

Lipp Defines Residents' Authority

By AMY ROSENTHAL

Junior residents will not have the power to discipline students or take care of behavioral problems, Dorothy J. Lipp, dean of women, said in an interview yesterday.

She said that they would serve to send student opinions and complaints to graduate counselors and to act as a liaison between the staff and the students.

They will also, she said, provide activities for those who want something to do.

When asked if the activities would be compulsory she said, "If anybody wants to be left alone, we will let them."

Dean Lipp said that if a junior resident thought she could help a girl with a problem she could try to talk to her but that handling behavioral problems was basically the duty of the graduate counselor.

When asked if perhaps she would consider the idea of only having junior residents for the freshmen to try the system out, she replied that this has already been done with a resident in the West Halls and one in the South Halls. These two girls, she said, had organized a West Hall chorus, a baton twirling unit, a program of cha-cha lessons and freshman mixers in the beginning of the semester.

"The girls we will accept for junior residence hall positions," she said, "will be those who will not be too busy, those who get at least average grades and those who get along with people."

"We do not want girls for the program," she said, "who want to discipline and exercise authority over others."

LIFE

LEADING THE LIFE OF LYNDON

Deep in the heart of Texas while other Democrats are shaking hands and kissing babies in the primaries, Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson is taking a well-earned vacation on his 400-acre "L.B.J." ranch.

MARGARET AND TONY

The indistinct filming and distant glimpses of Princess Margaret's wedding which many of you saw on TV last weekend come sharply into focus in Life's on-the-scene cover story.

Seems like all of Britain was present to watch the nation's sweetheart being given in marriage, including Tony's father and all three of his wives plus his charwoman. Life's shots also show the much-debated wedding gown, the wedding party with its lucky little bridesmaids, amusing sideline scenes and the happy couple at last aboard the royal yacht Britannia for a six-week Caribbean cruise.

IN THE BONDS

The sisters of Sigma Alpha Theta of Long Island U. were in for a treat when they made Mrs. Marjorie Merriweather Post May, who donated large gifts to their college, a member of their sorority.

Mrs. May, heiress to the Post cereal fortune, invited the girls for a weekend whirl in her 34-room Georgian mansion. Like a true sorority sister, she provided them with 24 blind dates for a cocktail and dinner party. The girls were flown from New York in a private plane just in time for a luncheon served by liveried footmen. At the dance they sported corsages—courtesy of Mrs. May. Sounds good to us . . . wonder if Mrs. Kellogg would consider a bid?

PLIGHT OF PILOT POWERS AND PARIS SUMMIT

By now we're all aware of Nikita's latest noise concerning the U.S. aircraft, the U-2. The Kremlin leader's explosive reaction is expected to color the Paris summit meeting right from its beginning next week.

Life's article contains pictures of pilot Francis Powers, his wife and parents, Khrushchev denouncing the U.S. before the Supreme Soviet and happily displaying a fatal photo which he says is an enlargement of a picture made by the U-2 of a Russian military target.

PREXY ON PAGE 46

In the May 16 issue our own Prexy Eric Walker appears in the World's Week. Sinatra and Elvis make a swingin' team while the American Bandstand idol is accused of Clarkoyla. Lucky day at Penn State marks the beginning of Senior Ball weekend . . . have fun.

PAINTINGS IN PITTSBURGH

Pittsburgh Penn Staters may be familiar with art-collecting millionaire G. David Thompson from their city. Amid his six million dollar collection of moderns, Thompson is featured in this week's issue.

Sounding a little like an enthusiastic AAH professor, he points out the values in Laurens, Paul Klee and Maitlo. To Pittsburgh, however, his taste in art is "odd if not downright crazy." The steel city recently turned down his offer of the entire collection plus his house as a museum.
