Ike Rejects Idea Of Bilateral Plan

DORADO, Puerto Rico (AP) — President Eisenhower declared yesterday only hard thinking and hard work will solve the Western Hemisphere's problems.

He rejected any idea of the United States alone developing a master plan to raise Latin American living standards.

Leiper Dies Following Long Illness

The Rev. Mr. Hal Leiper, associate director of the University Christian Association and Protestant Chaplain to the University, died yesterday afternoon at the Philipsburg State Hospital after a prolonged illness.

Born in China on July 27, 1918, he returned to that country as a missionary in 1947 for three years.

Leiper was an ordained minister of the Presbyterian Church and a commissioned Presbyterian missionary.

He received a bachelor of arts degree in history and language in 1941 from Amherst University. In 1945 he received a bachelor of divinity degree from the Yale Divinity School.

50 Tickets Remain For Club Hubana

The Hetzel Union Ballroom will be turned into a night club with a Hawaiian setting from 9 to 12 tonight when the Association of Independent Men hold 'Club Hubana'.

Fifty tickets, at $1.25 per couple, remain at the HUB desk for admission to the night club. Reservations may be made at the desk for choice of tables. Tickets will also be sold at the door tonight.

During intermission, two dice tables will be set up and each player will be given $300 worth of play money. The person who wins the most money by the end of intermission will receive two free tickets to the Town Independent Men's next Las Vegas Night.

The floor show entertainment during intermission will include a song and dance act and a singer. The AIM band will play for dancing and Charles Batholomew will act as master of ceremonies.

Food, including sodas and pizzas, will be provided by University Food Service.

Zero Weather To Hit Campus Late Tonight

The coldest weather of the winter will follow in the wake of the season's worst storm. The temperature will plunge close to zero tonight.

Blowing and drifting snow will continue today and early tonight as the gusty winds persist. A few snow flurries are also likely.

Despite the drifting, street crews have managed to clear all roads of snow in State College. Borough police said the roads were in "pretty good shape" yesterday evening.

All main roads in Centre County have been plowed and nearly all secondary roads are "passable".

Strong winds caused considerable drifting snow throughout the state yesterday as a result of increasing winds behind a paralyzing snow storm. The extreme eastern areas of the Commonwealth appeared to be the hardest hit with 12 to 16 inches of snow blown into treacherous and crippling drifts. Transportation was badly disrupted and schools, stores and factories were forced to close.

The speed limit along the entire route of the 470 mile-long Pennsylvania Turnpike was cut from 65 to 35 miles an hour early Thursday and this reduced speed was still in effect yesterday afternoon.

A massive area of arctic air will dominate the weather for the next several days causing the below-freezing temperatures to persist into next week.

Today will be mostly cloudy, windy and very cold with occasional snow flurries. The high temperature should be 20 degrees. Partly cloudy and cold tomorrow with a high of 24 degrees.

Sabotage Suspected

HAVANA (AP) — A French freighter delivering munitions from Belgium to Fidel Castro's Cuban army blew up alongside a Havana harbor pier yesterday.

Late last night official quarters estimated 75 to 100 persons were killed and 200 injured aboard ship and ashore.

The ship and nearby harbor installation were destroyed by the blast and fire.

The Castro government quickly raised the suspicion of sabotage, and some of its adherents began hinting a sneak light plane raid by Castro's enemies may have set off the blasts.

Prime Minister Castro called an urgent Cabinet meeting, ordered his military and police forces on a standby alert and plunged the nation from gay post-Mardi Gras festivities into mourning.

Fire-fighters and pier workmen, who moved in for rescue work after the first blast shook the ship in the afternoon, were caught by the second explosion about a half an hour later. Some were knocked overboard into the bay.

Other explosions and fires followed on the ship and ashore in a mounding scene of chaos.

The first official estimate of 70 to 100 dead and 200 injured came from a government operated TV station.

There was no estimate of property damage along the pier. Experts noted that most of the destruction was in old buildings.
