Carole sing 7:30 tonight in Schwab Auditorium.

The program is sponsored by the Department of German.

Wurfl started the program when he was on the German faculty because of the interest (Continued on page five)
