

Faculty Approves New LA Curriculum

By KAREN HYNCKEAL

The Liberal Arts faculty has given its approval to the addition of a new curriculum, broadcasting, to the college. Final decision is up to the Senate committee on academic affairs.

At a faculty meeting on Thursday afternoon, the faculty gave its final and unanimous vote. The curriculum in the School of Journalism has been studied carefully by each department, by the Course of Study Committee and by the Administrative Committee.

Dennis Heads Planning Group At Ed Meeting

Lawrence E. Dennis, vice president for academic affairs, will be the chairman of the planning committee for the 15th annual National Conference on Higher Education which opens tomorrow in Chicago.

Seventeen members of the faculty and administration are attending the conference; the theme is "Platform for Higher Education Guide Lines for the 60s." The conference will conclude at noon on Wednesday.

Dr. Viktor Lowenfeld, head of the Department of Art Education, will serve as a panelist in a discussion of "What is the general education's responsibility for creativity in the language arts and humanities?"

James H. Coogan, director of public information, will serve as a panelist in an information session on "Image Studies of Higher Education."

Ralph D. Hetzel, a University trustee and vice president of the Motion Picture Association of America, Inc., and Leslie P. Greenhill, associate director of the Division of Academic Research and Services, are serving as analyst and chairman respectively of discussion groups.

The curriculum will include many courses already required by the School of Journalism, except that the emphasis will be placed on the broadcasting field rather than the newspaper-magazine field.

The one objection which some of the faculty had to the curriculum concerned the double listing of courses; for example, Journalism I, which will be required, will also be listed as Broadcasting I. It will be the same course but will be under two different names. Such courses as Speech 300 and Theatre Arts 481 will follow the same procedure.

The faculty decided to leave the final decision up to the Senate committee.

In other business, Richard Maloney, associate dean of the College of the Liberal Arts, discussed the present enrollment in the college. He said that there are 789 men and 993 women enrolled in the college this spring and that 114 of these students had transferred from other curriculums.

Maloney also said that the college has the third largest enrollment in the University and that one-third of the teaching on campus is done in liberal arts.

Leon Skinner, assistant to the dean, announced a new regulation regarding parking tickets. This will be an accumulative plan and will continue from one school year to the next.

Tickets Available For Concert

Tickets for the Benno Moiseiwitsch Artists Series concert will be distributed from the Hetzel Union desk beginning at 1 p.m. tomorrow. Non-student tickets go on sale at 9 a.m. Monday.

Moiseiwitsch who is on an 8-week tour of this country will present a piano concert at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday in Schwab Auditorium.

He recently received one of Great Britain's highest musical distinctions, a certificate of Life Membership in the Royal Philharmonic Society. The Royal Philharmonic Life Membership has been awarded only to Mendelssohn, Brahms and Tchaikowsky. Moiseiwitsch was born in Odessa but now makes his home in England. It was during his American debut in 1919 that Rachmaninoff wanted to introduce himself to the young artist.

Moiseiwitsch's current tour will include appearances with the National Symphony of Washington, the Buffalo Philharmonic, symphony orchestras of Nashville and Austin and numerous solo recitals.

He received his musical training at the Imperial Academy of Music where he won the Rubinstein Prize when he was nine years old. He was further trained in Vienna under Theodor Leschetizky.

The pianist's recordings are now being released by EMI-Capitol.

Lecture Ticket Distribution Begins Sunday

Distribution of student tickets will begin at 1 p.m. tomorrow at the Hetzel Union desk for the C. Northcote Parkinson lecture scheduled for 8 p.m. Tuesday in Schwab Auditorium.

Non-student tickets will be available at 9 a.m. Monday for $1.25.

Parkinson's lecture, sponsored by the Lecture Series program, will explain the now famous law of bureaucracy which he defined. The law states that "the number of subordinates in any working group increases regardless of the amount of work to be done."

An Englishman, Parkinson received his doctorate in history at King's College, University of London. In 1950 he was appointed to his current post, Raffles professor of history at the University of Malaya.

Chamber Players To Give Concert

The Saidenberg Chamber Players, who have just returned from a European concert tour, will present the third concert in the Chamber Music Series at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the Senior High School auditorium.

This group of seven players from the Saidenberg Little Symphony includes a pianist, two violinists, a violist, a flutist, a clarinetist, a double bass player and the director Daniel Saidenberg, who plays the cello.

Tickets, which are sold for the entire series only, are available from members of the State College Choral Society, at Keeler's Book Store, the Harmony Shop, the Music Room and at the HUB desk between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m.
