Soviets Give U2 Pilot, Wife Unexpected Hour of Privacy

MOSCOW (AP) — A trust, arranged unexpectedly, has given Barbara and Francis Gary Powers more than an hour of privacy behind the closed door of his prison cell.

A surprise to both the U2 pilot and his 24-year-old wife, it happened Wednesday.

Barbara's lawyers disclosed yesterday this secret rendezvous of the couple, whose two previous meetings in Moscow were chaperoned by Soviet guards and interpreters.

"Barbara is much brighter now than we've seen her for some time," said attorney Frank Rogers of Roanoke, Va.

The Georgia brunette, who has written appeals to both Premier Nikita Khrushchev and President Leonid Brezhnev for a reduction of Powers' 10-year sentence for espionage, plans to head home today by way of Paris.

Happy about the prison cell meeting, she said: "We could talk freely. We were entirely alone for over an hour."

It was the first time they had been alone together since they parted in Adana, Turkey, about four months ago.

Powers did not describe the kind of work he will be doing, but has asked for heavy clothing and apparently expects outdoor duty.

dwellers need something.

We hear rumors that Graduate Hall is to be converted into offices. Pity! It's the only building on campus that has for its residents a feeling of warmth. Homey if you will. Homey with the creaky stairs, porch, the asthmatic washing machine and certainly not least our very own giako tree. We have our spirit as inherited by the process of time.

Hope this is just a rumor. Progress! Yes. Just leave the "Old Folk's Home."

Goddard to Inspect Flood Project Model

The state secretary of the department of forests and waters, Dr. M. K. Goddard, will visit the campus today for an official showing of a flood protection project model designed in the University's hydraulics laboratory.

The 60-foot long 1-50 scale model is part of a $1½ million project to protect the Lackawanna County community of Moosic from the periodic flooding of Spring Brook.

Sam Shulits, professor of civil engineering, supervised the building of the model.

Review-

Bishop's dramatic ability is seen as never before this season.

From his beginning as a person completely lost to his emergence as a man with an independent will, Bishop is excellent. His range of emotion—from the comedy he does so well to the most dramatic histrionics—are always right and convincing.

While working out his own problem, Jerry manages to solve some of Gittel's. Only this saves Bishop from being despised by the audience.

The pace of the evening is generally good and the play moves along. Only occasionally does it slow down, but this is only temporary.

The set, by Ann Keely, adds character and warmth to the production and the direction, by Max Fischer, is good. However, it is Gison's excellent play and Miss Bartoli's and Bishop's performances that make this the finest evening of theatre this summer.

2 Penn State Chessmen Compete in Tournament

Two Penn State students played in the United States Open Chess Tournament held in St. Louis last week. The two, Anthony Contone, of Philadelphia, and William Bragg, of Norman, Okla. finished with scores of 6-6.

Robert Byrne of Indianapolis, Indiana, won the tourney.

FRIENDLY

Why not pleasantly surprise your date or wife and take her out to Duffy's this weekend? The surroundings are just like home — she'll love the rustic country flavor, which makes the food taste even better. Your favorite beverages are served.

TRADITION

Duffy's Tavern is a mere four miles from State College and it's worthwhile going out. You'll see why it has been a Penn State tradition for so many years. Don't be worried about dress, either — it's informal. Your as welcome as one of the family.

Do you agree with Lincoln about government competing with its citizens?

Nearly a hundred years ago, Abraham Lincoln said, "In all that the people can individually do for themselves, government ought not to interfere."

That's an even more important issue today, when the U. S. government runs about 19,000 businesses. The electric light and power business is one example, where government has spent well over $5,000,000,000 of taxpayers' money to compete with its own people.

$10,000,000,000 more has been proposed for this purpose. That would be unnecessary spending—because the hundreds of independent electric light and power companies like yours are able and ready to supply all the low-price electricity people will need . . . and without depending on taxpayers' money.
