Coed Receives Position On National Hockey Team

Any person who believes that men are the only athletic headline winners in the Nittany Valley should do a quick about face to notice Sandra Kleeb, sophomore in physical education from Wayne.

Miss Kleeb was recently awarded one of the highest honors in women's collegiate field hockey, when she was named to the second Mid-East district team in the final elimination games of the United States Women's Field Hockey Association.

The second coed in the University's history ever to make the nationals, Miss Kleeb scored the winning point for her team in one of the national games when she shattered a two-two tie in the exciting last 30 seconds against the South-East district.

Those attending the finals, held at the Friends School, Washington, D.C. at the end of November, were addressed by Vice President Richard M. Nixon at the opening ceremonies. Included in the colorful program was a review of the competing teams, complete with guard.

An active member of the Women's Recreation Association, Miss Kleeb is sophomore representative on the executive board. She participates in nearly every intramural activity for women on the campus and is corresponding secretary of the Student Major Club.

Miss Kleeb was also a member of the second Susquehanna Field Hockey Association team last year and won a place on the second Mid-East team in competition with 80 other coeds from the Susquehanna district.

Other teams competing in the tournament were the Mid-West, New-Atlantic, North-East, Philadelphia District, Pacific District, South-West, South-East and the Great Lakes District.

The national championship team was selected from the outstanding members of each team competing. This group will tour Europe next year and compete with individual national champions over-seas.

Medical School Entrance Exam Set for May

The Educational Testing Service announced today that candidates for admission to medical school in the fall of 1961 should take the Medical College Admission Test in May.

The Educational Testing Service will give the test twice during the current calendar year. Candidates may take the MCAT on Saturday, May 7, or on Saturday, Oct. 29, when they are administered at more than 300 local centers in all parts of the country.

Copies of the Bulletin of Information, which contains an application form and gives details of registration and administration for the May test, may be secured from Dr. Leon R. Kneebone, 117 Buckhout, or directly from the Educational Testing Service, 20 Nassau St., Princeton, New Jersey.

Completed applications must reach the ETS office by April 23 for the May 7 administration. Information regarding the Oct. 29 administration may be obtained from The Psychological Corporation, 304 E. 45th St., New York 17, N.Y.

SCCA to Be Closed Until Next Semester

The Student Check Cashing Agency will remain closed until next semester after new matriculation cards have been distributed.

Richard Levinson, SCCA personnel-advertising manager, said last night the agency has been closed since Monday to give his staff time to study for finals.

Ag Exhibit Sent To Farm Show

Several special displays exhibiting some of the educational services of the University will be a part of the State Farm Show in Harrisburg next week.

The show, which is being held from Jan. 11 to 15, has as its theme "Quality in Quantity." In keeping with this theme the University's exhibit will be located in a 1200-square-foot area and will include a sequence of panels on progress in food production.

Another section will deal with the University's 4-H Club program. Also included will be a nutrition display.

Radio and television personnel from the College of Agriculture will conduct live broadcasts from the booth as a part of the total Farm Show coverage.

Rhode Island declared its independence from Great Britain two months before the Declaration of Independence was signed on July 4, 1776.

Players Seek Cops, Punks and Lifters

Penn State Players are looking for ex-cops, city people, shop lifters, punks, abortionists, loyal women and students with Philadelphia accents.

To be precise, they are looking for new faces to act in their production "The Detective Story," which will run in Schwab Auditorium March 3 to 5. There are parts for 24 men and 8 women plus extras, according to Kelly Yeaton, director. "This large cast will provide an opportunity for many aspiring actors to get on a Players' stage, and take a dip in the local theatre scene," he said.

Tryouts will be held at 7 p.m. Sunday and Monday on the Schwab Auditorium stage.

The playwright, Sidneg Kingsley, presents a realistic picture of routine cases brought into a New York City police station in the course of a day. The setting is the detective's squad room on the second floor of the 21st precinct station. (As a matter of record, Manhattan does not have a 21st Precinct station house.)

Out of human misery and vice emerges the case of a decent young man who steals money from his employer. Although a woman who is in love with him comes to his aid and the employer is offered everything taken from him, the case falls into the hands of McLeod, a hardworking detective.

McLeod's experience in police work has developed a mania for punishing all law-breakers, whom he regards as incorrigibles. His world collapses when he learns his wife has made use of the services of an abortionist involved in another case he is working on.

"The Detective Story" opened in New York in 1949 and ran for 581 performances.

A critic described the play as a melodrama that possesses "so much naturalism and realism and performs so easily, that a careless onlooker might use a film term on it and call it a documentary."

Would you sign this $10,000,000,000 I.O.U. for unnecessary taxes?

Of course you wouldn't take on such a staggering debt yourself. But you and other taxpayers may have to share this whopping burden in new taxes!

What would it be for? To put the federal government farther into the electric light and power business. And it will be a reality if the promoters of such federal "public power" get their way. Already, such spending for this purpose has cost taxpayers about $5,500,000,000! (That's five and a half billion dollars.)

Is $10,000,000,000 more tax spending really necessary? Not at all. Independent electric companies like yours are able and ready to fill America's growing needs for low-price electricity. And they don't depend on your taxes to do the job.

Unnecessary tax spending for federal "public power" goes on mainly because so few people know they are paying the bill. But it can be stopped as soon as enough people do know. Will you help spread the word?

ATTENTION SENIORS

Seniors in M.I. and Phys. Ed. have until Jan. 13 to have their 1960 La Vie portrait taken at the Penn State Photo Shop 9 A.M. to 4 P.M.

All seniors are requested to return their proofs as soon as possible.

So You Think You're MALADJUSTED?

Do you drag to your eight o'clocks looking and feeling like an ad for tired blood? And when you get there, you fall asleep during lecture? Of course, you skipped breakfast and your stomach growls so much that you keep yourself and the whole class awake. Not such a popular trick with profs. And that's why you think you're maladjusted.

And of course, you just might be. But more than likely, a good breakfast would do the trick. A steaming hot cup of coffee from McLanahan's will keep you alert for classes, and an order of bacon and eggs will appease your abused stomach. There, your problems are all solved.

At McLanahan's, you get quick service and a variety of breakfast menus. Plus their specialty—orange juice squeezed from fresh oranges.

You have a choice of nine cereals, or a hot breakfast of eggs, bacon or griddle cakes with syrup. Eat at McLanahan's every day and face your eight o'clocks wide awake.
