WSGA Calls For Senate Consideration Of Apartment Rule

By ANN PALMER

WSGA Senate voted last night to delete the ruling which allows women, with special permission, to visit men's apartments. Their vote is pending a University Senate ruling or a policy stated by the dean of women's office to clarify the matter.

The deletion will go into effect as soon as the ruling or policy called for by the motion is substituted.

Investigation Committee Established

SGA Assembly will consider appointments to be made to the SGA Special Investigation Committee at their meeting tonight.

This committee, according to SGA President Richard Haber, would serve as a fact-finding board. Haber said the committee would investigate such things as the influence of Lion's Paw on student government and such problems as arose during the last election when former University party chairman James "Tim" Nelligan was accused of offering an election fix.

Former Campus party chairman, John Brandt, related a conversation between him and Nelligan in which Nelligan offered a trade of fall elections for spring elections.

When questioned about this, Nelligan said: "I was really trying to find out John's party's strength. I would never throw an election."

Haber also said that the committee could investigate charges made by Assemblyman James Kridel (C.-Jr.) that John Brandt was unauthorized to become party chairman.

Brandt then the treasurer took over the chairmanship when the party chairman and vice chairman resigned before the spring elections.

Elizabeth Ingley, junior in arts and letters from Port Washington, N.Y., will be proposed as a member of the committee.

Miss Ingley said last night that the committee would investigate facts behind accusations, but would not propose a solution. She said people who wish to make facts known can come before the committee.

Rule 2-B in the Women's Rules now states that women students are permitted to visit apartments or private areas of living quarters occupied solely by men if they have parental approval and special permission of a residence hall staff member.

This ruling was in direct conflict with a policy of the dean of men's office which holds that men cannot entertain women in their apartments.

It was the feeling of WSGA that the women's ruling on this matter should be combined with the men's in the Senate Regulations. This opinion was backed for it would comply with the community living concept, bringing the two parties involved into clear agreement.

In other business, a committee was formed to organize a statement of WSGA's basic ideas on what the duties and areas of jurisdiction of both WSGA and the community councils in the new living plan should be.

It was felt that tentative but concrete ideas should be set down and publicized before the end of the semester to reduce possible confusion in the fall.

The committee, chaired by Lil Davenport, will draw up this plan and submit it to WSGA Senate for correction and approval next Wednesday night.

Approved copies will be sent to the Senate Committee for Student Affairs, the dean of women and the dean of men for consideration.

WSGA decided on this action to correct the "poor communications" which have recently caused "misunderstanding" between student groups and the administration.

Sunshine to Return

Today will be sunny and warmer with afternoon temperatures reaching the upper 70's.

Partly cloudy and milder weather is in prospect for tonight with an expected low temperature of 56 degrees.

Partly cloudy, warmer and more humid weather is due tomorrow with evening showers.

Russia Asks UN To Act on Flights

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — The Soviet Union brought the U2 spy plane case to the United Nations last night, declaring American flights over Soviet soil threatened world peace.

The Russians demanded urgent action by the UN Security Council to stop all such flights.

In Paris this week President Eisenhower said the flights over the U.S.S.R. had been ordered stopped as of last Thursday.

The Soviets move to the United Nations from Paris as the arena of Premier Nikita Khrushchev's loud protests came quicker than American and other diplomats had expected.

In effect the Russians beat the United States to the draw here.

The announcement of the Soviet maneuver came as diplomatic sources disclosed U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge is going to Washington for urgent weekend conferences with President Eisenhower on the U.S. course now in the UN.

Diplomatic informants said the Washington talks would prepare Lodge's presentation of an Eisenhower plan for international aerial surveillance in the wake of the summit-wrecking U2 incident.

The United States was reported planning to call next week for a meeting of the UN Security Council to consider Eisenhower's proposal.

Khrushchev had threatened to request consideration of the U2 case here but had been expected to wait until his return from the Paris summit via Communist East Germany to Moscow.

Earlier yesterday, Khrushchev denounced Eisenhower anew, calling him a thief and thundering about the dead summit conference.

Before 2000 newsmen from East and West, Khrushchev suggested it might be well to take alleged American aggressors "by the scruff of the neck" and "give them a little shaking."

Khrushchev blamed the President for the summit collapse, blasted his policy on intelligence flights, accused him of deceit and called a "fishy" friend.

He asserted that the U2 spy plane incident, on which Eisenhower ignored his demands for an apology and punishment of the responsible Americans, convinced the Russians that the Berlin problem must be approached with "resolve and urgency."

AIM Board Finds Over $45 Missing

By JERRIE MARKOS

The AIM Board of Governors last night converted itself into an investigation committee to discuss the disappearance of $45.75 from a cabinet in the AIM office.

The money was placed in the cabinet by Earl Gershenow, secretary of AIM, George Henning, president of the West Halls Council and Ann Farley, a member of Leonides. The key with which the cabinet was locked is also missing, according to Gershenow.

The alleged theft supposedly took place between May 7 when the money was deposited and Tuesday evening when the cabinet was again officially opened to prepare the funds for the AIM meeting last night.

During the heated investigation, Gershenow offered to replace the funds himself since he felt it was partly through his negligence that the money was made accessible to the alleged thief.

However, the Board of Governors unanimously voted to replace the money, which was part of the banquet fund, by taking the missing sum from the AIM Sinking Fund. This fund was set up by a previous AIM council to provide for emergencies and to buy equipment for the AIM office.

Gershenow felt it was an appropriate time, in view of the recent incident, to report the petty theft of post cards and paper from the AIM-Leonides office. He asked members to be more careful when working in the office.

In other business the Board voted to change the date of the Indie Encampment from Orientation weekend to Sunday, Oct. 9. The Encampment will officially begin a week of independent activities—Indie Week.

The Board also voted to invite all orientation counselors and members of the dean of men's and dean of women's staffs to their annual Dink Debut, Sept. 16.

Independents To Rent Suite In McElwain

An independent group of about 40 girls will be renting the present Kappa Alpha Theta sorority suite in McElwain Hall next year, Otto E. Mueller, head of the Department of Housing, said yesterday.

It was previously announced that an independent group was asking for the use of a suite, but the final decision had not been made.

They will pay the regular fee of $850 a year for the use of the suite. The girls have all been assigned to rooms located around or near the suite, Mueller said.

Theta Phi Alpha and Alpha Omicron Pi sororities will also be occupying suites in McElwain. Beta Sigma Omicron, Triopus, and Delta Phi Epsilon (which is presently Chi Lambda) will be located in Simmons Hall.

Three Students Dismissed for Thefts

By LYNNE CEREFICE

Three students guilty of severe shoplifting charges were dismissed from the University by the Senate Sub-Committee on Discipline this week.

The majority of 12 student cases reviewed by the committee during the past two weeks has involved shoplifting and check-forging of a serious nature, according to Le Roy Austin, associate dean of men.

Two of the six major shoplifting cases concerned the theft of firearms. Other offenses included: creating a public disturbance, disorderly conduct, the violation of drinking regulations, forgery, fraud and abusive disrespect of a patrolman.

Two sophomores were found guilty of substantial shoplifting and dismissed from the University. Another fourth semester student in education, guilty of the same charges, was suspended until June 1961.

The three other shoplifting cases involved freshmen. One of the students guilty of check-forging was dismissed from the University. The other two were suspended, one until February 1961, the other for an undecided period of time.

Three second semester students were responsible for causing disturbances with firecrackers. Two were placed in disciplinary probation, one for the remainder of the semester and the other until February 1961. The third student was placed on probation with the dean of men's office effective immediately through his fourth semester.

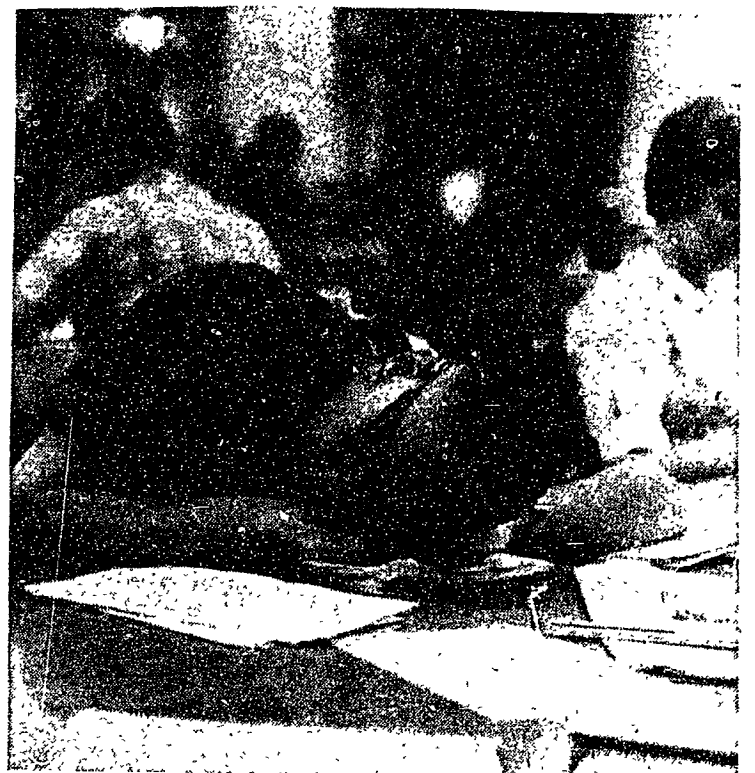

Two more second semester students were given suspended suspension, one for the remainder of the semester and the other until February 1961.

One was found guilty of violating the University drinking regulations, while the other was charged with disorderly conduct in a residence hall. The second student was also placed in disciplinary probation until June 1961.

One eighth semester student will have his degree withheld indefinitely for writing fraudulent letters to a prospective employer.

A second eighth semester student, charged with being disrespectful to a campus patrolman, was placed on disciplinary probation for the remainder of the semester.

Many of the students involved in these cases had received previous disciplinary penalties. The dean of men's office expressed alarm over the increasing disciplinary problems. Additional shoplifting cases will be brought to the office next week, Dean Austin said.
