

Professor Discusses Breeding of Trout

By JOANNE MARK

"If you can't catch 'em, breed 'em" is the best policy to follow when dealing with trout according to Dr. James E. Wright, associate professor of genetics.

"A Corn Geneticist in a Trout Hatchery" was Wright's topic as he addressed the Faculty Luncheon Club yesterday.

ODK to Host Delegates from 16 Universities

Omicron Delta Kappa, men's leadership honorary society, will host 55 student and faculty delegates from 16 colleges at the Province Conference to be held here March 24, 25 and 26.

The delegates will come from colleges in Pennsylvania, New York, Maryland and New Jersey.

George K. Brown, who is in charge of student affairs and welfare at Carnegie Institute of Technology, will serve as advisor for the conference.

President Eric A. Walker was asked to speak at the conference but had to decline because he will be out of town that weekend.

The conference will begin Thursday night with a reception in the Hetzel Union Building.

Six discussion workshops will be held Friday and Saturday in the HUB.

A banquet is scheduled Friday evening at the Nittany Lion Inn and a dance will be held Friday night at a fraternity house.

Members of the local chapter of ODK will meet at 9 tonight at the home of Dr. Arthur M. Wellington, professor of counseling education, to decide on the general theme and select speakers for the conference.

Delegates will also discuss the position of ODK on their respective campuses and the ODK membership requirements, besides the conference theme.

Wright, who is in charge of the graduate program of genetics, spoke of his experiences and of programs he has directed since becoming genetic consultant at the Benner Springs Trout Hatchery eight years ago.

A trout fisherman since coming to Pennsylvania in 1945, Wright claims to have known very little about fish when he accepted the post at Benner Springs.

The Benner Springs Hatchery, a new type of hatchery, was designed eight years ago in an attempt to minimize environmental differences in trout breeding. The hatchery has 100 different breeding ponds.

The projects at Benner Springs are concerned primarily with the development of better strains of trout.

Characteristics brought about by controlled breeding are: a larger trout in a shorter time; greater amounts of larger size eggs; greater fighting ability; vigor; increased chances for survival in the stream, and more attractively colored fish. (For example putting spots on albino Brook Trout.)

Wright told of how he obtained a beautifully colored Rainbow Trout by feeding the fish sweet red peppers.

Columbia Soph Wins Chess Title

Columbia University sophomore Leslie Ault of Cranford, N.J., won the National Intercollegiate Individual Chess Title in the final round of the tournament held at the University Dec. 28 to 30.

Dr. Orrin Frink, coach of the University's chess team, presented Ault with the U.S. Chess Federation Traveling Trophy, the Permanent Trophy and a $100 scholarship award.

In the final round, Ault tied with Sanford Green of the City College of New York to finish the three-day tournament with a score of five.

Four players, including Green, tied for second place with four points each.

The top University entries, Anthony Cantone, junior in aeronautical engineering from Philadelphia, and Gerald Eckman, senior in physics from Millersville, each received three points.

Frank Brady, business manager of the USCF directed the tournament.

The six-round Swiss system was used, in which two rounds a day are played and a time limit of 40 moves in two hours and 20 moves an hour thereafter is set.

The tournament was sponsored by the University Chess Club and held in the Hetzel Union cardroom.

Junior IFC To Hold Drive

The Junior Interfraternity Council voted last night to sponsor an area-wide book drive for Korean colleges, universities and libraries.

According to Richard Moyer, Junior IFC president, Korea is in desperate need of technical books and works of American and English literature.

"Twenty-five per cent of all classrooms were destroyed and 50 per cent of their teachers and professors were killed or captured by the Communists," Moyer said.

The council also voted to have a permanent delegate from each fraternity appointed to the council. Henceforth, each member fraternity must be represented by their delegate or authorized alternate.

Failure to attend three consecutive meetings, or four accumulative absences, will result in dismissal from the council.

Fraternities dismissed from the council must pay a $10 fee and be accepted by a majority vote of the Junior IFC to be reinstated.
