Panhel Analysis Lipp Stresses Cooperation To Strengthen Panhel

By SUE LINKROOM
Second of a Series

Panhellenic Council, the basic structure of the sorority system, must be the governing body, the coordinating agency and the public relations agency of sorority chapters, according to Dean of Women Dorothy J. Lipp.

Dean Lipp stressed the idea that the "only way to operate Panhellenic is cooperatively" in order to have an effective sorority system.

The present Council is composed of two representatives from each group, but each sorority has only one vote. These representative members are not specifically delegated and thus the same two delegates do not necessarily attend each meeting.

A suggestion to change this in order to have the same delegates attending each week was made at the Panhel workshops, but no action has been taken yet.

Another recommendation made at the workshops concerning the Council was to have agendas sent to all sororities prior to the meeting. As things stand now, the Council acts as a discussion group and in an advisory capacity.

By sending out agendas, the sororities could discuss the issues prior to the meeting and the council would become a legislative body.

In order to effect a more efficient organization, the workshop recommended that standing committees be set up in certain areas such as housing, public relations, social and rushing. By referring problems to committees, long-winded discussions at the Panhel meetings would be eliminated.

The workshops made several other recommendations and suggestions concerning Panhellenic structure. They all aimed at more organization to perpetuate a stronger, more effective and stable sorority system.

Her Uniform -

The Exclusive Executive Model...
Tailored To Fit The Finest

One look at her and you know she's an officer in the United States Army. Her uniform gives it away—and she doesn't mind a bit! Because it's her passport to prestige... the distinctive sign of a young executive in the Women's Army Corps. Wherever she goes—and it might be anywhere from Heidelberg to Honolulu!—she knows that uniform will bring respect and recognition.

She doesn't have time to get smug about it, though—her uniform demands as much from her as she does from it! She's got to keep on her toes. She's got to show initiative and intelligence, foresight and flexibility—qualities worthy of a college graduate. Qualities worthy of an executive in a world-wide organization.

Interested in wearing the Army uniform? We'll be glad to tell you more if you mail us the coupon below... (It's your preliminary "passport to prestige!")

SPECIAL... SUMMER PROGRAM FOR JUNIORS: Want a special preview of Army life? Why not see it for yourself this summer! If you qualify for this limited program, you'll receive 4 weeks of orientation training this summer—without any commitment. The program is to help you decide—with confidence—if you want to apply for an Army officer's commission after you graduate. If you're interested, today is the day to mail the coupon. There's no obligation.
