

Radios May Handle Field Emergencies

What would happen if someone should keel over with a heart attack in the stands of new Beaver Field during an exciting game next fall?

Dr. Elwood F. Olver, director of the department of security believes that a new electronic device, ordered for delivery this summer, will answer that question.

Four General Electric 2-way radios, which weigh only 13 pounds each and combine the sturdy dependability of the army walkie-talkie and the lightness of the portable radio maybe the solution, Olver said.

The units will be carried by four first aid men who will be spotted in the stands of the 45,000-seat stadium. At the first sign of an emergency, the sound-wired aid men will call Harold O. Triebold, Jr., first aid leader.

Triebold, who heads a group of unpaid volunteer staff and faculty members from his central location under the stands, will be able to send the proper help, said Olver.

He said that the new units are a supplement to the 2-way police-type radio equipment. In addition, patrolmen have the pagemaster device that will send a signal when the headquarters station wants to call patrolmen.

The new 2-way electronic radios, whose built-in speakers will permit the patrolmen to hear incoming calls at all times, are designed to help the 24 regu-

FRIENDLY

Why not pleasantly surprise your date or wife and take her out to Duffy's this weekend? The surroundings are just like home — she'll love the rustic country flavor, which makes the food taste even better. Your favorite beverages are served.

TRADITION

Duffy's Tavern is a mere four miles from State College and it's worthwhile going out. You'll see why it has been a Penn State tradition for so many years. Don't be worried about dress, either — it's informal. Your as welcome as one of the family.

In lengthening "Middle of the Night," the movies did less damage than in other cases. Here they stuck closer to the story line and it proved to be the best film of the three.

In this week's production of "A Streetcar Named Desire" David Frank will have to work hard to match the performance of Marlon Brando as the animalistic Stanley Kowalski.

"Streetcar" will be reviewed by this paper on Friday.
