

Women's Rules Call For Proper Action

By AMY ROSENTHAL

The new women's rules are written from the viewpoint of what is appropriate behavior rather than on the basis of what a woman can or cannot do, Dorothy J. Lipp, dean of women, said yesterday.

This statement applies to all the new rules including the policy on drinking.

Women are reminded, under the new rules, that the University forbids drinking or the possession of alcohol on University property. Senate regulations also state that students are held responsible for conformance to the laws of the borough, commonwealth and nation.

Under the old drinking rules, a woman who was found guilty of drinking by WSCA Judicial was given a strict weekend campus. This also disqualified her from running for any office, being tapped for a hat society and receiving a scholarship. A letter was also sent to her parents.

"It is up to every girl to decide whether to abide by the state regulation or not," Dean Lipp said, "and no one can decide for her."

The last sentence of the new rule concerning drinking states, "It is noted that excessive drinking by students is dealt with by the proper University authorities."

Girls who make a habit of drinking will be given private counseling. Drinking would not become a judiciary matter, Dean Lipp told questioning judicial board members at the Women's Student Government Association meeting Wednesday night.

The system of putting the new drinking policy, as well as the other rules, into practice will be by education, Dean Lipp said.

After March 14, every girl will receive a copy of the rules and meet in her residence hall units with WSGA representatives to discuss each rule.

Dogpatch Dance Set for Tonight

"Dogpatch" will move from the southern hill country to the Hetzel Union ballroom for three hours tonight for the Leonides - Association of Independent Men Leap Year dance.

Under a "Sadie Hawkins" option coeds may invite their favorite date in a true leap year fashion, or it may be a regular "boy-ask-girl" affair.

The "Dogpatch" theme will be carried out in decorations and costume. However, couples may come in casual clothes if they prefer, according to Anne Farley, Leonides chairman for the dance.

The Ivy Rocks will play from 9 to 12. Intermission music will be provided by the All-Stars.

Admission will be free and the dance is open to anyone.

Grad Students Display Works

Currently on display in the graduate students' art gallery in Temporary Building is an exhibit sponsored by the women graduate students in art education.

Robert Stewart, graduate assistant in art education, said that the exhibit is the work of creative people expressing themselves in various media, some of which include sculpture, wall hangings, jewelry, prints, wood cuts and etchings. Also included are paintings done in water colors, casein and oils.

One of the most interesting pieces is an illuminated plaster and stained glass modular.

The exhibit, the third of the '59-'60 season, will be on display through March 9.

Sun Hurts Readings

The sun heats the glass and mercury in a thermometer, causing it to record a higher temperature than it really is in the air.

ICG Will Attend Regional Meeting

The local chapter of the Intercollegiate Conference on Government will attend a regional convention March 5 at Dickinson College.

Final arrangements for the convention will be made at the ICG meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in 293 Hetzel Union. The chapter decided last Tuesday to support Carl Smith, its chairman, for regional speaker.

The convention will be modeled after a national political party nominating convention. Delegations from schools in central Pennsylvania will submit platform planks to committees. Those planks accepted by committees will be presented and voted on at a session of all the delegates.
