'60 Students Award Classmate Honors

Eighteen seniors were selected for special honors by the Class of '60. The honors were announced at Senior Class Day exercises, held last month.

The seniors were chosen for the honors in a special election. Each was presented with a miniature replica of the Nittany Lion Shrine.

Leonard Julius of West Palm Beach, Fla., was selected men's class donor, and Nancy Clark of Paoli was voted women's class donor. This honor is based on contributions to the class and the University and on popularity.

Remaning awards and the recipients are:

Bow Girl, Jessie Janjigian, Kingston, for scholarship activities and personality.

Slipper Girl, Helen Skade, Summit, N.J., for popularity among classmates.

Mirror Girl, Ellen Butterworth, Allentown, for most humorous of outstanding senior women.

Fan Girl, Marjorie Miller, Bryn Mawr, for beauty.

Lamp Girl, Sherry Parkin, State College, for woman most likely to contribute to the University after commencement.

Scepter Women, Carol Frank, Pittsburgh; Mary Ann Ganter, Bethel Park; Dorothy Newman, Philadelphia; for contributions to the class and participation in activities.

Spoon Man, Steven Ott, Westfield, N.J., for scholarship, activities and personality.

Barrel Man, Richard Lucas, Glassport, for top male athlete in the senior class.

Cane Man, Lawrence Byers, New Oxford, for popularity.

Pipe Man, Vincent Marino, Clearfield, for most humorous senior man.

Torch Man, Theodore Haller, Bradford, for man most likely to contribute to the University after commencement.

Mace Men, Patrick Botula, Pittsburgh; William Jaffe, Philadelphia; and Samuel Minor, Carmichaels, for contributions to the University before commencement.

A special award was made to Martin Leshner, chairman of the class day committee. He was named permanent secretary of the Class of '60.

Senior Class Day was held on Mother's Day weekend this year instead of the usual time on the day before graduation. It replaced the discontinued May Day exercises.

Highway Construction May Delay Class Gift

Construction on the Class of '60 gift, an entrance way for Beaver Stadium, may be delayed by work on a four-lane by-pass of State College.

Theodore Haller, class president, said that specific details of the highway's route are not yet known. The class gift would serve as an entrance to the stadium from the bypass, he explained, so that the location may even have a bearing on the actual design of the entrance way.

Haller presented a check for nearly $4000 to Dr. Howard A. Cutler, representing the University, during Senior Class Day ceremonies May 7.

No specific ideas have been drafted for the entrance way, Haller said. He will meet this weekend with officials of the Department of Physical Plant to decide on a definite idea.

"The amount of funds will naturally be a limiting factor," Haller said. The West Gate along Route 322 cost approximately $4000, but most of the cost went into an expensive finishing job, he added.

Use of a less expensive method of finishing might allow a much larger entrance way which would be needed to keep in the proportions of Beaver Stadium, Haller said.

Walter Wiegand, head of Physical Plant, outlined plans for preparing preliminary sketches to be presented to the administration for approval. Design fitness and cost would be the major considerations, he said. Once these are okayed, detailed drawings would be made and construction would begin. No completion date has been set.

More than $1200 was collected for the gift during registration last September. Additional contributions were made throughout the year. By previous agreement, President Eric A. Walker contributed—from a special fund—$2 for every $1 collected by the class to bring the total to nearly $4000.

Blanck New Captain

John Blanck of Manheim Township will captain the 1961 Penn State tennis team. He compiled a record of six victories and four defeats in the 1960 campaign.
