

Lions Trip Hoyas, 13-4, 7-0

Durbin, Biesecker Notch 2nd Win; Lions Now 6-2

By SANDY PADWE

It was just a matter of time before Penn State's big bats started booming and when they did Saturday everyone ducked for cover around Georgetown University.

The Lions banged the Hoya pitchers for 23 hits and 20 runs to take both ends of a doubleheader, 13-4 and 7-0 despite Washington's 95-degree temperatures.

Larry Fegley, Jim Suplizio and Harry Beans led the offensive attack while Tom Durbin and Marlin Biesecker picked up the wins as the Lions upped their record to 6-2.

State's double win, coupled with Villanova and Navy defeats, boosted the Lions right back into the race for the District II playoffs.

For two innings of the first game it looked as if the Lions were in for the same trouble that plagued them in their first six outings as Georgetown took a 2-0 lead on a pair of errors by shortstop Bob Hrobak and two base-hits. But before the Hoyas (1-8) could take a picture of the scoreboard, the Lions rallied for six big runs in the fourth and were never headed.

Triples by catcher John Adams and first baseman Larry Beighey were the key blows in the rally which was augmented by three Georgetown miscues.

State added two more in the fifth, sixth, and eighth and a single run in the ninth for its highest run total of the year.

Durbin, who picked up his second win, struck out 12 and walked seven before being lifted in the ninth in favor of Lee Rentzel.

In the second game, Biesecker was in command all the way, pitching a neat three hitter for his second straight win.

The big righthander from Steelton didn't allow a man to reach second until the seventh when first sacker Joe DiMare doubled to left. In addition, he walked none and struck out seven.

Biesecker got plenty of support from Beans and Suplizio, a converted catcher who played leftfield. They both went 3 for 4 and drove in five runs between them.

Beans, a local product from a point just south of the Boalsburg line, raised his average to .400 on two singles and a double, good for three runs.

Fegley, who was hitting .454 before Saturday's twinbill, collected four hits in nine at bats to retain his position as State's leading hitter.

The Lions return home tomorrow for a single game with West Virginia, then they go on the road for games with Lafayette and Rutgers this weekend.

Engle's Experiments Look Good At Halfway Point in Grid Drills

With spring football practice at the halfway mark, Lion coach Rip Engle can breathe easier about his quarterback and left guard experiments.

On the basis of their performances to date, Dick Hoak and versatile Bill Saul are turning Engle's annual spring nightmare into just a "bad dream."

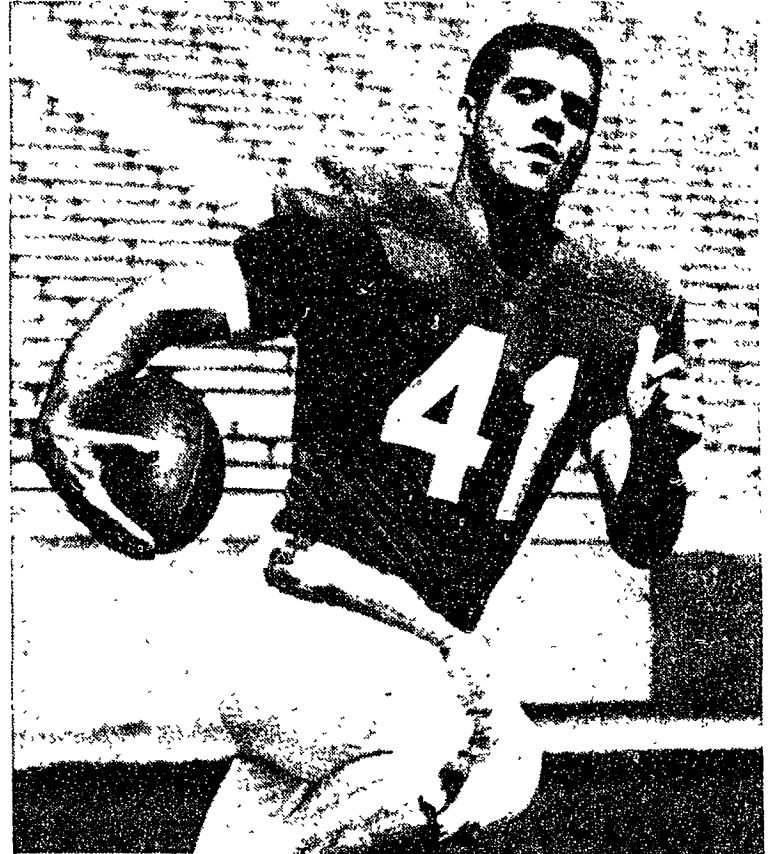

Hoak, a halfback for two years, has moved back to quarterback with such ease that he may challenge Galen Hall for the starting job come next fall.

Hoak was an all-state signal-caller in high school three years ago but was switched to halfback as a sophomore. He was good enough to start there last year, but the upcoming graduation of All-American Richie Lucas made his switch back to quarterback a necessity.

Saul, who must feel like a ping-pong ball after playing three different positions (end, center, guard) this year, has been a pleasant surprise to Engle and could hold down the number one left guard slot for the Liberty Bowl champs.

A natural athlete—he played basketball for the Lions last winter—Saul seems to have mastered the basic fundamentals of his position but he still needs a lot of seasoning at guard.

Wayne Berfield, who sat out last season with a broken arm, is giving Saul plenty of competition for the slot left open by big Bud Kohlhaas who'll play for the Montreal Alouettes next fall.

Engle also praised halfback Jim Kerr and end Bob Mitinger for their fine work this spring.

"A lot of boys have looked good, but Kerr and Mitinger have looked just a little better," Engle said. "Mitinger has been especially brilliant on defense and his offensive work improves daily."

Only a sophomore, Mitinger has improved rapidly since the beginning of the 1959 campaign. He broke into the starting lineup near the close of the season and looked very strong on defense.

When it comes to tackle, where his three top men will graduate, Engle is not as optimistic because one of his top prospects, Jerry Farkas, has been hampered by a bad leg and hasn't been able to work at full speed.

The Lions wind up spring practice May 7 with the annual Blue-White game on Beaver Field.

Penn State opens its nine-game 1960 schedule Sept. 17 here against Boston University. That's the day the Lions dedicate their new 46,000 seat football stadium.

PGA TV Negotiations Under Way in Texas

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Negotiations were in progress yesterday on the possibility of live nationwide telecasts next year of most stops on the PGA golf tour.

The discussions were being held preliminary to Thursday's opening of the $35,000 Houston Classic.

Two TV producer groups met Sunday and yesterday with the executive committee of the International Golf Sponsors Assn. The sponsor group currently represents promoters of 24 PGA co-sponsored tournaments.
