

Traffic Bans Are Enlarged

Pollock to Become Dead End; Central Parking Unaffected

Pollock Rd. will be closed to all through traffic beginning Monday. It will be open only to Fraser Rd. on the west and Old Main on the east.

The closing of the road to thru traffic is the first move in the University's plan to close it to traffic entirely in the near future.

Albert E. Diem, vice president for business administration, said the new arrangement will lift the pressure on students moving to and from classes, and, at the same time, end the frustration created by traffic congestion on mid-campus.

"It is our observation," Diem said, "that thru traffic is steadily increasing on Pollock Rd. There are days when the volume is such that pedestrian traffic moves only at great risk."

Parking on central campus will not be affected by the change. Diem said that traffic will continue one-way north on Fraser Rd., and that all parking space presently allocated in the central campus area will remain open.

The new routing of traffic does not mean that regulations concerning student driving and non-emergency stopping will change, Diem said. Students will not be able to drive on Pollock Rd. at any time even though thru traffic has been prohibited, he said.

Posts marking the lines of demarcation will be erected on Pollock Rd., just a few yards east of Fraser Rd. on the west and a few yards west of the service road adjoining Graduate Hall on the east. These posts will be installed Monday.

Signs warning "Caution, dead end road" have already been erected at the ends of Pollock Rd.

A chain will stretch from a middle post in the road to a post on the curb on the south side of Carnegie Building and at the other end of the "dead end," thus blocking one half of the road.

The other half will have no chains, but will be divided by a post. Bicycles will be permitted to pass between these posts. However, no power-driven vehicles will be permitted.

Some 328 parking spaces are involved in the new plan, but none of them will be affected, Diem said.

Parking behind Graduate Hall, Osmond Building, Mineral Industries and adjacent areas will continue.

Transfers to Be Required To Live in Dorms One Year

By JIM STROTHMAN

All transfer students from University centers and other institutions, in addition to all incoming freshmen, will be required to live in the residence halls for one year, The Daily Collegian learned today.

The new requirement is being made because of the extra space made available with the completion of the new halls on campus.

Under the previous system, only incoming freshmen were required to live in the halls for a year. Students from off-campus campuses and advanced-standing students transferring from other colleges and universities were permitted to move directly into fraternity houses, downtown rooming or residence halls.

The plan was first disclosed at the annual Board of Trustees meeting in Harrisburg last week and the exact details of it are expected to be released by President Eric A. Walker in a speech at 4:15 p.m. tomorrow in Schwab Auditorium.

The new plan will permit fraternity men transferring from other schools to move directly into their respective fraternities without having to reside in the halls for a year. The new rule will involve only independent men transferring with advanced standing, as well as the students who have a change of assignment from the University campuses to the main campus.

The total fall enrollment of the students in these categories includes about 700 students. Half of these would ordinarily live in the halls anyway, a University official said.

Had the plan not been initiated, the University would be losing money because of the wasted space in the dormitories, he said.

Information about the plan will probably be distributed to transfer students from the admissions office as soon as the plan is officially released and publication of it can be made.

Gary Gentzler, Interfraternity Council president, said that the new plan will probably be discussed at the next IFC meeting, to be held at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the Hetzel Union assembly room.

Prexy to Present Talk On State of University

President Eric A. Walker will give a State of the University address to faculty members at 4:15 tomorrow in Schwab Auditorium.

His address will be another in a series begun several years ago to keep the faculty informed on developments at the University.

Navy Asks Money For Sub Fleet

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy, in a bid to build a missile-firing submarine fleet as soon as possible, will ask for $975 million to pay for six more of the craft than are currently planned.

If the request is relayed to Congress and passed there, the Polaris submarine program would be shoved forward by more than a third. At present 15 of the nuclear-powered boats are on the way, in one stage or another.

Burke testified earlier that a fleet of 45 such subs, equipped with 16 missiles each to strike at targets in the Soviet Union from under the sea, should give the United States a big enough retaliatory force to keep the Soviets at bay.

Questioned by Democratic senators, Burke said he probably would continue to support President Eisenhower's budget even if the President should turn down the Navy's appeal for a stepup in the Polaris program.

"If I didn't accept it, I wouldn't remain in my present position," the Navy chief said.

Sen. Howard Cannon (D-Nev.), pressed Burke for a 'yes' or 'no' answer as to whether the administration defense budget is "doing enough to protect the safety and security of this country at this time."

"I can't answer it yes or no," Burke said.

News Staff to Meet

The news staff of The Daily Collegian will meet at 5 p.m. today in the Collegian city room. The meeting is compulsory for all staffers.

SGA Chair Debated By Cabinet

By NICKI WOLFORD

SGA Cabinet decided last night that whether or not the president or vice president chairs the Assembly is "purely an academic question" and Cabinet is satisfied with the present system.

Jay Hawley, Rules Committee chairman, said the only reason for favoring an Assembly chaired by the president is more effective communication. But, he said, he doubted whether or not the difference in the effectiveness warranted a change in the constitution.

Harald Sandstrom, president of the Association of Independent Men, said he thought the issue was raised in the first place because encampment members were more concerned with immediate personalities than with long-range operation.

When a vote was called for, Leonard Julius, SGA president, proposed that Cabinet go on record as considering the issue purely as an academic question and stand as satisfied with the present system but leaving the decision to change the system up to the Assembly.

The bill proposing that the SGA president instead of the vice president chair the Assembly will be presented at the Assembly meeting tomorrow night.

Prior to the Cabinet meeting, the Rules Committee decided not to include on the agenda a bill calling for the election of class vice presidents.

Morning Snow Flurries Expected for Today

Brisk winds and snow flurries are expected today, although this afternoon's temperature will range from 35-40 degrees.

The weather is expected to fluctuate in the next few days as both warm and cold air enters this region. No great precipitation is in sight.

Collegian to Hold Open House

An open house for all students interested in joining the news, sports or photography staffs of The Daily Collegian will be held from 6:45 to 8 p.m. tomorrow.

Any student with at least a 2.0 All-University average may work on the Collegian. It is not necessary to be a journalism major.

Visitors will be shown the operation of the student newspaper and refreshments will be served. The Collegian offices are located in the basement of Carnegie Building.

Enrollment Expected To Total 14,000

Campus enrollment for the spring semester was 13,825 as of last Saturday, and it is expected to reach over 14,000 as late registration continues this week, according to Dr. Robert G. Bernreuter, dean of admissions.

Final enrollment for the spring semester last year was 13,332 students.

On the Commonwealth campuses 1273 students registered in 2-year courses while 1652 enrolled in 4-year courses. One hundred and one students enrolled at the Mont Alto campus, bringing off-campus enrollment to a total of 3026.

Off-campus enrollment last year was 2913.

Enrollment for the campus and commonwealth campuses totals 16,851 and will continue to rise as students register this week. Total enrollment last year was 16,245—606 less than this semester.

Bernreuter said that fewer students dropped out this year than in the past years. He said that because more students have remained in school the enrollment figures took a sharp upturn. New students were not necessarily the cause for the increase.

Bernreuter also said a breakdown of registration figures according to class year will not be available until student teachers and those enrolling late have completed registration.

SCCA to Reopen Monday in HUB

The Student Check Cashing Agency will be open at 12:30 p.m. Monday in the Hetzel Union card room.

Richard Levinson, SCCA personnel-advertising manager, said the agency could not open before then because of lack of space in the HUB.

Students may cash personal checks up to $25 and non-personal checks up to $125 from 12:30 to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Checks $25 and under may be cashed from 1 to 4 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays.

BOOKS, BOOKS, AND MORE BOOKS—Students had to fight their way through long lines to try to get books at the Used Book Agency. Over 17,000 books have been turned into the agency for sale. Sales for Friday and Monday totaled $36,000.

Opera Ballet Tickets Available Today

Student tickets for the Chicago Opera Ballet, sponsored by the University Artists Series, will be distributed beginning at 1 p.m. today at the Hetzel Union desk.

The Opera-Ballet Company, starring Melissa Hayden and Kenneth Johnson, will perform at 8 p.m. Sunday in Recreation Hall.

The Chicago Opera Ballet was formed six years ago when the Chicago Lyric Opera was formed to revive grand opera in Chicago.

With Ruth Page, dancer and choreographer, as its director, the troupe went to Broadway in 1955 to play "Revenge" and "The Merry Widow."

Miss Hayden started to take dancing lessons in Toronto when she was 13. She worked as a secretary and bookkeeper until she was able to go to New York to dance professionally.

She became a member of the Radio City Music Hall corps de ballet and did four shows a day. Four months later she became a member of the corps de ballet of the Ballet Theater as one of the Little Swans in "Swan Lake."

She starred in Jerome Robbins' ballet "Interplay," and then joined the New York City Ballet. Miss Hayden has done a limited amount of dancing on television. She was chosen by Charlie Chaplin to do the dance sequences for Claire Bloom in his film "Limelight."

Kenneth Johnson began his career while in the Army and has since made appearances in musical shows, on television, with Ballet Theater and at Jacob's Pillow Dance Festival.
