

Alum to Visit USSR In 'My Fair Lady'

Harold L. Woolever, a 1951 alumnus, will be traveling to the USSR with the Broadway company of "My Fair Lady" on April 13.

Woolever is assistant dance captain of the show's chorus and assists in auditioning new dancers.

Judicial Board To Still Keep Penal Power

The Judicial Board of WSGA will not become and inactive body when the new women's rules go into effect at 8 a. m. Monday, according to Dean Dorothy J. Lipp.

The Judicial Board which has handled all except the most serious violations of women's rules in the past, will continue to consider infractions and hand down penalties, she said.

The violations handled, however, will be of the more serious variety. With blackmarks out of the picture and lateness violations handled automatically, the Board will have time to give personal attention to habitual late hours violators and serious offenders, Dean Lipp said.

The Board will try to give penalties suited to the individual offender and violation, Dean Lipp said. The Judicial Board also plans to refer habitual offenders to the Division of Counseling for further help in overcoming their problem.

History Prof Aids Team In Evaluation Project

Dr. Kent Forster, professor of European history, is serving this week as a member of the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools' team visiting and assisting in the evaluation of Barnard College of Columbia University.

This activity is under the direction of the Middle States Association's Commission on Institutions of Higher Learning.

The company will tour in Russia for 10 weeks, playing in Leningrad, Moscow, Kiev, Odessa and other cities.

The tour is part of the Cultural Exchange Program and the $500,000 cost for the production will be shared by both the United States and Russia.

As a result of this, members of the company will receive half their pay in American dollars and half in rubles.

Woolever now makes his home in Brooklyn Heights, N.Y. He lives only a few blocks from Oliver Smith, a 1939 alumnus and screen designer for "My Fair Lady."

Besides appearing in the show, Woolever is teaching modern jazz at the International School of the Dance in Carnegie Hall.

According to Woolever, everyone in the show is trying to learn Russian "overnight." "You can hear more Russian than English backstage," he said.

It was originally planned to have a road group give the performance, but the Russians wanted the Broadway company.

Seven jet planes will transport the company to Russia. They will return on June 15 to open on Broadway.

Taubeneck to Explore Origin of Granitic Rock

Dr. William H. Taubeneck, visiting research associate, is exploring the origin of granitic rocks in a study supported by National Science Foundation grants.

Dr. Taubeneck, who is associate professor of geology at Oregon State College, is on two years' leave of absence to work in the department of mineralogy of the College of Mineral Industries at Penn State.

First Aid Course To Begin Monday

An advanced first aid course, offered by the State College Red Cross chapter, will begin at 7 p.m. Monday in the Red Cross rooms of the Associated Services Building at 330 W. Beaver Ave.

The course, which will be taught by Mrs. Adelaide Deibler, authorized Red Cross instructor, is open to all persons over 16 who have completed the course in standard first aid. No fee is charged for the course.

A film made by the medical research division of the armed forces on the breathing techniques in the mouth-to-mouth method of artificial respiration will be used in teaching the resuscitation techniques.
