Phi Mu Delta Burns In Two-Alarm Fire

A two-alarm fire broke out late Saturday afternoon in the roof of the Phi Mu Delta fraternity house, located at 500 S. Allen St., causing severe damage to the third floor living quarters while the lower floors suffered smoke and water damage.

Senate Asks Allotments For Pattee

The University Senate passed a recommendation that a portion of the overhead from federal, State, and industrial research contracts be allocated to the Pattee Library, at its last meeting, June 2.

Presented by the Senate committee on research policy, these funds would be primarily used for the purchase of books and periodicals.

The recommendation also requests the administration find additional funds to provide for both an increase in the number of library books and periodicals as well as for an increase in the library staffs where needed.

At a meeting of the Liberal Arts faculty on May 12 a 28-page report was brought before the group pointing out the lack of adequate research facilities at Penn State in comparison with other universities.

The library report and the research policy recommendation presented to the Senate also state that the Pattee Library has been refused admission to the Association of Research Libraries.

New Library Schedule Shows Summer Changes

The following schedule has been announced for the Pattee Library.

During the Inter-Session, June 12 to July 3, the Library will be closed each Sunday. Monday through Thursday, it will be open from 7:50 a.m. to 9 p.m. Friday from 7:50 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

During the Mid-Session the Library will be open from 2 to 10 p.m. on Sundays as well as the rest of the schedule listed above.

The fire, halted by the Alpha firemen, is believed to have been caused by faulty electrical wiring and the damage is estimated at several thousand dollars.

The fire interrupted preparations for the wedding reception of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Sweetland. Their multi-tiered wedding cake was among one of the first items to be carried from the burning house.

Paul Sweetland, a member of Phi Mu Delta and a Penn State basketball star, and his wife, the former Elaine Baker, both had graduated from Penn State at commencement exercises earlier that day.

Thick smoke at first halted the firemen in their fight and brought them back down the ladders gasping for oxygen masks. But the fire-opened roof at last gave them a direct entrance to the flames, centered in the small attic area between the third floor and the roof.

The aerial ladder was then quickly shifted to the parking lot to the rear of the house and the flames were attacked from directly overhead. Auxiliary hoses played a steady stream of water through the north and south attic windows.

As flames and smoke poured out of the building, chairs, mattresses, books, and dresser drawers were hastily thrown from the second-story windows. Passersby and neighbors joined the fraternity members and firemen in helping to save the furniture.

Parents who had only a few hours earlier had proudly taken pictures of their sons in Commencement robes before the fraternity house, again took pictures of the burning house. Losses of personal items were at a fraction of what they would have been a week or so before when all the members of the house were present, many parents noted thankfully.

Fraternity members still living in the house were given rooms in other fraternity houses. The wedding reception for Mr. and Mrs. Paul Sweetland was held later in the evening at the Wesley Foundation of St. Paul's Methodist Church.

Crowds Gather to Meet Eisenhower in Manila

MANILA (AP) — Filipinos were gathering to give President Eisenhower a bright welcome today on the typhoon-season Asian tour that threatens him with a political storm in Japan.

Police estimated two million or more will line banner-bedecked streets by the time Eisenhower, the first U.S. President to visit the Far East, reaches Manila.

There was no advance indication of anything to mar a rousing reception here, though the weather had been acting up. Heavy showers Sunday night and yesterday reminded Manilans that a wet period is at hand.

President Carlos P. Garcia said he expects Eisenhower's three-day visit to "fortify and uplift the spirit of free nations in this part of the world."

Garcia urged citizens of the Philippines, a former U.S. colony that was given independence in 1946, to welcome him "in the best tradition of Filipino hospitality."

Filipinos are pro-American almost to a man and they needed no urging.

They poured in from the provinces by the thousands to this city of two million even before Eisenhower took off from Alaska on the tour taking him to the Philippines, Formosa, Okinawa, Japan and South Korea.

The schedule called for Eisenhower and Garcia to make the 10-mile ride from the airport to Malacanang Palace, the Philippines' sprawling wood and stucco White House, in an open car. It is expected that this drive, between cheering throngs and beneath triumphal arches, will take more than an hour.

Some opposition political forces grumbled that the Eisenhower visit will boost the Filipino President's bid for re-election in stiff campaigning of 1961. Eisenhower's stop here is considered a prestige builder for the Philippines and some of the prestige obviously will rub off on Garcia.

About 200 Alaskans braved a cold wind to see Eisenhower off from Anchorage. The President reviewed a military honor guard with Lt. Gen. Frank A. Armstrong Jr., commander of the armed forces in Alaska. He went down a receiving line and shook hands with other military officers.

En route here the President crossed the international date line, which turned Monday into Tuesday. He will get his day back when he returns via Hawaii June 22.

Students Must Register Cars With Patrol

All students who have automobiles within the confines of Centre County must register them at the Campus Patrol Office in Spruce Cottage. Failure to do so will result in a $25 fine according to the latest University traffic regulations which went into effect this week.

If the student operates his vehicle in Centre County but not on campus there is no fee for registration.

In order to obtain a sticker allowing him to drive on campus, he must pay a registration fee. Operating a vehicle on campus without this sticker is punishable by a $25 fine.

The registration fee applies to undergraduate and graduate students. Graduate assistants, although subject to the same rules and regulations, are exempt from the registration fee.

The schedule of fees for the summer sessions calls for a fee of $1 for a 3-week session or $2 for a 6-week session for registration. Students wishing to obtain parking permits on campus must pay a fee of $1 per week which will include both the registration and parking costs.

Income from the fees, according to Albert E. Diem, vice president for business administration, will be used to help maintain parking areas and traffic control on the campus.

THAT OLD FAMILIAR LINE—Just two days after 2683 students departed Alma Mater with diplomas in hand, a new line waited to struggle through the line they hope will eventually lead to a sheepskin. Students registered for both inter-session and the first six-week summer session yesterday at Rec Hall.
