torian, and Ronald Reinhart, class salutatorian, will give addresses at the event.

Sporting events, too, will fill the day. A track meet with Michigan is scheduled for 1 p.m. at Beaver Field. A baseball game with Maryland will take place at 2:30 p.m. After the track meet, the Annual Blue-White football game will be played on Beaver Field.

Both men's and women's dormitories will hold open houses from 2 to 5 p.m. today and from 1 to 5 p.m. tomorrow. Fraternities will follow a similar program. Parents will be invited to visit the houses, to attend parties, and to join the groups for dinners.

A modern dance concert will be presented at 8 tonight in White Hall. "The Sleeping Prince," an adult fairy tale, will be given by the Penn State Players tonight at 8 p.m. in Schwab. A movie, "Penn State's Traditions," will be shown tomorrow afternoon from 3 to 3:30 p.m. in the HUB assembly room.

In addition to the sporting events, plays, concerts, and open houses, breakfasts sponsored by both independent and sorority groups will be held on Sunday morning for parents.

All independents and their parents have been invited to the AIM-Leonides breakfast from 9:45 to 11 a.m. tomorrow in Simmons Lounge.

Completing the busy schedule, this weekend are church services tomorrow morning. Speaking at 10:55 a.m. in Schwab is Dr. Edmund A. Steimle, professor of practical theology from Mt. Airy Lutheran Seminary. Mass for Roman Catholics will be offered at 9 a.m. in Schwab and at Our Lady of Victory Church.

900 Tickets Remain For Kuerti Concert

Over 700 student and 200 non-student tickets remain for the last Artist Series of the semester to be presented by Anton Kuerti, 26-year-old pianist, at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday in Schwab.

The University Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Theodore Karhan, associate professor of music, will accompany Kuerti in Beethoven's Concerto No. 4.

The young pianist will also present a workshop at 3:15 p.m. Tuesday in Schwab. No tickets will be required.

Tuesday's concert will open with the University Symphony which will play "Prelude to Loreley" by Max Bruch and "Symphony No. 3 in F Major, Opus 76" by Anton Dvorak.

Following intermission, Kuerti will play "Fantasia in G Minor, Opus 77" by Beethoven and "Sonata, Opus 1" by Berg.

The program will conclude with the Beethoven concerto.

Kuerti, the 1957 winner of the coveted Edgar M. Leventritt Foundation Award, started his star-studded career less than a score of years ago when as a five-year-old he approached his kindergarten teacher and asked to be given piano lessons.

His dubious parents finally agreed to give the child a month's trial lessons, and from this doubtful beginning arose the amazing young pianist who bowed before thunderous applause and a standing ovation in Carnegie Hall in October, 1957.

This performance with the New York Philharmonic Orchestra was less than four weeks after he won the Leventritt award. Every New York music critic praised his performance of Mendelssohn's G Minor Concerto.

The Viennese-born artist, who finds time in his busy career to enjoy mountaineering, tennis and photography, came to this country with his parents when he was four. He has travelled extensively throughout the United States and Europe in his concert tours.

Five Groups Enter Resident Quartet Contest

Five men's residence hall quartets entered the first All-University Hall Quartet Competition held in the Hetzel Union assembly room last night.

The pioneering groups participating in the contest were the "Differentials" from West Halls, first place winners; the "Summer-tones" from North Halls, second place winners; the Nittany 27 "Outcasts," third place winners; the Nittany 28 quartet, and the "Feeble 4" from West Halls.

The medals were awarded to the winning quartets by Dean Leroy S. Austin.

Theodore Paulaski, president of Thespians, was master of ceremonies to a near capacity crowd. In addition to the quartet competition, the audience was entertained by the Air Force R.O.T.C. Glee Club.

Wayne Page, recreation consultant, said that the dean of men's office hopes to make the Men's Residence Hall Quartet Competition a Penn State tradition.

Pollock Steering Committee

All men who will be living in Pollock Halls in the fall are eligible for the Pollock Halls Steering Committee.

Application forms are now available at the HUB desk.

Beaver Field Site Of Drill Competition

The seventh annual Mother's Day Drill Team Competition will take place at 2 p.m. tomorrow at the old Beaver Field.

Teams from the Army, Navy and Air Force ROTC units and from the Pershing Rifles will compete for the Milton S. Eisenhower trophy. This is a rotating trophy that is given to the winner of the meet for one year and can be won permanently by a team which wins the meet three times in a row.

The Pershing Rifles have won this trophy for the last two years. This year for the first time, a trophy will also be presented to the winner of each of the two phases of the meet, trick and standard drill.

The Navy, the Pershing Rifles and the Air Force participated last month at the Cherry Blossom Festival in Washington, D.C. The Navy placed eighth, the Pershing Rifles, ninth, and the Air Force was a strong contender, which has heightened the competition among the three groups.

Last year at the Cherry Blossom Festival the Navy placed sixth, the Pershing Rifles, seventh, and the Pershing Rifles won the Mother's Day Meet.

This year the Army will have a team entered in the competition for the first time.

Service judges for the competition will be Capt Arthur L. Stewart Jr., Marine officer from the Ceremonial Guard Company of Washington, D.C.; Maj. De Witte C. Gordon, Air Force officer from the Air Force Ceremonial Squadron, Bolling Air Force Base, Washington, D.C.; and Maj. Harry A. Houston, senior advisor to the army reserve unit in State College. Charles J. Smith, associate professor of civil engineering at the University, will act as honorary judge.

The competition will be free. The meet will be held in the ice rink in case of rain.

Biddle to Give Speech At Wagner Dedication

Maj. Gen. A. J. Drexel Biddle, adjutant general of Pennsylvania, will speak at the dedication of the Wagner Building on May 26.

The building, constructed by the General State Authority at a cost of nearly $1,200,000, will provide facilities for the Army, Navy and Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps programs.

It was named for the late Lt. H. Edward Wagner of Harrisburg, who prior to his graduation from the University in 1941 was an honor student and a student leader. He entered the Army in 1941, went overseas with the 507th Parachute Infantry Regiment and was killed in action in France on June 28, 1944.

The building provides three floors for classrooms and offices, a floor at ground level that will be utilized largely for supply rooms and storage and a one-story laboratory building where heavy ordnance equipment will be located.

A. J. Caruso, executive director of the General State Authority, will make the formal presentation of the building to the University. James B. Long, president of the Board of Trustees, will deliver the speech of acceptance.

Other participants in the program will be Karl B. Wagner of Austin, Texas, a brother of the late Lt. Wagner; Maj. Gen. J. C. Frank, U.S. Army Reserve Center, Harrisburg; and Dr. Eric A. Walker, president of the University.
