

Lion Netters Win Third, 9-0, Over West Virginia

By JOHN MORRIS

"Too bad it didn't keep raining," sighed one West Virginia tennis player as he walked off the Nittany courts yesterday after watching Penn State completely dominate the hapless Mounties for a 9-0 shut-out.

The matches were slightly delayed at the start by a shower and interrupted during the singles by another downpour. But the Lions (3-7) managed to get enough matches in to send Ruel Foster's Mountaineers scurrying back to Morgantown without even winning a set.

Lion captain Jerry Carp started the Nittanians on their winning ways with a convincing win over Mountie sophomore Bill Schaeffer, 6-4, 6-2.

Schaeffer took over the number one slot for West Virginia in the absence of Dan Taylor, the only returning letterman. Taylor, a dental student, was unable to make the trip because of classes.

Sophomore Jim Baker looked sharp again, trouncing Boyd Warner, 6-2, 6-0, to boost his record to 5-5 for the season.

Warner confused Baker momentarily with his left handed slices, but the fiery Lion quickly mastered Warner's game and was practically untouchable in the second set.

Lion coach Sherm Fogg started Johnny Blanck in the third slot and the classy junior came through with an easy 6-1, 6-0, win over Don Conaway. Blanck was in control all the way and took less than an hour to score his sixth win against four losses.

The fourth match pitted lanky Leon Garry Moore and senior Ken Varner. Moore, playing only his second singles match of the year, used a strong net game to take a 6-2, 6-1, victory.

Vance Rea returned to the singles lineup after a two-meet layoff and coasted to a 6-0, 6-2, win in the fifth match. Rea was pitted against Mountie junior Dick Gilson and came up with an assortment of lobs and cuts that had Gilson slipping and sliding on the soggy courts. Fogg gave the nod to sophomore John Coldren in the sixth match and he responded with a 6-2, 6-1, win over Don Martin. The Lions swept the doubles as Fogg gave everyone a chance to play. Cornell Hosts Lions In Golf Meet Today

The Penn State golf team, heading for another winning season, will be after victory number seven this afternoon when the Lions meet Cornell in Ithaca, N. Y.

Coach Joe Boyle's linksmen bested the Big Red last year on their way to a 6-3 season and a second-place finish in the EIGA tourney.

The Lions took third in this year's tournament, and have lost only to Penn after suffering losses to Maryland and Georgetown in a season-opening triangular meet.

Today the Nittanians will be facing a Cornell team that has played only three matches. They have a 1-2 record with losses to Syracuse and Colgate and a win over St. Lawrence.

The Lions beat Syracuse, 5-2, earlier in the campaign and go against Colgate in the season's finale next week.

Senior captain Dick Burgoon retains his number one spot in the Nittany lineup for today's meet. He will probably face either Barry Warner or Dave Dawson.

Warner, a sophomore, and senior Dawson have been battling it out for the number one slot all year, and either man could get the call to face Burgoon.

Big Bob Devine is the second man in the Nittany order. Devine was a disappointment in the EIGAs, but came back with a 74 in the Bucknell meet.

Boyle will probably go with steady Roy Altman in the third spot. Not blessed with the size necessary for a good long game, Altman is deadly around the greens. He reached his peak this year when he was one of 16 qualifiers for the EIGA finals.

Either senior Ed Kormos or junior John Morton will follow Altman in the lineup. Both are consistent swingers and boast good iron games.

Sixth man Haydn Thomas

and seventh man Bob Rutherford round out the Lion lineup.

Burgoon, Altman, Kormos, Morton and Thomas are all lettermen while Devine and Rutherford are in their first year of regular varsity action.

Home Run Production Down

NEW YORK (AP)—Major league home run production for 1960 shows a 10 per cent decline from 1959, an Associated Press survey disclosed yesterday.

All American League clubs except the New York Yankees are trailing last year's total.

The National League has 208 home runs compared to 151 for the American which started a week later. The aggregate of 359 is 41 less than was hit in the same number of games in 1959.

Although they've played in the fewest games, the Milwaukee Braves head the senior circuit with 30 homers. San Francisco and Pittsburgh are next with 29 each followed by St. Louis and Philadelphia.

The Giants, Cincinnati Reds, Los Angeles Dodgers and Chicago Cubs are behind their totals of last season.

The Yankees, leading the American League with 25 homers, are six ahead of last year.

Milwaukee paced the majors last season with 177 homers. Cleveland led the American League with 167.
