

Pattee Display Cites Newman

"Cardinal Newman Week" is featured as the current display on the second floor of the Fred Lewis Pattee Library.

Cardinal Newman was an English theologian and author who lived from 1801 to 1890.

Old Coed Rules Still Effective

The WSGA Judicial Board said yesterday that the present WSGA rules and regulations will be in effect until 8 a.m. Monday.

Any infractions of the rules will be subject to judicial action according to the present system of penalties. Infractions can be contracted under the present system until the new rules go into effect Monday morning.

The new WSGA rules and regulations will be explained and interpreted in individual residence units this week by members of WSGA
