

Adolescent Art Expresses Emotions, View of World

Have you ever passed through the Hetzel Union Building, looked at a picture exhibited, and asked yourself, "What is it?"

In the current HUB art exhibit "Adolescent Art" which starts today, not only will you be able to tell what the picture is, but by looking carefully you will be able to determine feelings expressed and how the adolescents of different countries view the world.

Sixty pictures done by high school children from 34 countries have been compiled by the United Nations Educational Social and Cultural Organization and will be shown in the HUB until Jan. 24.

Also exhibited will be a picture chosen from 150 drawings of Centre County grade and high school children showing a child's idea of an accident.

The drawing represents a new way of teaching safety to school children. The teachers describe an accident situation and the students are to imagine themselves in the accident and picture how the accident would look. Before this safety through art was taught by asking school children to draw safety posters and slogans.

The drawing exhibited may not be the best artistically but it was chosen because it is the best showing feeling about an accident.

Teachers of adolescents should not look for professional perfection in the art of their students. Viktor Lowenfeld, head of the Department of Art Education, said.

Adolescents express their feelings in pictures, he said, just as younger children do, although they have more control of technique.

Picture of adolescents fulfill their needs and are many times characterized by romantic exaggerations and overstatements, Lowenfeld said.

HEc Council Elects Officers

Elizabeth Eagelman, sophomore in home economics from Womelsdorf, was elected president of Home Economics Council last night.

Other newly-elected officers are Anthony Canike, sophomore in hotel administration from Yeaton, vice president; Judith Geary, sophomore in home economics from Williamsport, secretary; Nancy Griffin, junior in home economics from Vanderbilt, treasurer.

The council also discussed the possibility of sponsoring a Home Economics Career Day sometime next semester. Financial support would come from the Intercollege Council Board.

"Dating Away From Home" was announced as the title for the panel at the Home Economics Spring Weekend.

MI Extends Honor System

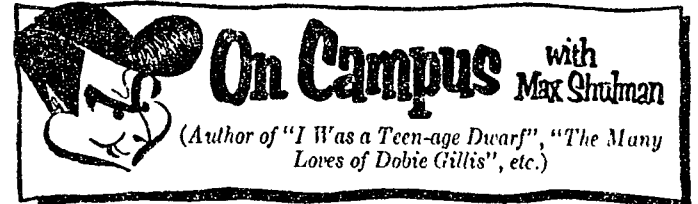

The Department of Mineral Industries accepted the possibility of holding the annual Mineral Industries Award Banquet early in the next semester so that graduating seniors may have the benefits of these awards when applying for jobs. Kay Carpenter and Mary Bvers were appointed co-chairman of the event.

Ronald Hoinberger, junior in mineral preparation engineering from Lebanon, was nominated to represent his curriculum on the Honor Council, set up to govern the system.

To date only one other curriculum has accepted the honor code. The MI Council hopes to see initiation of this system by next semester with the Department of Fuel Technology and Mining also participating. John Bonestell,

Tongue-in-Cheek--

(Continued from page four) Daily Collegian would then become the greatest newspaper in the world; but then only a very small percentage of Nostradamus' predictions ever came true.

HAIL TO THE DEAN!

Today let us examine that much maligned, widely misunderstood, grossly overworked, wholly dedicated campus figure—the dean.

The dean (from the Latin deanere—to expel) is not, as many think, primarily a disciplinary officer. He is a counselor and guide, a haven and refuge for the troubled student. The dean (from the Greek deanos—to skewer) is characterized chiefly by sympathy, wisdom, patience, forbearance, and a fondness for homely pleasures like barn-raising, gruel, spell-downs, and Marlboro Cigarettes. The dean (from the German deangemacht—to poop a party) is fond of Marlboros for the same reason that all men of good will are fond of Marlboros—because Marlboro is an honest cigarette. Those better makin's are honestly better, honestly aged to the peak of perfection, honestly blended for the best of all possible flavors. The filter honestly filters. Marlboro honestly comes in two different containers—a soft pack which is honestly soft, and a flip-top box which honestly flips. You too will flip when next you try an honest Marlboro, which, one honestly hopes, will be soon.

But I digress. We were learning how a dean helps undergraduates. To illustrate, let us take a typical case from the files of Dean S. . . . of the University of Y. . . . (Oh, why be so mysterious? The dean's name is Sigafos and the University is Yutah.)

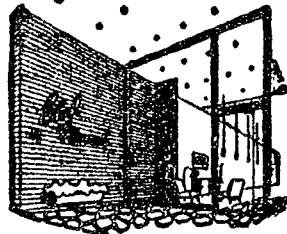

Wise, kindly Dean Sigafos was visited one day by a freshman named Walter Aguincoourt who came to ask permission to marry one Emma Blenheim, his dormitory laundress. To the dean the marriage seemed ill-advised, for Walter was only 18 and Emma was 91. Walter agreed, but said he felt obligated to go through with it because Emma had invested her life savings in a transparent rain hood to protect her from the mist at Niagara Falls where they planned to spend their honeymoon. What use, asked Walter, would the poor woman have for a rain hood in Yutah? The wise, kindly dean pondered briefly and came up with an answer: let Walter punch holes in the back of Emma's steam iron; with steam billowing back at the old lady, she would find a rain hood very useful—possibly even essential.

Whimpering with gratitude, Walter kissed the dean's Phi Beta Kappa key and hastened away to follow his advice which, it pleases me to report, solved matters brilliantly.

Today Emma is a happy woman—singing lustily, wearing her rain hood, eating soft-center chocolates, and ironing clothes—twice as happy, to be candid, than if she had married Walter. . . . And Walter? He is happy too. Freed from his liaison with Emma, he married a girl much nearer his own age—Agnes Yucca, 72. Walter is now the proud father—stepfather, to be perfectly accurate—of three fine healthy boys from Agnes's first marriage—Everett, 38; Willem, 43; and Irving, 55—and when Walter puts the boys in Eton collars and takes them for a stroll in the park on Sunday afternoons, you may be sure there is not a dry eye in Yutah. . . . And Dean Sigafos? He too is happy—happy to spend long, tiring days in his little office, giving counsel without stint and without complaint, doing his bit to set the young, uncertain feet of his charges on the path to a brighter tomorrow.

© 1960 Max Shulman

We don't say that Marlboro is the dean of filter cigarettes, but it's sure at the head of the class. Try some—or if you prefer mildness without filters, try popular Philip Morris from the same makers.

Through the Looking Glass

with Gabbi

Methinks that time of year is looming up again. Finals time, when beds remain unmade for days, the ashtrays are filled to overflowing, and the supply of midnight oil runs low. But why should we dwell on such subjects? Let's turn to something much more pleasant. For instance:

February 14 is Valentine's Day

as if you didn't know. But something you might not know is that Ethel's has the largest selection of Valentines in town. Choose from traditionals for relatives and sweethearts or contemporaries for friends with a sense of humor. Make sure they have a sense of humor.

Strickly For Glamour

are these frilly bedroom slippers in pink, blue and black. Adorned with pink rosettes, they are easy to pack and low in price. Only $3.00.

In The Leather Department

stop in and see the selection of matching lighters and cigarette holders in pastels and neutral shades.

Ethel and I are real excited about the beautiful wallet sets by Rumpp. Colors range from red to egg shell and an especially rich-looking set in alligator.

Ladies, are you ashamed of your hands? No, we're not selling hand lotion but manicure sets. They're compact for limited drawer space and have a leather zipper case in white or tan.

Wordsville

Like man, get with it and swing on down to Ethel's for a handy pocket size dictionary in Spanish, Russian, German or French. They're perfect for language classes or SGA sponsored tours. The price is as small as they are, just $1.00.

Speaking of words, it's about time I stopped running off at the mouth and say

So long Gabbi

Ethel Meserve

Repairs	Television
Car Radios	Radios
Phonographs

television service center at State College TV 232 S. Allen St.

PRINTING
Letterpress • Offset
Commercial Printing
352 E. College AD 8-6794

TWO GREAT FILMS THAT WILL HOLD INTEREST FOR ALL

"THE GREAT ADVENTURE"
A Newly Completed Film About Russia

AND

"European Rhapsody"
A PRIZE WINNING FILM AT BRUSSELS WORLD FAIR ABOUT SCANDINAVIA

BOTH MOVIES IN COLOR
— AT —
State College Hotel
7:30 to 8:30 8:30 to 9:30

TONIGHT

ADMISSION FREE

Presented By
PENN STATE TRAVEL
SUITE 23 METZGER BLDG. AD 8-0528

SALE SALE SALE

All HATS reduced 33 1/3%

Velours, felts, velvets, assorted clips and many others.

Come and see our varied selections.

The Hat Shop
Corner McAllister and E. Beaver
Daily 9-9 Sat. 9-5