

2 Students Placed On Disciplinary Pro

A fourth semester arts and letters student was placed on disciplinary probation by the Committee on Academic Discipline in the College of Liberal Arts for academic dishonesty.

The student, who is enrolled in a Spanish 4 course, wrote a fraudulent letter to the Department of Spanish and Portuguese at the University of Wisconsin. The student wrote that he and a professor at this University were planning to start a Spanish literature course and needed an English translation of the Spanish novel, "Nada," which is required reading for the Spanish 4 course.

The department checked the name of the "professor" and found that no such person was listed on the register of American professors. The department then notified the Department of Romance Languages here and case was referred to the committee.

The student admitted writing the letter and said that the name of the "professor" was actually the name of a friend of his, who is a graduate student here. The grad student knew nothing of the student's actions.

The student who wrote the letter was consequently placed on disciplinary probation and a permanent notation of this has been placed on his official academic record. He may petition the removal of the notation during his seventh semester.

The committee also placed a second semester student in sociology on disciplinary probation for plagiarism. The student was enrolled in English Composition

Froshmore Duo Dance Tickets Still Available

Tickets still remain for the Froshmore Duo, the freshman-sophomore class dance to be held at 8 p.m. Friday in the Hetzel Union ballroom. The distribution of 800 tickets, donated by the "A" Store, started yesterday at the HUB desk.

Elizabeth Horn, chairman of the ticket committee, said at the meeting of the Freshman Class Advisory Board Sunday that tickets would be distributed by matriculation card to first through fourth semester students.

Music will be provided by the Ivy Rocks, Howie Perloff and His Philadelphians and Freida Lee. Hershel Richman, chairman of the entertainment committee reported that the Continentals are also being contacted.

Phillip J. Weiss, chairman of the project committee, said that they are still discussing the class project.

Picketing of Barbershop Scheduled to Begin Again

There will be non-violent picketing of Bunn's Barber Shop at 110 South Allen Street today and every day this week.

The picketing, organized last week in response to discrimination against the serving of Negroes in the shop, is being resumed in order to "put economic pressure on Bunn so that he will be aware that there is a distinct feeling against discriminatory practices among students and residents in State College," Steve Blum, head of the group's policy committee, said.

Blum, who met with Bunn yesterday afternoon, repeated to the group last night that the owner has definitely decided not to integrate his shop. "I will not yield under pressure," Bunn said.

The outdoor picket will attempt a non-violent economic boycott of the shop, Blum said.

A hand-out in the form of a press release will be distributed by those participating in the demonstration. This handbill will be revised and kept up to date as to the daily situation and action achieved by the group.

Blum and members of his committee will meet Thursday night with town officials in the Bela Schlow Memorial Library to discuss the situation. As yet no official comment has been available from the town.

Blum also said last night that he had investigated the legality of Bunn's action. According to the statutes, a barbershop is a public accommodation on private property. "This means that chairs in the shop represent private property from which 'sit-ins' can legally be removed," Blum said.

The feeling of the group last night was against making a test case of this issue at the present

3 and had been warned about handing in work which had been copied from a text. The student repeated the offense and was referred to the committee. A permanent notation of the offense and the committee's action has been made on the student's record.

Elms Handbills--

(Continued from page one) He added that he felt the handbill to be "conjectured and unethical." Robert Umstead, elections commission chairman, said it is unfortunate that Froth has become the apparent agent of a "scheme to smear one of the political parties. It is truly a disservice to the student body and should be regarded as the untruth it is."

Frank J. Simes, dean of men, and Ross Lehman, advisor to SGA, refused to comment on the handbill. They said they did
