

Wilson's Return Should Bolster Surging Cagers

By SANDY PADWE

Penn State's rapidly improving basketball team will get another shot in the arm next week when hustling Don Wilson rejoins the squad after missing the early part of the season with a broken hand.

Wilson, a letterman a year ago, was slated for starting duty after the North Carolina State opener, but a bad spill during practice sidelined him with a cracked bone in his left hand.

The injury healed faster than expected and Wilson will see action next Saturday when the Lions return to the cage wars against Pitt in Rec Hall.

The 6-1 former Bethlehem High star will be a welcome addition to John Egli's club which has won three of its last four games and has an overall record of 4-6.

Wilson's value is three-fold. He can play either forward or guard and is one of the most aggressive ballplayers to don the Blue & White in many a moon.

While not a high scorer—he only averaged seven a game during his senior year in high school—Wilson can come through with the important basket in the clutch.

"He's got a fairly good one-hand jump shot," said Egli, "but the thing I like best about him is the way he hustles out on the floor. He's always after those loose balls and gives the opposition a heck-of-a-time on defense.

"He always gives you 100 percent and is real rugged around the boards. He's pretty good outside too and if it weren't for DuMars (Mark) and Colender (Wal-ly) he'd definitely start."

Chances are Wilson will play out front a good deal the rest of the year because Egli has depth out front in Mel Ramey and Dick Dibert.

Wilson, who captained Bethlehem High's team during his senior year, said yesterday that his injured hand was not giving him any trouble and he was looking forward to getting back into the lineup.

Following the Pitt game next Saturday, the Lions take on Carnegie Tech, Jan. 30 at Rec Hall, and play Bucknell here Feb. 2.

The Lions also play Gettysburg at home Feb. 6.

Ingo's Win Is Upset Of the Year

By BEN OLAN

Associated Press Sports Writer
Ingemar Johansson's sensational technical knockout victory over Floyd Patterson in last June's heavyweight championship bout yesterday was named the Upset of the Year for 1959 in the annual Associated Press poll.

A 5-1 underdog, the husky Swede floored Patterson seven times in the third round before the one-sided match was stopped. It was the most stunning boxing upset since 1936 when Max Schmeling, the Black Uhlan from Germany, flattened Joe Louis.

Johansson's conquest was tabbed the most unexpected sports result by 63 of the 114 sportswriters and broadcasters participating in the poll. On a basis of three points for first place, two for second and one for third, Ingo's triumph received 239 points.

The Los Angeles Dodgers' National League pennant victory collected 15 first and 67 points. The Chicago White Sox' first place finish in the American League race drew 12 top positions and 58 points. The New York Yankees' third place windup was named first on 10 ballots and piled up 40 points.

Johansson, who Thursday night received the Eddie Neil award as the Fighter of the Year, was given little chance to wrest the title from Patterson. The odds on a successful defense by Patterson went from 3-1 to 4-1 and finally 5-1 at ringside.

The Dodgers, off their seventh-place standing in 1958, were figured no higher than fourth by most of the experts.
