LA Council to Hold Chat With Albinski

By KAREN HYNCKEAL

The home of Henry Albinski, instructor of political science, will be the scene of a fireside chat next Tuesday evening, sponsored by the Liberal Arts Student Council.

Plans for this chat and for others in the future were discussed last night at the regular council meeting.

These gatherings will give members of the council an opportunity to meet with several professors in the College of the Liberal Arts in an informal atmosphere. The professors represent the various departments within the college.

On March 22 a fireside chat will be held at the home of Kelly Yeaton, associate professor of theatre arts.

In other business the council discussed the absentee voting legislation. Late in 1959 a State law was passed which allows voters who are away from their homes at the time of elections to vote by an absentee ballot. This legislation, however, does not apply to students and since then many complaints have been heard from University students.

At the council meeting, President David Epstein said that sometime in the near future SGA will initiate a petition which may be signed by students over 21 years of age.

This letter will be given to President Eric A. Walker who will present it to the Association of Colleges and Universities, of which he is president. Epstein said that Walker hopes to win the support of other colleges and universities in contesting the law.

Compulsory ROTC was also discussed. Epstein said that "although the storm has died down here, it is still raging on other campuses." He also said that inquiries are being made into the situation at other universities and that the one significant change in the ROTC program here has been the substitution of academic courses for some military courses.

The copywriter didn't try. (Please, can anyone tell me why Alfred let the cakes burn?)
