

Republicans Fail to Gain Support to Cut Filibuster

WASHINGTON (AP) — Spurred by Vice President Richard M. Nixon, Republicans tried but failed last night to rally enough strength to cut off the Senate's civil rights filibuster.

What Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois called an inconclusive poll of GOP members sustained the contention of Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas that there is no possibility of limiting debate now.

As the Senate went into its second week of practically non-stop session Johnson called for an air-clearing vote.

And there were signs that Southerners soon may halt their talk long enough to permit a roll call on an amendment proposed by one of their number, Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr. (D-N.C.).

Ervin is seeking to reduce the criminal penalties provided in the Eisenhower administration's civil rights bill for obstructing or trying to obstruct by force or threats the carrying out of court orders in school desegregation cases.

Dirksen said there was some Republican support for the Ervin proposal. It would bring this provision of the administration's package more nearly in line with what the House may approve when it takes up the civil rights matter later in the week.

With the cots set up for fitful sleep by civil rights advocates in the round-the-clock sessions, Nixon moved in to try to jog his GOP colleagues into action.

The partially filled galleries buzzed with curiosity as he turned over his presiding officer's chair to a substitute and signalled influential Republicans to gather around him at the rear of the otherwise almost deserted chamber.

'Enemy Attack' Alarm Arouses California Town

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — Radio station KIST threw a few sleepy residents of this coastal community into near panic Sunday night by broadcasting: "An enemy attack is imminent. This is no drill."

It happened seven minutes after the station went off the air at 11:10 p.m. when an engineer checking Civil Defense material accidentally fed a red alert tape through master control and it was broadcast.

Actors' Strike Cuts Film Production

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Movie actors began a strike yesterday against major studios that many observers think will be long and ruinous.

The big issue: whether actors should get extra pay for television showings of post-1948 theatrical films.

The 14,000-member Screen Actors Guild began the walkout at 12:01 a.m.

GSA Adds Funds

HARRISBURG (AP) — The General State Authority yesterday made available $3,175,480 in additional funds for its work but put off until later a decision on how the money will be spent.

The funds were made available as a result of the board's unanimous action reducing from four to one per cent the amount set aside for interest on projects already in the design or construction stages.

Under the 1949 law establishing the borrow-and-build agency, four per cent of the estimated construction cost of a particular project is set aside for interest.

Ike Returns; to Speak On TV, Radio Tonight

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower flew back to Washington yesterday, ready to give the nation a report on his 15,500-mile tour of South America.

Eisenhower will speak over the radio and TV networks tonight for 15 minutes, beginning at 7 p.m. EST.

The President, who had been tired and hoarse during part of the tour, looked and sounded fit on his arrival by jet airliner.

Mrs. Eisenhower was not on hand, having gone to Arizona for two weeks in the sun.

Nixon Denies Charges

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon's New Hampshire campaign chief yesterday accused Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.), of being soft on communism, but Nixon swiftly disowned the charges.

Gov. Wesley Powell made the statement in a news conference on the eve of New Hampshire's presidential primary.

THE THUNDERING MARCH OF PROGRESS

Today, as everyone knows, is the forty-sixth anniversary of the founding of Gransmire College for Women, which, as everyone knows, was the first Progressive Education college in the United States.

Well do I recollect the tizzy in the academic world when Gransmire opened its portals! What a buzz there was, what a brouhaha in faculty common rooms, what a rattling of teacups, when Dr. Agnes Thudd Sigafos, first president of Gransmire, lifted her learned old head and announced defiantly, "We will teach the student, not the course. There will be no marks, no exams, no requirements. This, by George, is Progressive Education!"

Well sir, forward-looking maidens all over the country cast off their fetters and came rushing to New Hampshire to enroll at Gransmire. Here they found freedom. They broadened their vistas. They lengthened their horizons. They unstopped their bottled personalities. They roamed the campus in togas, leading ocelots on leashes.

And, of course, they smoked Marlboro cigarettes. (I say, "Of course." Why do I say, "Of course"? I say, "Of course" because it is a matter of course that anyone in search of freedom should naturally turn to Marlboro, for Marlboro is the smoke that sets the spirit soaring, that unyokes the captive soul, that fills the air with the murmur of wings. If you think flavor went out when filters came in—try Marlboro. They are sold in soft pack or flip-top box wherever freedom rings.)

But all was not Marlboro and ocelots for the girls of Gransmire. There was work and study too—not in the ordinary sense, to be sure, for there were no formal classes. Instead there was a broad approach to enlarging each girl's potentials, both mental and physical.

Take, for example, the course called B.M.S. (Basic Motor Skills). B.M.S. was divided into L.D. (Lying Down), S.U. (Standing Up) and W. (Walking). Once the student had mastered L.D. and S.U., she was taught to W.—but not just to W. any old way! No, sir! She was taught to W. with poise, dignity, bearing! To inculcate a sense of balance in the girl, she began her exercises by walking with a suitcase in each hand. (One girl, Mary Ellen Dorgenicht, got so good at it that today she is bell captain at the Deshler-Hilton Hotel in Columbus, Ohio.)

It was quite an impressive sight—

When the girls had walking under their belts, they were allowed to dance. Again no formality was imposed. They were simply told to fling themselves about in any way their impulses dictated, and, believe you me, it was quite an impressive sight to see them go bounding into the woods with their togas flying. (Several later joined the U.S. Forestry Service.)

There was also a lot of finger painting and sculpture with coat hangers and like that, and soon the fresh wind of Progressivism came whistling out of Gransmire to blow the ancient dust of pedantry off curricula everywhere, and today, thanks to the pioneers at Gransmire, we are all free.

If you are ever in New Hampshire, be sure to visit the Gransmire campus. It is now a tannery.

If you like mildness but you don't like filters—try Marlboro's sister cigarette, Philip Morris. If you like television but you don't like cowboys—try Max Shulman's "The Many Loves of Dobie Gillis" every Tuesday night on CBS.
