

Auto Crash Kills Coed Saturday

Betty Jo Cordell, 21-year-old senior in secondary education from Everett, was fatally injured in an automobile accident Saturday evening on Route 26, five miles north of that Bedford County community.

Miss Cordell suffered a fractured skull, broken right arm, internal injuries and severe shock when her car collided at 7:55 p.m. with one driven by William Wigfield, 32, of Everett.

After the crash, Miss Cordell's car rolled across a field and she was thrown from it.

She died at 12:20 Sunday morning in the Bedford County Memorial Hospital.

Wigfield, his wife and 2-year-old son were injured slightly.

Miss Cordell was driving alone at the time of the accident.

The exact cause of the accident, which happened in daylight under normal weather conditions on a wide two-lane highway, was unknown. But State Police said they questioned an unidentified driver of a third car said to have forced Miss Cordell's auto off the highway where it went out of control prior to the collision with the Wigfield car.

A graduate of Everett Southern high school, Miss Cordell was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cordell, Everett, RD2, and would have entered her senior year at the University next month.

Arena staging presents many problems to everyone concerned with a production, but they must be solved. One of the problems which has existed all season has not been overcome.

Because of the layout of the rehearsal room, which has a wall along one side of the playing area, the actors always favor the opposite where Max Fischer holds forth. This is carried over to the playhouse where the performers favor the patrons in the odd-numbered seats.

Osborn notes that research personnel at the University today does less testing and more fundamental research. He believes, therefore, that the research program has reached a good balance between fundamental research and applied research.
