

Weather Forecast:
Warm, Windy,
Showers

The Daily Collegian

FOR A BETTER PENN STATE

Once-a-Year
Rushing
See Page 4

VOL. 60, No. 113

STATE COLLEGE, PA., WEDNESDAY MORNING, MARCH 30, 1960

FIVE CENTS

Rev. Lawson Will Speak At 8 Tonight

The Rev. James Lawson, a leader of the sit-in-demonstrations in the South, will speak at 8 tonight in the Hetzel Union ballroom under the sponsorship of the Student Christian Association.

Lawson was expelled from the Vanderbilt Divinity School for his part in the demonstrations in Nashville, Tenn. His talk here is sponsored by the SCA because the group wanted "to find out what's going on from an eye witness," Lee Van Bremen, SCA president, said.

Lawson will also participate in a discussion of discriminatory practices, which will be presented by WDFM over the WMAJ facilities from 8 to 9 p.m. tomorrow.

The program is titled "This is the Subject" and is directed by Roland King. Others who will participate in the discussion, "Discrimination at Penn State," include Mrs. Peter Day; Stephen Blum, junior in philosophy from Pittsburgh; Robert Grantham, freshman in psychology from Norristown; and Nolvert Scott, graduate student in sociology from Washington, D.C.

The discussion will be moderated by Ira Berman.

Lawson, a minister in good standing of the Lexington Annual Conference of the Methodist Church, has been a Christian Missionary and served three years in India.

In explaining the sit-ins, he has been quoted in the Reporter as saying: "Progress has come but it hasn't begun to touch some of the commonplaces of life that affect the Negro deeply . . . that he feels make him subhuman."

In relating an incident which happened when he and his fiance were shopping, Lawson was quoted as saying: "We wanted a cup of tea about 4 o'clock. It was such a normal thing to do, and then we realized it was impossible."

Prexy to Talk in DuBois

President Eric A. Walker will address the DuBois Lion's Club at a dinner meeting tomorrow.

Walker will discuss the state's educational problems with respect to the DuBois Center.

STUDENT COUNCIL ELECTIONS . . . Dave Walker (right), freshman in business administration from York, was one of the few students who voted yesterday. Elections committee member is Barry Kesselman, sophomore in industrial engineering from Chester. Voting continues today.

Students Fined $34 For Liquor Violation

By JOEL MYERS

Twenty-six students were each fined $25 and $9 costs last night for violating a borough ordinance prohibiting unaccompanied minors from drinking or being in an alcohol-dispensing establishment after 7 p.m.

The students were apprehended in a raid on the LaGalleria Restaurant on E. Beaver Ave. March 18 by authorities of the State Liquor Control Board.

In the hearings, which were held at the Municipal Building, all but one of the alleged violators present pleaded guilty to the charges.

Seven of the accused pleaded guilty to the ordinance which prohibits minors from purchasing or consuming alcoholic beverages in any licensed establishment. Nineteen others pleaded guilty to the charge of being in a place that is licensed to sell alcoholic beverages after 7 p.m. without the accompaniment of an adult.

Lawrence Koons, one of the students charged, changed his plea to not guilty after originally entering a plea of guilty and was granted a separate hearing at a later time.

Two students failed to appear and they will be required to attend a separate hearing at some future time.

Several of the students waived (Continued on page three)

Warm Weather May End Tonight

Warm and spring-like conditions will continue today, but showers and possibly a thunderstorm may occur at frequent intervals.

The mercury will soar to the highest temperatures in five months this afternoon, as a high of 72 degrees is expected.

The showers should end during the late afternoon and a trend towards cooler weather will begin tonight. A low temperature of 40 is forecast for tonight.

Mostly cloudy, breezy and cooler weather is due tomorrow with the temperature rising to a high of 50 degrees.

Nuclear Ban Accepted By U.S., Britain

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—The United States and Britain accepted yesterday the idea of a short-term ban on small underground nuclear tests—if the Soviet Union agrees first to a treaty providing cheat-proof inspection of bigger blasts.

President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan jointly unveiled the new proposal at the climax of a 2-day strategy conference at Camp David in the Maryland mountains.

An American spokesman said that if the Soviets are sincere it should be possible to sign such an historic inspection treaty within 90 days.

Eisenhower and Macmillan, in a windup statement, said they put forward their offer in a sincere effort to break the 17-month-old deadlock on how to ban nuclear weapons testing above and below ground.

Pending an answer from the Soviet Union, a spokesman for Eisenhower said he knew of no plans to stage underground nuclear tests in the United States.

The Eisenhower-Macmillan offer came as a reply to a Soviet proposal 11 days ago calling for a halt to hard-to-detect underground blasts while East-West experts work out acceptable on-site inspection. The Soviets proposed that such a ban last four or five years.

The two Western leaders said they immediately would instruct their disarmament chiefs, now meeting with Soviet representatives in Geneva, to introduce their offer formally into the talks.

In a move to speed progress, Eisenhower and Macmillan invited the Soviet government to join at once with the United States and British governments in a coordinated research program which they hope eventually will devise methods of detecting even tiny blasts.

In briefing newsmen afterward, the American spokesman said Macmillan and Eisenhower believe the ban on small underground tests should last about a year.

The Senate would be called upon to ratify the formal treaty setting up the control system on other weapons tests. But the agreement stopping small blasts would be through an exchange of government declarations.

Indies Have High Fall Averages

A comparison of independent men's averages and fraternity men's averages for fall 1959 by class instead of total groups would show the independent men's averages are higher, Philip Haines, president of Town Independent Men's Council, said yesterday.

Haines said that comparing the averages of total fraternity to total non-fraternity men was unfortunate since freshman averages, which are usually the lowest, tend to pull the non-fraternity average down.

"There are practically no freshmen to be counted in the total fraternity average," he said.

Haines said figures from the registrar's office listed 2023 freshmen counted in the total non-fraternity average, while only 15 second semester freshmen are counted in the total fraternity average.

Fraternity and non-fraternity averages compared by classes are: freshman fraternity men, 1.98; freshman non-fraternity men, 2.12; sophomore fraternity men, 2.13; sophomore non-fraternity men, 2.24; junior fraternity men, 2.27; junior non-fraternity men, 2.38; senior fraternity men, 2.53; senior non-fraternity men, 2.66.

Candidates for SGA To Speak on WDFM

Six candidates for SGA offices will participate in a discussion at 8:45 tonight on WDFM-WMAJ's Forum of the Air.

The participants from Campus Party are Peter Galie, John Brandt and Susan Sherman. Those from University Party are Richard Haber, Donald Claggett and Jack Crosby.

IFC to Reconsider Decision on SPE

By KAREN HYNCKEAL

Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity, which lost its social privileges last week, has succeeded in obtaining a rehearing of the case by the Interfraternity Board of Control.

The fraternity yesterday submitted a petition for a rehearing to Robert Parsky, chairman of the Board. The petition had been signed by 51 per cent of the fraternities and was approved by Parsky.

Last week, the board recommended that the fraternity lose its social privileges for five weeks beginning March 22, and be placed on social probation for the rest of the semester.

The board said that the fraternity had been negligent in keeping an IFC rule which states that a fraternity is responsible for the conduct of its members and guests.

The board took action after a Delta Upsilon pledge was arrested in town after reportedly becoming intoxicated at an SPE party. According to the board, the members of SPE had not taken proper responsibility for the pledge in view of his condition.

The Senate Subcommittee on Group Discipline, which must approve all of the Board's recommendations, was to have discussed the case yesterday. But since the petition was submitted, the subcommittee did not review the recommendations.

The board will reconsider the case tomorrow night.

Howard Mears, president of SPE, said last night that he, in speaking for the fraternity, feels that "the penalty was too harsh under the circumstances."

Black, Lucido to Head Collegian Staff

John Black, junior in arts and letters from Lancaster, has been named editor of The Daily Collegian, effective April 20. Chester Lucido, junior in business administration from Bethel Park, has been named business manager.

The new editor and business manager were named Sunday night by the Board of Directors of Collegian, Inc., the newspaper's publisher.

Black will succeed Dennis Mallick, senior in journalism from Shamokin. Lucido succeeds George McTurk, senior in journalism from Pittsburgh.

Other members of the Board of editor are: Carol Blakeslee, city editor; Gloria Wolford, assistant editor; Sandy Padwe, sports editor;

Black

Lucido

editor; Susan Linkroum, assistant city editor in charge of personnel and public relations; Annabelle Rosenthal, copy editor; Elaine Miele, feature and assistant copy editor; Joel Myers, makeup editor; and Frederic Bower, photography editor.

The 1960-61 Senior Board of the business staff as appointed by the new business manager is: Bradley Davis, local advertising manager; Harold Deisher, assistant local advertising manager; Mary Ann Crans, credit manager; Neal Keitz, assistant credit manager; Richard Kitzinger and Rosalind Abes, co-circulation managers.

Constance Kiesel, classified advertising manager; Elaine Michol, promotion manager; Bessie Burke, national advertising manager; Joanne Huyett, office secretary; and Becky Kohudic, personnel manager.