Concert Set For Schwab On Thursday

Several hundred student tickets remain for the Claude Frank concert Thursday in Schwab Auditorium.

Frank, a rising young pianist, will present works by Beethoven, Schubert and Schumann for his program which begins at 8:30 p.m.

Students may pick up free tickets for the concert from 9 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 5 p.m. until Thursday at the desk in the main lobby of the Hetzel Union Building. Students must present their matriculation cards.

The sale of tickets to non-students began at 9 a.m. today and will continue until 5 p.m. tomorrow. The tickets cost $1.25.

Frank will open his concert with Three Impromptus, opus 142 by Schubert. He will play Beethoven's Sonata in A Flat Major, opus 110.

Following the intermission, he will play selections from Carnaval, opus 9 by Schumann.

Frank, like the Russian born violinist Isaac Stern, is considered a major American pianist although he was actually born in Germany in 1925.

Shortly before the outbreak of World War II, the Frank family fled to France where Claude entered school and resumed his music studies. When Hitler marched into France, the Franks marched over the Pyrenees to Spain.

In Madrid, Frank practiced five hours a day on a music store piano where someone overheard him and suggested he play at a party given by the Brazilian ambassador. The American ambassador was at the party and with his influence, the Franks were able to get visas for the United States.

In 1948, Frank joined the faculty of Bennington College in Vermont and was appointed to the assistant conductorship of New York's Desoff Choirs.

Since he made his New York debut with Toscanini's NBC Symphony, he has played throughout North America and Europe as a recitalist.

He makes annual European tours — the most recent in the spring of 1959. This tour was highlighted by a debut with the Royal Philharmonic Orchestra in London.

Kennedy Will Win Nomination At Convention Silva Predicts

Dr. Ruth C. Silva, an acknowledged expert in political analysis predicts that Massachusetts senator John F. Kennedy will be nominated as the Democratic candidate for President at the party's convention in Los Angeles.

Dr. Silva, associate professor of political science, believes Kennedy's margin of victory in the West Virginia primary elections demonstrated his popularity with the voters.

If the Democrats fail to nominate him, she said, it would be at the peril of losing the Catholic vote.

Catholics might consider it an affront if Kennedy were not nominated, she explained, and the party could not afford to lose these votes.

She noted that the recent U-2 spy plane incident may change the nomination picture somewhat, but added that she could not predict what effect it would have on the nomination until public opinion about it was better crystallized.

Stevenson's public comments about the administration's handling of the incident and his expressed policy toward the Soviet Union may make the U-2 incident either a help or a hindrance to him in his bid for the nomination, she said.

The incident may at the same time affect Kennedy's chances at the convention, depending on how well the public feels the administration has handled the incident, according to Dr. Silva.

Mr. Beam said that preference will be given to children who have had little or no foreign language instruction and that the children will attend classes that will meet at 9 a.m., two or three times each week.

The purpose of the course is to acquaint those presently teaching German and those planning to teach German in the public schools with those techniques which will bring about a mastery of the German sound system, oral mastery of the basic structure of German as well as the ability to read and write.

In order to demonstrate desirable and effective techniques in teaching children the all-important initial phases of such instruction two demonstration classes will be conducted: a group about eight years of age and a junior high school age group. The demonstration classes will be conducted entirely in German.

A further aim of the course will be to acquaint language teachers with the latest thinking about the fine art of language teaching.

Special emphasis will be placed upon the contributions to modern language teaching theory by descriptive linguistics and cultural anthropology.

Students will be given an opportunity to examine critically the latest textbooks and the accompanying audio-visual aids prepared for elementary as well as junior and senior high school use. German language films, filmstrips, tapes and disc recordings will receive the same scrutiny.

Blames Communists For Japanese Riots

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower yesterday defended his globe-trotting personal diplomacy. He portrayed his trips as so successful "I would not hesitate a second" to venture abroad again in quest of world peace.

In a radio-TV report to the nation, Eisenhower blamed "Communist-inspired riots" for blocking his visit to Japan.

Carpenter Gets Florida U Plan Advisory Post

Dr. C. R. Carpenter, director of the division of academic research and services at the University, has been appointed to the advisory committee which will assist in the planning of a new state university in Florida. The University is to be built at Boca Raton.

Appointment of Dr. Carpenter, along with six other educators, was announced by the Florida State Board of Control. Others on the committee are: Chancellor Gordon Blackwell, Woman's College, University of North Carolina; John Ivey, Jr., president of the Educational Testing Service, Princeton, N.J.; Dr. Howard Phillips, president of Alabama College; Dr. Doak Campbell, president emeritus of Florida State University; and Dr. Meredith Wilson, president of the University of Oregon.

The Boca Raton institution is being planned to accommodate by 1970 some 17,000 students, virtually all juniors, seniors, and graduate students. It will be part of the Florida system of higher education, which includes a number of junior colleges in the Boca Raton area. Plans call for it to open in 1964.

Palladino Co-Authors Nuclear Reactor Article

A special 32-page report on nuclear power reactors by N. J. Palladino, professor and head of the department of nuclear engineering, and Harold L. Davis, associate editor of Nucleonics magazine, is featured in the June issue of that periodical.

But he said ratification of the new U.S.-Japanese Security Treaty—which the rioters sought to thwart—was "a signal defeat for international communism that far outweighs" the blocking of his visit.

Eisenhower reported he has no plans for further foreign journeys during the remaining months in the White House. But he made plain he would not be dissuaded by any Red-promoted opposition.

The United States must "never be bluffed, cajoled, blinded or frightened" by Red tactics aimed at splitting the free world, he said.

He declared the value of his visit to 27 countries since he took office in 1953 has been proved by what he said was a Communist decision some time ago to oppose his goodwill tours.

The President appealed to Americans not to allow "the unhappy events of the past several weeks in Japan" to impair U.S.-Japanese trade relations or weaken the friendship "which unites the vast majority of the Japanese and American people."

Eisenhower reported to the American people a day after returning from a two-week journey to the Philippines, Formosa, South Korea and U.S.-held Okinawa.

"We cannot win out against the Communist purpose to dominate the world by being timid, passive, or apologetic when we are acting in our own and the free world's interests," Eisenhower said. "We must accept the risks of bold action with coolness and courage."

"All the profit gained by past and any possible future trips by U.S. leaders will be quickly dissipated should we Americans abandon our present course in foreign relations or slacken our efforts in cooperative programs with our friends..."

NEDA Oath Rule May Be Repealed

By KAY MILLS

Collegian Washington Correspondent

Possible repeal of the controversial non-Communist affidavit in the National Defense Education Act of 1958 was begun by the Senate on June 15.

These affidavits are presently required from students getting government loans.

Hearings on a similar bill are now being held by the House of Representatives Subcommittee on Special Education of the Committee on Education and Labor.

The Senate bill, sponsored by John F. Kennedy (D.-Mass.) and Joseph S. Clark (D.-Pa.) also made it a crime to seek or receive these educational benefits while belonging to an organization dedicated in part to the overthrow of the United States government.

This provision was added in an amendment by Sen. Winston L. Prouty (R.-Vt.).

The oath of loyalty to the United States still remains in the act. Walker wrote a special letter to But, according to a United Press International report, an individual who within the past five years had belonged to a subversive organization still could legally apply for and perhaps receive a federal loan if he made a full written disclosure under oath of his past membership and knowledge of the organization's purpose.

Violators would be subjected to a $10,000 fine, five years in prison or both.

Twenty-one colleges and universities have refused to participate in the Federal Scholarship Program because of the affidavit; 110 other schools have expressed disapproval.

At Penn State, President Eric A. Walker wrote a special letter to Sen. Hugh Scott (R.-Pa.) asking for the repeal of the section de- (Continued on page two)
