

Cage Captain Colender Can't Take Any Breaks

By SANDY PADWE

Yesterday was supposed to be on off-day for the Penn State basketball team. And it was for everyone except Wally Colender, the hero of Monday's 62-60 win over Bucknell.

The Lion captain, who threw in the winning jump shot with five seconds left, took a "busman's holiday" and spent his free time "just shooting around."

"It's funny," Colender said, "but the one night we get some free time I feel that I have to practice or my shooting will fall off. I hope coach doesn't mind. He wanted us to take it easy today."

Those are typical statements from the crew-cut star from Trenton, N.J., who eats, drinks, and sleeps basketball.

It's certain that John Egli won't mind the extra practice by his backcourt star, for Colender has been one of the most dependable players to wear the Blue and White in the last three years.

As a sophomore, he broke into the starting lineup and wound up the season with an 11.3-point average. Last year his 16-point average was overshadowed by the sensational play of his backcourt mate, Mark DuMars.

"Dums," as Wally refers to DuMars, "is a great ballplayer and it's a privilege to play with him."

"He's a great shooter and playmaker, isn't he?" asked Colender. "He can do almost anything on the floor and Monday night was a good example. It was Mark who really set up that winning basket."

Colender explained that when the Lions called time out with the score tied at 60-60 with 15 seconds left, the strategy would have been to let Mark drive in and draw a foul.

"We figured Bucknell would expect that," Colender said, "so Mark said he would act as a decoy by driving and drawing two men on him. That way I would be open for the shot."

That's exactly what happened when play resumed. DuMars began dribbling and then headed toward the keyhole. At the last second he passed back to Colender and Wally let loose with a soft 30-footer for the deciding tally.

Colender was the top scorer for State and his 20-point performance lifted his season average to 15.6 for 16 games.

DuMars, who had the worst night of his sensational 2-year career, didn't hit a field goal for 31 minutes and wound up with only 12 points.

But his average didn't suffer much, dropping only a few tenths of a point to 22.4.

Because of their scoring ability, DuMars and Colender are one of the best shooting combinations in collegiate basketball.

West Virginia coach Fred Schaus who saw too much of them this year, calls them the best backcourt combination in the East.

Olympics Will Open Tomorrow

By ALAN CLINE

Associated Press Sports Writer SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (AP) — Troubles piled on troubles yesterday with just a day left before the oft-harassed winter Olympic Games open.

Nothing seemed to go right. Timing was fouled up at the 400-meter speed skating oval, creating a situation termed ridiculous by one official.

Olympic planners were feuding with the International Hockey Federation over scheduling of the 30 games in the 11-day show that opens tomorrow.

Cross country racers got lost on a practice course at McKinney Creek, 17 miles south of here. Timing there was a mix-up, too.

East and West Germans, competing under one flag, continued a feud that broke out Monday over the selection of alpine downhill-slalom skiers.

Training on the ladies' downhill course was delayed because the run was too icy.

At the speed skating oval, it was announced that world champion Eugeni Grishin's time for the 500 meters was 40 seconds flat, two-tenths of a second under the record he set at the 1956 Olympics.

But the 40 flat was the stopwatch clocking. The electrical timer caught him at 40.3.

It really didn't matter, since the clocking came in a time trial and wouldn't have gone into the record book anyway. But other discrepancies led officials to discard all electrical times.

About all that was proved was that the ice was fast and that the timers had better get together. Meetings already have been scheduled.

The cross country racers complained that the markings on the course weren't clear enough.

Lion Matmen Equal 1956 Victory Skein

By JOHNNY BLACK

The Penn State grapplers tied their longest seasonal winning streak since they won the National championship in 1953 when they beat Navy Saturday night.

The 25-8 triumph over Navy was the seventh straight win for the Lion matmen this year since they opened their schedule in early December with a 31-0 victory over Army.

This equals the string of 1956 when State captured its first seven meets before losing the season finale to Pitt.

If Coach Charlie Speidel's crew beats Syracuse Saturday night, it will own the longest mat victory skein since the unbeatable Lion teams from 1950-54 ran up the record setting feat of 34 straight.

The 25 points the Blue and White wrestlers rung up against the Middies was the most they've scored on the home mats this year. It was the highest total they have posted since the two opening meets at Army and Colgate, where they topped the 30 mark each time.

With the exception of the falls that heavyweight Johnston Oberly has been recording each meet for the last four meets, Phil Myer's fall at 191 was the first pin the Lions have registered since the Michigan meet, Dec. 17.

On the other hand they have lost only eight individual matches since that time and only 10 all season. They have tied seven of their 60 matches this winter.

In addition to Myer and Oberly, two other Lions came close to recording falls in their bouts against the Midshipmen Saturday.

Unbeaten 157-pounder Jerry Seckler got credit for a near fall in the third period on his way to wrapping up an 8-1 decision. The unbeaten Seckler has yet to score a fall in seven straight victories.

Minor

Lion Captain Sam Minor tortured Navy's Bob Smith in a spread eagle for the better part of a period in the 147-pound fray but could not pin his shoulders to the mat. Minor was awarded a predicament point though, and compiled an 8-2 decision.

The Lions maintained control throughout all but two bouts. Every Lion winner held a large time advantage margin over his opponent. Minor had six minutes and 21 seconds—more than two full periods.

Myer, who is just a sophomore, seems to be gaining more confidence and know-how with each appearance on the mat.

The former Titusville schoolboy ace has wrestled only three times in the new 191-pound class, which is used only against Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference opponents, but has improved with each outing.

He edged Army's Bill Miller, 3-2, in his varsity debut, then beat Don Jayne of Cornell, 4-1, before throwing Navy's Tom Uber in 8:22.

St. John's has won 15 games and lost 5 this season. The Crusaders have a 15-2 record.

Four more teams remain to be selected for the 12-team basketball tournament. Previously named were Villanova, Detroit, Dayton, Memphis State, Providence and St. Bonaventure.
